GLASSFORD'S 'ADS' OF FREE FOOD FOR VETERANS CURBED

Group in Congress Also Will Oppose $75,000 Relief.

MORE "ARMIES" START FOR CITY

Cleveland Rail Yard Is "Taken Over" by 2,000, Impatient.

Cleveland, June 3 (A.P.).—After futilely waiting several hours for a freight train which they hoped would take them to Pittsburgh, several hundred "bonus marchers" swarmed over the Pennsylvania yards tonight declaring they would stop all activity until their demands were met.

Some of the nearly 2,000 marchers forced about 30 shop men to quit work and stopped a switch engine which was making up trains.

Earlier the marchers had been promised they would not be prevented from boarding a freight train, but the train failed to pull into the yards.

The District Commissioners were prevailed upon yesterday by representatives of the House District appropriations subcommittee to curb the actions of Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, in "advertising that there is free food and shelter here" for the veterans who are pouring into Washington seeking payment of their bonus certificates.

The subcommittee at an informal meeting yesterday decided to oppose the bill of Senator Costigan (Democrat), of Colorado, to provide $75,000 for the care of the veterans, if it should reach the House. Objection was also unanimous that the provision of food and shelter for the veterans by Gen. Glassford, was the incentive for other veterans to make their way here.

Meanwhile, veteran armies from all sections of the country, composed of from 6,000 to 40,000 veterans were heading here.

A group of approximately 100 veterans from the far Western States debarked from a box car at University Station, Brookland, last night. They were sent on foot and in police vans to the camp at Anacostia.

Twenty-six Tennessee veterans came over Key Bridge in a truck yesterday afternoon and were also sent to the camp. About 400 veterans were reported last night to be stranded 9 miles from Baltimore.

Food Grows Scarcer.

Food is getting scarcer and contributions are coming in less frequently. Gen. Glassford estimates that he had enough food to last but a few days. So great has become the number of arrivals that hundreds of the 2,000 veterans estimated to be in the city, were compelled to sleep in the open, while a camp is under construction for them near Bolling Field.

Representative Wright Patman (Democrat), of Texas, the author of the $2,000,000,000 bonus-payment legislation, last night said, "I don't look with favor upon these bonus marches and I have told the veterans so." His petition to bring his bill before the House for a vote yesterday increased to 133 signatures. Only twelve more are required to bring the bill to the floor. He predicted that the additional twelve names would be on the petition today and that a vote would be taken by June 13.

Gen. Glassford yesterday an-

Mrs. Sterling Fails to Halt Bonus Group

Austin, Tex., June 3 (A.P.)—Mrs. Ross S. Sterling, wife of the Governor of Texas, made a motherly plea to unemployed World War veterans today against their plans for a march to Washington. It failed of its purpose, but the men listened with respect.

"I know you men are out of work and probably you are hungry," she said quietly from the porch of the governor's mansion. "But I cannot believe you can do any good in Washington.

"It is a long road up there and I am afraid you will be worse off than you are at home with your families."

Mrs. Sterling came out to address the veterans when she noted they had been halted on the front walk by Frank Hamer, ranger captain, with a protest, "There's no need of exciting the women folks."

"Send the boys up," she said.

Pat Viola, spokesman for the delegation, explained the veterans simply wished to speak to the governor. They mobilized at San Antonio, Tex., with demands for immediate payment of adjusted compensation certificates. Gov. Sterling appeared later.

"I am with you boys for almost everything you want," he said, "but I believe you are merely making matters worse."

Viola called a caucus. The marchers decided to go on. They headed for the railroad yards to catch a freight train North.

HINDENBURG IS MADE DICTATOR BY DECREE

Nazis Back Him as Reichstag Is Dissolved; Election Is Slated in 60 Days.

Berlin, June 3 (A.P.)—President Paul von Hindenburg became virtual dictator of Germany today with the apparent approval of Adolf Hitler and his stormy Nazis.

The formal action which put the veteran commander of the kaiser's imperial armies in the saddle was a decree he personally issued dissolving the Reichstag—a move which sidestepped certain veto of the new "titled" cabinet of Franz von Papen.

The dissolution, however, means that a general election will be mandatory within 60 days. It was indicated that the date would be set by emergency decree for some time late in July.

Such an election would give Hitler his chance to make good the claim that the Fascists could control the Reichstag if a general election were held. The last general election was in 1930, and the next normally would not come until 1934, but in recent state elections the Nazis proved they had a plurality in Prussia and elsewhere.

It is certain that when elections come, Germany, where the "sky's the limit" in such tests, will face one of the most bitter campaigns of her short Republican history. It will mean life or death for many small parties, and test the Nazi-Communist counter claims.

Meanwhile the cabinet which will never reach the present Reichstag continued its functions with the tacit consent and approval of the Nazis, who have no member on it.

HOUSE CAUCUS VOTES GARNER BILL SUPPORT

Democrats Are Bound by Action to Back Huge Relief Plan.

$100,000,000 DIRECT AID FUND IS UPHELD

Special Rule Will Be Used to Obtain Passage of Measure Tuesday.

(Associated Press.)

After wrangling for nearly four hours in caucus, Democrats last night bound themselves to shove the $2,320,000,000 Garner relief program through the House Tuesday.

The iron-bound rule of caucus was clapped on the majority party as President Hoover left for his mountain retreat in Virginia with plans to discuss over the week-end methods of bringing about a solution of the relief and fiscal problems of the Nation.

Determined to fight for substitution of the administration's relief program for the Democratic proposal, House Republicans are to confer Monday to lay their plans.

Meanwhile William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said in a statement more than 10,500,000 persons were out of employment in March and "are looking to Congress for help and work."

Secret Meeting.

The Democrats met behind closed doors in the House chamber and debated the advisability of giving President Hoover $100,000,000 to distribute in direct relief and other provisions of the bill calling for a gigantic public construction program and an increase to $3,000,000,000 in the capital of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

It was the first time since the Underwood tariff act was passed before the World War that the Democrats resorted to the caucus to secure a majority for legislation. The final vote to bind themselves was 123 to 18, but it came only after strenuous efforts of the Speaker's followers were made to marshal the necessary 111.

The action pledges 219 to vote for the bill against the 211 Republicans. Two Democrats, Representatives Rankin, of Mississippi, and Cannon, of Missouri, asked to be excused. There are one Farmer-Laborite and two vacancies in the House.

Action Set Tuesday.

The dissensions in the Democratic ranks and Republican opposition caused the leaders to abandon a tentative plan to bring the measure up under a suspension of the rules Monday, which would require a two-thirds

Jury in Nebraska Senate Race Trial Discharged

Lincoln, Nebr., June 3 (A.P.).—A Federal court jury which deliberated charges of perjury against Victor Seymour, former Republican leader, for more than 24 hours, reported tonight it was unable to agree and was discharged.

Seymour was accused of falsely testifying before a Senate campaign funds investigating committee that he had nothing to do with the entry in the 1930 Republican senatorial campaign of George W. Norris, former Broken Bow grocer, as a candidate against the senator of the same name.

Five Are Caught in Chase After Drug Store Robbery

Three Women and Two Men Seized Across District Line After Pursuit Marked by Gunfire; $400 Loot Obtained in Holdup.

Three women and two men who, according to police, robbed a chain drug store at Connecticut and Florida avenues of $400 at pistol point last night, were captured in Rosslyn, Va., by a Traffic Bureau policeman after they had been run to earth in a 5-mile chase through Georgetown, according to police.

Five shots were fired by the alleged bandits to discourage pursuit. One of the bullets was fired at the feet of a civilian who attempted to stop them when they got into a commandeered taxicab at the scene of the holdup, and the other four were aimed at drivers of a string of cars who joined in the chase.

J. Frank Gaffney, secretary to Representative J. J. Douglas, of Massachusetts, joined in the chase of the fleeing taxicab at the drug store. He said he was just getting into his car, parked near the drug store, when the two men ran from the place and joined their women companions. At Thirty-fifth and M streets northwest Mr. Gaffney said he pointed out the alleged bandits' cab to Private A. D. Clark, of the Traffic Bureau, on duty there. Clark was the arresting officer when the five were captured in Rosslyn.

Ray E. Taber, of 909 New Hampshire avenue northwest, driver of the taxicab in which the five escaped from the drug store, was being held by police at the Seventh Precinct Station while police checked on his story of the holdup.

The others held in connection with the case gave their names as Anthony Owens, 28, of 2136 K street northwest; William T. Hardy, 31, of 1307 H street northwest; Mary C. Canalier, 23, of 1202 Rhode Island avenue northwest; Corna V. Upperman, 26, of 2136 K street northwest,

23 Die as Earthquake Rocks South Mexico

Two Shocks Wreck Buildings and Crack Streets in Mexican Capital; Deaths Reported in Colima and Jalisco.

Mexico City, June 3 (A.P.).—At least 23 persons were killed and numerous others were injured today by a series of earthquakes felt throughout a large section of Mexico.

In the City of Guadalajara, capital of the State of Jalisco and second largest city in Mexico, 22 quakes were recorded during the day.

In the vicinity of Guadalajara 16 persons were known to be dead and 50 were injured. The populace was in terror all day long. The State of Colima reported seven known dead and at least 25 injured. It was feared the casualties would be much higher. One quake there lasted seven minutes and damage was heavy.

Mexico City itself suffered considerable damage, several small buildings being toppled over. In downtown streets numerous cracks were caused.

Alarm was caused by the fact that no report came from Oaxaca, where ordinarily earthquakes cause much damage.

The epicenter of the disturbance, according to government seismologists, probably was some 400 miles southwest of the capital, probably along the line between Oaxaca and Guerrero State borders. Oaxaca City was laid waste by an earthquake last year.

If the epicenter was reported correctly, it would appear that the entire Pacific coastal area from Cape Corriento to Point Angel was shaken.

(The shock was reported recorded by seismographs in London and New York. Computations in those cities agreed in the main with the computations in Mexico City.)

Mexico City proper was jarred by three distinct shocks, beginning about 4:55 a. m. The first was most severe and lasted three minutes. The other two were short and came at about ten-minute intervals. Several

HAUSNER IS SIGHTED OVER NOVA SCOTIA

Newark Mystery Flier Is on Hop for Poland; May Stop in London.

New York, June 3 (A.P.).—Alone in a flame-colored monoplane, Stanislaus Felix Hausner, "mystery flier," of Newark, N. J., rode eastward into the darkness tonight headed for his native Poland.

A wave of farewell and shouted wish of good luck from his young wife, Martha, sent the reticent 31-year-old amateur pilot on his projected 4,400-mile flight soon after he lifted his heavily loaded Bellanca plane from Floyd Bennett Field at 8:46 a. m. (Eastern standard time).

Mrs. Hausner, who stayed close by his side and prepared the food he would need for his aerial jaunt, accompanied the silent Hausner to land's end as he headed out above the cold waters of the North Atlantic. She then instructed her pilot, John Coyne, to take her to Newark Airport from where, accompanied by the Rev. Paul Knappek, a family friend, she went to St. Casmir's Church to pray for her husband's safety.

Although no reports were received from ships along the Eastern Coast that might have sighted Hausner as he sped northeastward toward the Great Circle course, a plane, described as orange colored, circled Sydney, Nova Scotia, at 5 p. m. (E.S.T.), then headed toward the sea and disappeared.

Aviator friends of the pilot said "That must be Hausner," pointing out that observers might have mistaken the red of his plane for orange in the approaching twilight hours.

Massie Is Ordered To Battleship Duty

Navy Department Rescinds Decision to Send Him to San Francisco.

(Associated Press.)

Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, involved in the recent Honolulu slaying case, was ordered by the Navy yesterday to report June 23 for duty aboard the U. S. S. New Mexico at the Philadelphia Navy Yard. The lieutenant received his orders at the Navy Department just before leaving with his wife for a visit with her family in New York.

The orders automatically rescinded previous instructions to report to naval headquarters at San Francisco.

Lieut. Massie and his wife arrived here Thursday night from Kentucky. The officer registered at the Navy Department, as is customary, but did not confer with officials. The two were overnight guests of Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, head of the National Geographic Society.

Malta Dispute Between Church and State Ends

Valetta, Malta, June 3 (A.P.)—Lord Strickland, Prime Minister of Malta, put an end to the long dispute between the state and the church by tendering an apology today to the bishops of Malta for his antagonism to the authority of the church.

As a result the bishops withdrew a pastoral letter issued in May, 1930, enjoining the Catholic electorate to refrain from voting for the Strickland party in the elections which were to have been held at that time. The bitter dispute led to suspension of the constitution in June, 1930, and since that time Malta has been administered by the governor and commander in chief of the British forces.

SHORT-SALE CHARGE IS DENIED BY RASKOB

Democratic Chief Excepts Only Two "Technical Occasions."

(Associated Press.)

The chairman of the Democratic national committee, John J. Raskob, was charged with short selling yesterday, but he vehemently denied it in words that rang through the Senate banking committee's hearing room.

"There is no language that you can use that would be too strong to condemn a man who would sell short in a time of panic for personal profit," he said.

The committee's counsel, William A. Gray, made the accusation, saying that while Raskob was an official of General Motors he sold 40,000 shares of that stock short at 159. That was on March 10, 1928. Gray also described a sale of 58,000 shares in 1927 as a "pure short transaction."

"At no time," the Democratic chieftain replied, "will you find that I sold General Motors short, except on what might be called two technical occasions." These were in 1928 and 1930, he said.

"I have always had," he added, "more long stock in my regular account than I sold, except in the two cases I mentioned.

"As chairman of the Democratic national committee, I don't like to have the information given out that I resorted to that kind of thing, because it isn't true.

"While I am taking great pains to show that I have not been short selling, I think it is perfectly proper when it is properly conducted."

Politics were injected into the hear-

Rapidan Guest List Has Fiscal Experts

Survey of Government's Money Situation Is Indicated.

(Associated Press.)

Indications that President Hoover plans a thorough survey of fiscal affairs of the Government over the week-end were seen yesterday as a guest list for his Rapidan camp which included members of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and Treasury officials was made public at the White House. The President went to the camp last night.

In addition to the President and Mrs. Hoover, those who will spend the week-end at the camp in the Virginia mountains include Charles G. Dawes, president of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and Mrs. Dawes; Eugene Meyer, chairman of the corporation's board and governor of the Federal Reserve Board, and Mrs. Meyer; Paul Bestor, Farm Loan Boad commissioner, and Mrs. Bestor; Harvey C. Couch, a corporation director, and Mrs. Couch; Jesse H. Jones, also director, and Mrs. Jones; Wilson McCarthy, corporation director; Arthur A. Ballantine, Undersecretary of the Treasury, and Mrs. Ballantine; Henry M. Robinson, Los Angeles banker; Secretary Hurley and Mrs. Hurley, and former Senator Allen, of Kansas.

Colorado U. S. Judge May Seek Senate Seat

Denver, June 3 (A.P.).—The Denver Post said today United States District Judge F. J. Symes will announce his candidacy for the Republican nomination for United States senator from Colorado in the near future and simultaneously will file his resignation from the Federal bench.

SENATE GROUP INCREASES U.S. DISTRICT SUM

Restores Current Total of $9,500,000, Then Cuts 10 Per Cent.

$600,000 RELIEF ITEM IS PUT BACK IN BILL

No Provision Is Made for Veterans in Capital on Bonus Protest.

The Senate District appropriations subcommittee yesterday restored to the District bill the current $9,500,000 Federal lump sum contribution, then applied the Senate's 10 per cent knife to the figure, trimming it down to $8,550,000.

The net result when the operation was complete was an increase of $2,050,000 over the Federal allotment allowed by the House, but a decrease of $950,000 under the Federal appropriation on which the District's 1933 budget was based.

Announced by Bingham.

Chairman Hiram Bingham made this announcement yesterday after his subcommittee had filed its report with the full Senate appropriations committee. Consideration of the bill, partly dependent on the Senate vote on the economy measure, was not completed, he said.

The committee chairman gave no intimation whether the Senate's 10 per cent policy cut will apply to the remainder of District funds, raised from local revenues. The bill as it left the House appropriated $39,913,810 toward local needs, only $6,500,000 of which was to come from the local treasury.

$600,000 Relief Item.

The only other known provision of the Senate version of the District bill is an appropriation of $600,000 for local unemployment relief, omitted by the House. It makes no provision for care of bonus marchers, as proposed in a bill authorizing $675,000 appropriation, introduced by Senator Edward P. Costigan, and still before the Senate District committee.

BankConfirmsExtension Of Reichsbank's Credit

New York, June 3 (A.P.).—The Federal Reserve Bank of New York today confirmed a Paris report that it, with other central banks, had agreed to an extension of the $90,000,000 German Reichsbank credit.

Associated with the reserve bank in this credit arrangement are the Bank of England, the Bank of France and the Bank for International Settlements.

New Greek Ministry Quits; Turmoil Gains

Athens, Greece, June 3 (A.P.).—Greece was plunged anew into political turmoil today by the resignation of the government of Alexander Papanastasiou, who became premier May 23 following the resignation of the ministry headed by Eleutherios Venizelos. Premier Papanastasiou announced his resignation after a speech by M. Venizelos which, he said, gave him the impression the government did not enjoy the confidence of the Chamber.

The veteran Venizelos surrendered his ministry May 21 when legislation submitted to solve the nation's difficult financial problems was turned down by the Legislature.

SENATE TO DECIDE FATE OF FLAT PAY REDUCTION TODAY

New Tax Bill Goes Before House Today

(Associated Press.)

How conferees of the House and Senate wrestled for hours to reconcile differences in the tax bills of the two houses, and the decisions reached, were related last night by Acting Chairman Crisp of the House ways and means committee. The bill as finally worked out raises $1,119,000,000.

The plan is to get the House to act today, then the Senate and finally the bill goes to the White House.

It was agreed to keep the Senate income tax rates, which reach the 1931 level of normal tax of 4 per cent on the first $4,000, 8 per cent on incomes above that and surtaxes up to 55 per cent on incomes in excess of $1,000,000.

The tariffs—on oil, coal, lumber and copper—were retained.

Further outlining the decisions of the conferees, Mr. Crisp said:

"The stock transfer tax of 4 cents a share will apply to stock loans for short sales.

"We agreed to the Senate provisions on automobiles, tires, chewing gum, lubricating oil, brewers wort, grape concentrates, jewelry and boats.

"The Senate receded on the bootlegger tax."

This last tax was for 100 per cent on all proceeds proven to have been derived from crime.

TAX ON BEER URGED AGAIN

Consideration of Huge Economy Bill May End at Session.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

Climaxing three days of debate that virtually spelled the doom of any flat Federal salary reduction, the Senate economy committee's 10 per cent wage slash plan today will run the gantlet against a field of graduated pay cut schemes.

When the Senate convenes at 10 a. m. a vote will be sought on the Johnson amendment exempting salaries under $2,500. Appropriations Chairman Wesley L. Jones hopes to complete consideration of the entire $238,605,000 economy bill before adjournment.

Voices raised in opposition to cuts in the lower wage grades increased yesterday in scope and vigor, while four proposals to modify the drastic committee plan were added to the three already before the chamber.

Couzens' Proposal.

A move by Senator James Couzens (Republican), Michigan, to send the bill back to the committee with instructions to work out a sliding scale of slashes, bearing most heavily on the higher salaries, was repulsed by committee members.

Senators Jones, Sam G. Bratton and James F. Byrnes spoke in opposition to any reconsideration. They contended it would waste valuable Senate time, as committee members were unanimous for the cut. Let the Senate consider that plan first, and vote it up or down on its merits, they argued.

"The more you step up the cut, under a graduated scale, the more injustices will be done," said Senator Jones.

"If there is any justice in an income tax schedule, there is justice in a sliding scale," Senator Couzens retorted. "There certainly is no justice in a flat cut. The committee should go back and work out a scale, or we should vote down all of these reductions."

Beer Tax Urged Again.

New modifying amendments proposed yesterday included one by Senator Millard E. Tydings to substitute a tax on beer and thus avoid the necessity for a cut.

Senator David I. Walsh proposed a scale ranging from 3 per cent from $1,000 to $1,500, to 15 per cent over $10,000. Senator Arthur H. Vandenburg said he is working out a schedule starting at 1 per cent and reaching 10 per cent at $2,000. He said his plan would not hit anyone drawing less than $1,100. Senator Samuel M. Shortridge proposed an amendment exempting District police and firemen from the slash.

Senator Tydings offered his beer-for-revenue amendment as a substitute for the Johnson plan. At the request of Senator Johnson, who said he was attempting through his amendment to establish the policy of the Senate regarding exemptions, Senator Tydings withdrew his amendment, with the understanding that he will offer it later.

Senator Walsh said he will not press his amendment if the Norris resolution, providing a $1,500 exemp-

HUGE GROUP FORMED TO HELP SECURITIES

Largest New York Banks Create $100,000,000 Corporation.

New York, June 3 (A.P.).—The might of the Morgan, Rockefeller and other large banks of Wall street is about to be thrown against the stream of selling in the securities markets, particularly bonds, it was announced today after the close of a session of rapidly recovering prices in the New York Stock Exchange.

Thomas W. Lamont, one of the leading partners of J. P. Morgan & Co., announced the formation of one of the most extraordinary corporations in the history of American finance. The corporation, to be known as the "American Securities Investing Corporation," is expected to begin operations next week with initial funds of $100,000,000, subscribed by the eighteen leading New York banks and two leading private houses.

This is the "bond pool" which has been rumored for several days in Wall street. The rumors were so definite today that the bond market enjoyed its swiftest upturn of 1932, many issues advancing $20 to $90 per bond of $1,000 face value. Stocks also recovered briskly for a time, and while the advances in shares were reduced substantially in a late sag, closing prices found many of the principal issues up $1 to $3, or more.

Organizers of the corporation explained that its funds would not necessarily be limited to $100,000,000, and insisted that "bond pool" or "stabilization corporation" were mis-

More Than $19,000,000 Debts Are Listed by Hobbs

Bankrupt Former Vice President of Wardman Co. Files Schedule; Cash Assets $12.50; Couzens and Coblentz Among Creditors.

Debts of more than $19,000,000 were listed by James D. Hobbs, bankrupt former vice president of the Wardman Co., in the schedule of his assets and debts filed yesterday in the District Supreme Court. Against these liabilities he listed as assets $12.50 cash on hand and 8,330 shares of common capital stock of the Wardman Mortgage & Discount Co., the value of which is unknown.

Among the creditors are listed Senator James Couzens, of Michigan, and Mrs. Margaret A. Couzens for an unnamed amount; Emory L. Coblentz, Frederick, Md., banker, associated with G. Bryan Pitts, jailed former head of the F. H. Smith Co., and Washington's biggest banks.

Among the banks listed in the more than 100 creditors are the Riggs, Commercial National, Security Savings & Commercial, District National, Washington Loan & Trust Co., and the National Bank of Washington. The schedule stated that the personal liability on the debts owed these banks is unknown.

The summary of debts showed a total of $19,095,918.15. Taxes and debts due the United States are $2,532.94; the District government, $312.70; secured claims, $4,333,276.26, and unsecured claims, $14,759,796.25.

The majority of creditors are holders of various notes Hobbs signed while he was official of the Wardman Companies. Among these are two items totaling $340,000 on notes to Sigmund Kann, of Washington, as endorser or maker of 29 notes secured on various Washington properties.

On the creditors' list with Coblentz is his bank, the Federal Trust Co., and several of his Maryland real estate companies. The amounts due these firms is also unknown, the schedule states.

Among the unsecured creditors are a number of Washington stores on

ROOSEVELT LASHES WALKER CASE BODY

Denounces "Political Sniping and Buck-Passing" on Removal Issue.

New York, June 3 (A.P.).—Gov. Roosevelt, lashing out at "political sniping" and "buck-passing," today placed the initiative in bringing charges against Mayor Walker squarely on the Hofstadter legislative committee and Samuel Seabury.

A few hours later the committee counsel, telephoning from Pittsburgh, authorized his associates to issue the following statement from him:

"I have read the statement of Gov. Roosevelt with interest. I will be in my office Monday morning and I will see to it that a transcript of the record and an analysis of the testimony concerning Mayor Walker reaches the governor as early next week as is possible."

Roosevelt in his statement said:

"The only information before the governor is in the form of very incomplete newspaper stories. It is not even clear from Judge Seabury's statement to Chairman Hofstadter whether he has fully completed the investigation."

Tells Duty of Committee.

"I act in each case definitely, positively and with due promptness.

"Get the law straight. It is the duty of the legislative committee and its counsel, if they believe they have sufficient cause, to present evidence to the proper authorities without waiting to make formal report to next year's Legislature.

"You can not get away from that obvious public duty.

"In the case of Sheriff Farley (Tammany officeholder, removed because of huge unexplained bank deposits), Judge Seabury asked the legislative committee to present the evidence to the governor, and the committee refused.

"Judge Seabury sent it himself. I acted.

"If the evidence in any case now before the legislative committee, in their judgment or that of their counsel, warrants, it is time for the legislative committee and their counsel to stop talking and do something.

Hits "Political Sniping."

"It is not the time for political sniping or buck-passing."

The statement was Roosevelt's answer to an intimation from Seabury that he was delaying the filing of charges to allow the governor to take the initiative if he chose. It brought a variety of reactions and comments.

State Senator Samuel Hofstadter, committee chairman, and other Republican members of the inquiry boards heard the statement in silence.

Assemblyman Irwin Steingut, Democratic minority committee member, declared:

"The governor has hit the nail on the head when he refers to sniping and buck-passing. All Judge Seabury is attempting to do is to toss the whole situation into the realm of politics.

"He knows full well he has nothing upon which to base charges against Mayor Walker."

Campaign Heads Pleased.

Roosevelt's campaign managers said the governor had demonstrated in vigorous manner he will not allow himself to be made the dupe in any plan to embarrass him on the eve of the national convention, at which he hopes to be nominated for the Presidency.

The mayor himself refused to comment.

Tammany leaders expressed relief at the governor's stand and repeated their claim that there is no ground for a removal demand in any of the testimony against Walker.

Meantime, James A. Farley, field marshal of the Roosevelt forces, eyed with satisfaction what he called the growing sentiment for Roosevelt in the "favorite son" States of Illinois, Texas and Oklahoma.

HAUSNER IS SIGHTED OVER NOVA SCOTIA

They also computed the distance to Sydney as approximately 850 miles, which, at Hausner's cruising speed of about 100 miles per hour, would be the distance he might have been expected to cover in the 8 hours and 14 minutes which had elapsed.

The 25 passenger and mail ships and about 50 freight vessels along the approximate route Hausner mapped out for himself were scarcely expected to sight him, at least until he approached the British Isles some time after noon tomorrow.

Should his 525 gallons of gasoline be near exhaustion at that time, Hausner planned to set down at Croydon Airport, in London. If his plans are carried out without a hitch he merely will sail above the airdrome, drop a packet of mail and continue toward France, where he will repeat the mail delivery at Le Bourget Field in Paris.

Then he will wing his way toward Warsaw in a gesture of friendship from the land of his adoption to the land of his birth.

Unlike the first start he made last Saturday Hausner's bright-colored monoplane carried a name today. It was christened the St. Rosa Maria by Jane Eisle, a close friend, yesterday. Its other marks of distinction are the number, N. R.—7085, under the wings and the white stripes cutting through the scarlet paint on the fuselage.

The 4-year-old plane, the same Santa Rosa Maria built four years ago for a Chicago syndicate for an ocean flight which never materialized, is powered by a 220-horsepower J-5 motor similar to those which drove Col. Charles A. Lindberg's Spirit of St. Louis to Paris and Clarence Chamberlin's Columbia to Germany five years ago. It has a cruising speed of 100 miles an hour, which should enable Hausner to reach London in around 31 hours, Paris in around 33, and Warsaw in about 44. The flier estimated he would fly about 4,375 miles to reach Warsaw.

Hausner was supplied with four chicken sandwiches, two ham sandwiches, a gallon of coffee, and a gallon of water, and also carried six parachute flares in event of serious trouble. His plane has no wireless equipment.

Aboard S. S. Paris, at Sea, June 3 (U.P.).—The sky was clear and a strong northwest wind prevailed tonight along the North Atlantic route which Stanislaus F. Hausner expected to follow.

Six Children Hurt in Crash.

Guelph, Ont., June 3 (A.P.).—A truck carrying 40 children was struck by a Canadian Pacific Railway motor car at a crossing today. The truck was demolished. Six of the children were injured.

G. O. P. Solicits Views For Prohibition Plank

Garfield, Resolutions Chairman, Confers With Watson, Reed and Moses; Will See Borah Today; Resubmission Largely Favored.

(Associated Press.)

The Republican high command went to work in earnest yesterday on the formulation of the perplexing prohibition plank, but the end of a round of conferences brought word that no conclusions had been reached.

James R. Garfield, who has been called upon by President Hoover to take command of the platform-drafting committee, spent the afternoon in session with the Senate Republican leaders. The conference included Senator Watson, of Indiana, the party pilot; Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, and Senator Moses, of New Hampshire.

Leaving the group, Garfield made arrangements for meetings today with Senator Borah, of Idaho, a leader of the prohibition forces, and other members of Congress. Earlier in the day he consulted with Cabinet officers. There is concededly a strong element of the party favoring a plank indorsing resubmission of prohibition. How that is to be proposed is the question.

Senator Borah is known to hold the position that any real referendum is by the election of members of Congress to carry out the will of the voters. Others point to the constitutional provision for action on constitutional amendments by State conventions. Certain it is, the Republicans are working hard to get together on a prohibition plank composing the varied views of the party before the convention, with every determination to avoid a floor battle.

Postmaster General Brown expressed the hope that a basis for an understanding on prohibition would be found before the resolutions committee met in Chicago.

"If we have a satisfactory formula," Brown said, "the dressings, trimmings and embroidery can be added without difficulty."

Chairman Fess, of the Republican national committee, who arranged for Garfield to see Borah before he left the city, is of the opinion no conclusions regarding the platform will be reached before the platform committee meets.

Brown said Garfield had received a "hundred or more proposed prohibitions planks from members of the party ranking from Cabinet members on down." The Postmaster General has discussed many of these proposals with Garfield.

Another Cabinet officer taking a hand in the platform framing is Secretary Adams. He said yesterday the Navy Department had made several suggestions which he hoped would be included in the national defense plank.

As the Republican conferences continued, Democratic supporters of Franklin D. Roosevelt here expressed confidence that Senator Barkley, of Kentucky, would retain his keynote assignment despite protests that his vote for a coal tariff disqualified him to speak for the party on this economic question.

Friends of the New Yorker also agreed with James A. Farley, Roosevelt's preconvention manager, that a motion to repeal the two-thirds nomination rule should be made if Roosevelt is shown to have a predominant strength and indications point to a long deadlock.

RASKOB DENIES CHARGES OF SHORT SALES OF STOCKS

ing with Senator Glass (Democrat), Virginia, inquiring of Gray if he intended to call any Republicans, since there were rumors he planned to "involve a number of prominent Democrats." Gray retorted he had not inquired of any witnesses their political connections.

$500,000 Without Stake.

Earlier the committee heard David Lion, a New York publicity man, tell how he had made more than $500,000 out of stock that had been placed at his disposal without cost in return for handling publicity for stock pools. He asserted that none of his transactions were designed to manipulate the market and denied they were pool operations.

"As far as I can ascertain, a large part of the short selling has been done by Republicans who supported President Hoover."

Appearing as a surprise witness, Raskob, who is equally prominent in political and financial circles, readily acknowledged he sold 58,000 shares of General Motors in 1927 for "income-tax purposes."

Gray described the sale as "a pure short transaction" despite the fact that Raskob held a similar amount of stock in another account.

The counsel pointed out that though Raskob held stock in another account he actually "covered" the 1927 sale purchases in the open market in March, 1928.

"Always Had More Long."

Raskob submitted a complete account of his transactions in General Motors since January, 1928, showing that he dealt through two accounts, one for purchasing and the other for selling. He insisted that he always had more long stock in his purchasing account than he was short in his selling account except on two occasions when he was "technically short."

When he took the stand Raskob drew a laugh by describing his business as "trying to make good Democrats out of misguided Republicans."

Senator Glass (Democrat), Virginia, asked Gray why Raskob had been called and if other officials of the company could not give the same information. Gray replied that he wanted to question Raskob about his personal transactions.

Glass said rumors had been going around that prominent Democrats would be involved in the inquiry and asked Gray if he "proposed to involve several Republicans."

Gray replied that he was trying to present the evidence "without regard to political considerations."

Glass Protests Questions.

Later, when Glass protested at some of the questioning, Chairman Norbeck said he did not want to "irritate" the Virginian and would "wait until a Republican comes on the stand."

Glass insisted that most of the directors of General Motors were Republicans and asked why Raskob was selected for investigation.

Questioned by Senator Townsend (Republican), Delaware, Gray said no member of the committee had requested him to call Roskob, but that he had been selected because the evidence involved him.

Glass asked Raskob if all the money he had used in his stock transactions was his own and whether he had "diverted" any from campaign funds. Senator Walcott (Republican), Connecticut, protested this question, as Raskob laughed, and Glass withdrew it.

Gray took the committee through a maze of accounts, including two under Raskob's name, another under his wife's name, and two or three under the names of holding companies.

"Never Sold Short."

"At no time will you find that I sold General Motors short, except on what might be called two technical occasions," Raskob said.

"I always had more long stock in my regular account than I sold, except in the two cases I have mentioned.

Raskob denied he had profited from "inside information" as an official of the company and said none of his General Motors transactions were in pools to manipulate the market.

"Why did you sell that stock in 1927?" Gray asked.

Interrupting, Senator Couzens (Republican), Michigan, said, "I confess I don't see what this has to do with the stock market. I don't know where we are drifting."

"I don't either," Raskob said, but he answered the question saying:

"I sold it for some personal reason. For income tax purposes, to establish a profit or loss."

Questioned by Gray, Raskob told of the formation of a company known as "The Managers Security Co.," by eighty "of the principal men" in General Motors, with an investment at $5,000,000. They borrowed $23,000,000 more, Raskob said, from the Dupont Co. and purchased General Motors stock.

Thanked for Frankness.

Under a contract with General Motors, he said, the Managers Security Co. received 5 per cent of the profits over 7 per cent made by General Motors. The loan from Dupont was paid back in seven years, he added.

As Raskob concluded, Chairman Norbeck commended him for the "frankness" of his testimony.

Later Gray turned to pool operations in Anaconda Copper participated in by directors of the National City Bank, which has financed the copper company for many years. He charged that the National City Co., an affiliate of the bank, acquired some of the stock from the pools and "unloaded" it on the public.

Participants in the pools, Gray said, included Percy A. Rockefeller and James A. Stillman, directors of the National City Co. They took part first, he said, in a small pool which made $1,225,000 on Anaconda Copper early in 1929, and then in a big pool in Anaconda and other copper stocks which operated from March to May, 1929.

$7,000,000 Lost in Pool.

The later pool, involving an investment of more than $65,000,000, lost more than $7,000,000, he added.

Charles E. Mitchell, chairman of the bank, testified that the National City Co. went into open market operations in Anaconda in June, 1929, and by August had a profit of $2,048,000. Gray said that by October 1, the company's profits were $4,252,086.

Mitchell testified he had no knowledge of the pools or that Rockefeller and Stillman were interested in them.

Gray contended the company disposed of the copper stock through a "high pressure campaign," but Mitchell said it was "not what I'd call a high pressure campaign."

Mitchell said the company began its market operations with 300,000 shares of stock and found "a good deal of loose stock was on the market, apparently speculatively held."

Improper, Mitchell Says.

"As bankers for the Anaconda company," he said, "we viewed it as our duty to buy in the market. Thus it came about that we bought a good deal in addition to the 300,000 shares."

Senator Glass (Democrat), Virginia, asked Mitchell if he thought Rockefeller and Stillman could, with propriety, be directors of the company and members of the pool selling Anaconda stocks.

"I don't like to pass judgment on the other fellow's conduct," Mitchell replied. "I do not think operations of this kind are a good thing for the bank's affiliates."

"Do you think it is proper?" Glass persisted.

"No, I do not," Mitchell replied.

Farmers Use Gas To Fight Hoppers

Millions of Insects Killed in Trenches; Crops Are Threatened in Iowa.

Pocatello, Idaho, June 3 (A.P.).—The front in the grasshopper war of southeastern Idaho extended 20 miles from Blackfoot to Pocatello today, with hundreds of farmers and their allies resorting to trench fighting.

Trapped in several miles of trenches hastily dug across the line of their advance, millions of the insects were destroyed by fire and gas. Additional barricades were being placed in the path of the creeping army.

Sioux City, Iowa, June 3 (A.P.).—Crops in western Iowa, now growing luxuriantly, were eyed doubtfully today by many farmers, who feared grasshopper damage later.

Millions of hoppers already are swarming through the fields, and some farmers, despairing of governmental aid, have adopted an attitude of "what's the use?" regarding control means. Many farmers have no funds with which to buy the poisoned bran mash that entomologists agreed would be most efficacious in the pending grasshopper campaign.

Dixie Delegates May Wear Cotton.

Nashville, Tenn., June 3 (A.P.).—A movement to have Southern delegates to the Democratic national convention wear cotton clothes as a stimulus to the cotton growing and textile industries was disclosed today in a communication to Gov. Henry H. Horton. The letter was from a firm of cotton factories in Birmingham, Ala., asking for a list of the delegates.

6 DROWN AS FLOOD RAZES 700 HOUSES

Score of Persons Missing in Oklahoma City Deluge; Relief Plea Made.

Oklahoma City, June 3 (A.P.).—At least six persons were swept to death by a rush of flood waters over central Oklahoma today.

Five lives were known to have been lost in Oklahoma City and a Negro mail carrier perished near Seminole. Eight persons were reported missing in Oklahoma City. Two farm families reported unaccounted for near Shawnee were found to have escaped safely from their submerged homes.

About 700 homes were washed away by the sudden Oklahoma City flood. Seminole, Wewoka and Bowlegs were isolated by inundated highways and washed-out rail lines.

The known dead in Oklahoma City were Mrs. Norah Norris, 50; Ella Christine Morgan, 15; Buster Glenn Morran, 5; Mrs. Robert Webster, 40, and Ellen Webster, 11, her daughter. Jim Robinson, Negro mail carrier, was drowned in swollen Wewoka Creek.

100 Families Marooned.

Approximately 100 families were marooned in lowlands north of Shawnee by flood waters from the North Canadian River.

Three thousand dwellers in South Oklahoma City lost humble homes, many of them in a community tent city. A quickly formed relief association organization went to work, sheltering the refugees at central concentration points and providing food and medical attention, while the Red Cross appealed for $50,000 from more fortunate citizens.

The bodies of two women, a 15-year-old girl and her 5-year-old brother, were found as the waters of the Canadian River and treacherous Lightning Creek receded from Capitol Hill, southern suburb.

Authorities said a horseman, trying to ford high water near the Taylor School for Boys where 65 hungry youngsters were marooned temporarily, also was drowned.

Highway Washouts.

There was no estimate of the property damage, which included many railroad and highway washouts.

Heroism was at its best in the rescue of whole families from housetops and trees. National guardsmen went into action early with civil officers. Fourteen persons, suffering from exposure, were taken to hospitals.

The water poured into the downtown section, flooding many basements including that of the Huckins Hotel, where furniture in the fashionable dungeon dining room floated about.

Cattle and sheep drowned at the union stockyards and business was suspended. The city dam at the lake overholder reservoir held, however, and danger of higher water was believed past.

Imperial Valley Menaced By Colorado River Flood

Yuma, Ariz., June 3 (A.P.).—The swollen Colorado River strained at levees protecting the rich Imperial Valley today. Hundreds of freight cars loaded with rocks and crews of men were held in readiness for an emergency. The peak of the present rise probably will reach Yuma tomorrow, but river men predicted the possibility of higher water about June 25. They based their predictions on snow surveys in the Rocky Mountains.

In Mexico, the river was pressing against the Rodriguez levee, constructed by reclamation interests.

2 Famous Chicago Hotels Bankrupt

3,000-Room Stevens and Old La Salle Are in Receivership.

Chicago, June 3 (A.P.).—An equity receiver for the Stevens and La Salle Hotels, the former one of the world's biggest and the latter long a Loop landmark, was appointed in Federal Court today a few minutes before a petition of involuntary bankruptcy was filed by creditors.

Judge James H. Wilkerson designated Ernest J. Stevens, a founder of the Michigan avenue hostelry, receiver with the consent of the petitioning creditor in the action which was described as "friendly."

The involuntary bankruptcy proceedings were instituted on behalf of three other creditors, who set forth total claims of $10,000. Lawyers who filed their petition said they would move tomorrow for appointment of a receiver to supersede Stevens. The receivership action was on behalf of the Beatrice Creamery Co., which said the two hotel companies owed it a total of $8,000. The petition declared the Stevens Hotel assets to be $27,472,363 in normal times, $3,000,000 more than liabilities, and the La Salle Hotel assets to be $4,854,228 against $4,014,686 liabilities.

The Stevens, completed in 1927, contains 3,000 rooms and occupies nearly the entire block bounded by Michigan and Wabash avenues and Seventh and Eighth streets. The La Salle, at the corner of La Salle and Madison streets, contains 1,000 rooms. Both are headed by Stevens.

Drunk Kicks In Glass of Wrong Autos

"Here's the key to my car, please open it for me," a very drunk gentleman said to Sanford Sturm, of 816 Sixth street northwest, as Sturm stood in front of his home last night. Sturm couldn't find a keyhole in the sedan's door and told the gentleman so.

The very drunk gentleman cogitated this matter for a moment, then very deliberately kicked out the glass in the door, crawled through and seated himself in the rear. After sitting in thought for a moment, he looked around in amazement and said:

"Gosh! This isn't my car."

He crawled out and wandered over to the car of Fred Kirby, parked in front of his home at 819 Sixth street northwest, where he kicked in the door before he discovered he was in error again. Kirby heard the awful crash and ran from the house to chase the man to Sixth and Massachusetts avenue northwest. Policeman Frank Tierney, who responded to a radio call, caught the very drunk gentleman's leg just before he could kick in the door of a third sedan.

The gentleman was too drunk to give his name when he arrived at the First Precinct Station, police said.

BUSINESS MEN URGE BIGGER BUDGET CUT

Group Against High Cost of Government Asks Slash of $750,000,000.

Chicago, June 3 (A.P.).—The national organization to reduce public expenditures was formed today by American business men. Its first demand was for a slash of $750,000,000 in the Federal budget.

The organization also voiced protest against a public works program at this time, unless it can "clearly be demonstrated that such expenditures will be productive of savings or earnings adequately justifying the cost."

Nonpartisan, the organization was created by representatives of 600 commercial organizations in 39 States at the conference on reduction of taxes and governmental costs called by the Chicago Association of Commerce.

George W. Rossetter, president of the Chicago association and chairman of the conference, was authorized to form a national committee of 40 or more members to complete the organization and perfect its purpose.

Determined to Push Fight.

"We are going to carry our fight down to the starting point, where the members of Congress are elected," he said:

Notices of the organization's formation and purpose and of its demands were sent to President Hoover, members of Congress and the platform committees of the two major parties.

The resolutions committee of the conference, after drafting the national organization, said its purpose would be "to rivet into a vigorous directing head all the various groups in the United States now working for one object: The reduction of public expenditures compatible with reduced national income."

The reduction in the Federal budget, the organization believes, should be accomplished in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1933. It held the reduction by $750,000,000 "is necessary, possible and expected."

Indiana Plan Explained.

The "Indiana plan" of taxpayers protest was outlined by Felix McWhirter, president of the Peoples State Bank of Indianapolis. Ten or more taxpayers of a community, under this plan, if they believe some provision of a public budget or proposed bond issue is unnecessary or imprudent can appeal to the State board of tax commissioners for review. After hearing evidence, the State board can order the budget reduced or the bond issue decreased or postponed entirely, but it can not order increases.

Hundreds of cases annually are thus appealed in Indiana, McWhirter said, and over a ten-year period the actual reductions thus accomplished have exceeded $50,000,000.

"And this," the Indianapolis banker added, "does not include the savings effected from discouragement of extravagance in the original drafting of such proposals."

Raymond Lanctot Dies; Vancouver Vice Consul

Vancouver, B. C., June 3 (A.P.).—Raymond Lanctot, 35, United States vice counsel here, who had previously held posts in French Indo-China and Java, died at a hospital today. He has been ill several weeks.

Friends said they believed his fatal illness had grown out of a tropical disease he contracted in Java. He came to Vancouver three years ago. A sister, who lives in Peru, survives.

U. S. WANTS SILVER TRADE PARLEY TOPIC

Stimson Tells Linthicum Special Conference on Money Unneeded.

(Associated Press.)

Silver will have an important place in the proposed world economic conference, if the United States has its way.

This was made clear yesterday in a letter which Secretary Stimson sent to Chairman Linthicum (Democrat), Maryland, of the House committee on foreign affairs.

The communication explained to Chairman Linthicum that it does not seem desirable for the United States to call a special monetary conference at this time, as members of both the House and Senate have urged, because the world economic conference which Great Britain and the United States are considering covers a broad economic scope and will include monetary subjects.

Upon receipt of the Stimson letter, the committee approved a resolution supporting the participation of the United States in the conference.

The time, place and agenda of this proposed conference are still undecided. Neither is it known exactly what powers will participate.

But the State Department agreed to the British suggestion that it be a world conference and takes the position that the membership must be world-wide, rather than limited to the members of the Lausanne conference, which is confined to nations directly interested in reparations and war debts.

Any conference designed to better world prices on commodities, in the opinion of the State Department, should embrace powers from all the continents and make an effort to unite all important commercial nations in a joint movement to stabilize currencies, abolish trade barriers and get commerce back into normal channels.

The United States Government is adhering firmly to its decision not to attend the Lausanne reparations conference nor to attend any meeting at Lausanne to discuss world economic problems. It stands aloof from the reparations and war debt discussions, but will go to London, or elsewhere, outside of Lausanne, to engage in a real world conference for the discussion of plans to better economic conditions.

Five Drown as Boat Capsizes; Three Saved

Rockport, Ind., June 3 (A.P.).—Five persons were drowned in the Ohio River near here tonight when the motorboat in which they were riding capsized. Two of those who lost their lives were children.

Those drowned were Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Lynn and their 10-year-old son, Charles, and Mrs. Louis Parsley and her 5-year-old daughter, Bonnie Jean. Mr. Parsley, unable to save any of the others, swam ashore. Joe Billy Parsley, 8, and another child of 8, a nephew of Lynn's, clung to inflated inner tubes carried in the boat and were saved by Harry Evans, a fisherman.

Army Asked to Report On Potomac Beautifying

(Associated Press.)

The House rivers and harbors committee yesterday passed a resolution requesting Army engineers to bring up to date the 1927 report on the approximately $3,000,000 Potomac River waterfront beautification project in Washington, D. C.

A local delegation appeared before the committee Thursday to urge the project, one of those listed in the Rainey bill.

Wets in Hot Fight In North Carolina

Politically Dry Since 1908, Both Parties Inject Issue in Senatorial Battles.

Raleigh, N. C., June 3 (U.P.).—Packed with paramount issues, personal bitterness, colorful candidates and political dynamite, the hottest primary campaign in North Carolina in recent years moved into a whirlwind finish tonight. The primary will be held tomorrow.

Politically dry since 1908, North Carolina nevertheless finds the prohibition issue injected into the senatorial battles in both major parties.

Robert R. Reynolds, colorful and veteran campaigner, advocating Government liquor control, is almost universally picked by political observers to force Senator Cameron M. Morrison into a run-off primary for the nomination. There are three other candidates besides Morrison and Reynolds.

Jake F. Newell, Republican convention choice for senator, is opposed in the primary by George W. Depriest, a "wet," but the Republicans in this State look with disdain upon the primary. They have adopted a prohibition enforcement platform, and Newell is picked to win easily.

tion and a graduated scale of cuts above that figure, is adopted by the Senate. Senator Norris served notice that if his plan is voted down, he has a number of other amendments to offer. The next will start exemptions at $1,000, he said.

Exempting cuts below $1,000, the detailed Walsh schedule would slash 3 per cent from salaries between $1,000 and $1,500, 4 per cent between $1,500 and $2,000, 5 per cent between $2,000 and $2,500, 7½ per cent between $2,500 and $3,000, 10 per cent between $3,000 and $5,000, 12½ per cent between $5,000 and $10,000 and 15 per cent over $10,000. Senator Walsh said it would yield $70,000,000. The Norris plan would realize only $23,000,000 and the Johnson plan less.

Among those who joined the general assault on the committee's flat pay-cut provision were Senators Edwin S. Broussard, Arthur R. Robinson, Tasker L. Oddie, Edward P. Costigan, John J. Blaine and Henry F. Ashurst.

Blaine's Attack.

Senator Blaine said the cut carried forward a policy of "legalized pinching of pennies from the poor." He charged Congress on the advice of the administration unbalanced the budget by voting for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and other administration projects. Now, he said, they are calling on low-paid Government workers to balance it again.

Senator Oddie said the cuts would "throw more fear into the people at a time when they should have hope in their hearts."

"I am as anxious as anybody to reduce the expenses to a minimum," he said, "but I am opposed to cutting the salaries of Government employes.

"Present conditions will not continue indefinitely, and I think the Senate should start a movement for a new psychology that would start the wheels to turning again."

Ashurst's Opposition.

Senator Ashurst was just as vehement in his opposition:

"A physician might as well say to a man of Fallstaffian figure, 'You must reduce 10 per cent;' then turn to the pale, anemic man and say, 'You, too, must reduce 10 per cent,'" he said.

"A reduction in the salaries of Government officials is a backward step and a notice to the world that we have surrendered. Instead, we should get out a $5,000,000 bond issue and put men to work."

He proposed that the roll be called and every senator suggest the point at which salary exemptions should begin.

Senator Costigan said the plan was "Not a just and sound solution."

"Savings can be made in departments here without touching a single salary—without striking at the very life blood of our Federal employes," he said.

23 DIE AS QUAKES ROCK SOUTH MEXICO

small buildings were toppled over here and cracks appeared in downtown thoroughfares.

Reports of damage came from southwestern cities. Manzanillo, among the larger points, reported considerable damage but there was no word of deaths.

Communications lines were down in all directions to the southwest, giving rise to fears that a heavy death toll may have occurred in some isolated area.

Hilo, T. H., June 3 (A.P.).—Nine tidal waves swept Hilo harbor today following a terrific submarine earthquake recorded at the Kilauea volcano observatory shortly after midnight. The earthquake was estimated to be 3,700 miles away.

No damage was reported. The only effect of the tidal waves, so far as could be learned, was to wash out a sandbar that obstructed the mouth of the Wailoa River, constituting a menace to navigation.

(Associated Press.)

An earthquake, described as the most violent registered here in several years, was recorded yesterday on the seismograph at Georgetown University.

The quake began at 5:43.30 a. m., E. S. T., and was continuing two hours later.

It was estimated at approximately 2,200 miles southwest of Washington.

So violent were the shocks that they were recorded on all five of the machines at the Georgetown observatory.

Mediterranean Fruit Fly Larvae Seized on Coast

San Francisco, June 3 (A.P.).—The discovery and confiscation in port here of a quantity of Hawaiian mangoes infected with Mediterranean fruit fly larvae, described as "heavy enough to have brought destruction to the bulk of California's fruit and field crops," was announced today by the State department of agriculture.

H. M. Armitage, associate chief of the division of plant quarantine, said the infected shipment was taken from the Swedish motor ship Canada here May 20, and that the ship was held in quarantine until all fruit in her stores was boiled and thrown overboard.

vote. Majority Leader Rainey said it would be shoved through under a special rule Tuesday.

Earlier in the day the House ways and means committee approved the big bill by a strict party vote of 15 to 9, despite denunciation of it by President Hoover and Secretaries Mills and Hurley.

That the Republican Senate will revise the measure appears certain in view of President Hoover's desire for his program. This calls for an issue of $1,500,000,000 in securities by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and a $300,000,000 fund for loans to States and for direct relief.

Fight Led by Byrns.

The fight in the Democratic caucus against the $100,000,000 for direct relief was led by Chairman Byrns of the appropriations committee, who has been one of the leaders in the campaign for economy. Speaker Garner spoke for the provision, which was retained by 72 to 50.

An amendment sponsored by Rainey to prevent the Reconstruction Finance Corporation from advancing money to the Farm Board for the disposal of its surplus wheat and cotton in foreign markets was adopted. However, the provision will permit money to be loaned to private interests seeking to sell farm products abroad.

In his statement, Green said the ten and a half million persons out of work would vote in the November elections and that the "measuring rod labor will apply to legislative records, is influence in creating jobs."

MURDER IS CHARGED TO SOCIETY WOMAN

Mrs. Barney, Wife of U. S. Singer, Held in Slaying at London Party.

London, June 3 (A.P.).—Mrs. Elvira Dolores Barney, daughter of Sir John Mullens, wealthy stock broker, and former wife of John Sterling Barney, American singer, was arrested tonight and formally charged with the murder of Michael Scott Stephen, a young man whose social prominence equaled her own.

Stephen's body, a bullet wound in the chest, was found by police at 5 a. m. Tuesday on the floor of Mrs. Barney's bizarre and artistic apartment in the fashionable Knightsbridge quarter.

A cocktail party, attended by a number of smart young people, had been given a few hours earlier in the same apartment, so the London papers are calling the killing "the cocktail shooting tragedy."

After the discovery of the body, Mrs. Barney, who is a woman of striking beauty, went to the luxurious mansion of her parents in Belgrave Square.

The arrest came a few hours after the beginning of an inquest into the death of Stephen, who was 26 years old, the son of a widely known magistrate and bank manager, and was himself a leading figure among London's brighter functions.

Francis Richard Stephen, a solicitor and brother of the victim, testified at the inquest that he thought Mrs. Barney and his brother occupied the apartment together. He said that recently he called the couple to his office and told them that his father did not approve of their association.

"They gave me the impression," he said, "that they would be married when she got her divorce (from the American singer), but I pointed out this was not the best way of settling it."

The inquest was adjourned until June 16 after the brother had testified to give the police more time for their investigation.

NEW BONUS MARCHERS COME—BARRACKS STARTED

And still they come! Upper photo shows another contingent of the "bonus army" arriving in Washington by freight train. Despite the fact that Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, announced yesterday that he would not undertake to feed the more than 1,000 veterans now in Washington when the present funds and supplies run out. Lower picture shows start of carpenter work on the barracks to be erected in Anacostia to house the overflow of the marchers. Upper picture by Underwood & Underwood. Lower—Post Staff photo.

GLASSFORD'S 'ADS' CURBED

nounced that the Police Department would not assume responsibility for the feeding of the marchers when the donations of food have ceased. At the expiration of that time, he indicated, he would seek to evacuate the men.

Communists Active.

Chairman Byrns, of the House appropriations committee, last night said the provision of food and shelter to the veterans was "just an invitation" for more to come here. He added that the committee is opposed to any Federal appropriation for the veterans because of the condition of the Treasury.

After being closeted with Gen. Glassford for a half hour, Emanuel Levin and Samuel J. Stember, both of whom are affiliated with the Workers Ex-Service Men's League and the national provisional bonus march sam, small, but representative of the important groups."

Although the unofficial Republican steering committee in the House, headed by Minority Leader Snell has made plans to defeat the Garner bill in view of the administration's strong opposition, the Democratic leadership expressed belief it would be passed.

Under the Army housing program included in the bill, $15,335,000 would be spent for barracks and other buildings at Army posts while $7,165,000 would go for construction at Army airports, including landing fields and technical buildings.

Levy on Gasoline.

The committee's action came after three days of hearings and a two-hour executive session yesterday. Speaker Garner opened the hearings Tuesday advocating the legislation, while administration opposition was registered by Secretaries Mills and Hurley, who declared it would unbalance the Federal budget. The measure contains a levy of a fourth of one cent a gallon on gasoline to meet interest and sinking fund requirements of bonds issued by the Treasury Secretary under existing law to provide funds for the public building construction.

A resolution calling for loans by the Reconstruction Corporation to the States in view of "emergencies of great want and threatened suffering" was introduced yesterday by Senator Lewis (Democrat), Illinois.

The measure said that such emergencies "in certain States of the Union call for immediate action of relief."

Illinois has been reported in need of aid with State relief funds running low.

The amount of the loan and the security required would be left to the corporation's discretion.

The rivers and harbors projects eliminated from the Garner relief program included:

North Carolina: Cape Lookout Harbor, $1,160,000; Northeast (Cape Fear) River, $25,375; Roanoke River, $42,500; Norfolk-Beayfort inland waterway (Fairfield Bridge) $90,000.

Virginia: Onancock River, $56,000; York River, $75,000.

Boxing Benefit Tuesday.

There was but a few hundred dollars in prospect last night to buy food. One of the items expected was $500 promised by the Veterans of Foreign Wars and a small sum left over from previous donations and benefits. A boxing benefit is to be held at Griffith Stadium on Tuesday night.

The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad yesterday notified Gen. Glassford that it could no longer deny the use of its box cars to the veterans unless other railroads did likewise. The railroad has been criticized for its failure to furnish transportation, the chief of police was told.

Veterans from the Camden and Philadelphia contingent refused to "drive a nail" in construction of the shelter in Anacostia Park, when lumber was provided yesterday. However, when it was explained to them that the Police Department and not the Federal Government was providing for them, they started work. They were under the impression that the Federal Government was making the arrangements for their shelter and they did not want to displace carpenters.

Without Mattresses.

Others went lobbying through Congress for support of their bill. Those in Anacostia were compelled to sleep last night on the sod, with no blankets and mattresses. Sanitary conditions in the billets at Eighth and I streets southeast, Twelfth and D streets southwest, and Seventh and L streets southwest, will be remedied so that they can pass the inspection of Health Officer William A. Fowler.

Associated Press reports from all sections of the country showed the marches of the various armies edging closer to the Capital.

One thousand started out from New York—hiking. Many are reputed to be members of the Workers Former Service Men's League, a Communist organization. Another group from the West, numbering about 200, were making preparations to concentrate at Wheeling, W. Va.

Start Day With Prayer.

Other reports received were: Lexington, Ky., 100 started; other groups were en route from Johnson City, Tenn.; Florida, Texas, the Pacific Coast, Oklahoma, Kansas and Georgia. A contingent of 300 from Texas and California were riding out of Arkansas in day coaches.

Pittsburgh reported groups passing through every few hours ranging in number from dozens to several hundred.

Other telegraphic reports follow:

Cincinnati—A group of 500 from northern Kentucky and southern Ohio begged private motor trucks for their jaunt. Several cars already have been provided them.

San Antonio—Five hundred Texans, who start each day's march with prayer, moved on to Dallas with a goat mascot named Hoover.

Oklahoma City—About 500 recruits from Oklahoma's oil fields sped East in Rock Island box cars.

Owsley Opposes Marches.

Decatur, Ga.—New Orleans' bonus army of 35 whites and 100 Negroes straggled down the highway, trying to "thumb" automobile rides.

Muncie, Ind.—One hundred men with $60 between them left here.

Denver—Colorado's army of 500 was stalemated because Burlington freight trains clattered by too rapidly for them to climb on.

Chicago—The Des Moines contingent of 25 arrived.

Kansas City—Foragers begged at wholesale grocers for food for 200 men who hope to leave here tomorrow.

Council Bluffs—Two hundred and fifty men from San Francisco received their first meal in 24 hours. Citizens have fed two previous armies.

Boone, Iowa—Three hundred veterans arrived from California. Local veterans gave them a meal and tobacco.

Dallas, Tex.—Col. Alvin M. Owsley, past national commander of the American Legion, said the veterans' marches did not serve their own best interests. Inasmuch as the Government is not in financial condition to make bonus payments now, he explained, the marches will only hinder efforts of bonus payment advocates.

2,000 Are Given Train.

Harrisburg—Police escorted 400 Illinois marchers during their change from the box cars of one railroad to those of another.

Boston—About 500 Bostonians will start shortly, according to organizer John M. Doyle, with "no rum, no vandalism, no unmilitary actions."

Nearly 2,000 veterans in Cleveland were promised freight transportation by the Pennsylvania Railroad after they had threatened to storm the freight yards and commandeer a train. There was a split among the group as a large number of the veterans charged that Communists were trying to "horn-in" on the party to exploit the veterans for furtherance of their own policies.

Ninety-six veterans were treated yesterday at the Marine Reserve medical depot established for them. All of the ailments were minor. Lieut. Comdr. Don Knowlton, U. S. M. C., surgeon in charge, said he planned to appeal for greater facilities and a larger space to treat the men.

Bodies of Lovers To Lie in Volcano

Hawaiian Officials Decide Recovery From Firepit Too Dangerous.

Hilo, Hawaii, June 3 (A.P.).—The firepit of ancient Kilauea Volcano probably will be the tomb of the lovers whose bodies were found there yesterday.

A note indicated William Nunes, Portuguese, had shot to death Margaret Enos, the girl who refused his love, after he had kidnaped her from her sister's home here, and then had leaped with her body into the 1,200-foot crater.

Officials of Hawaii National Park decided today it would be impracticable and dangerous to try to recover the bodies of the youth and girl from the lava ledge on which they hung, 900 feet below the rim of the gigantic fire pit.

Requests later by parents of the couple led police and volunteers to the volcano's rim where they hoped to devise a way to recover the bodies from the talus on which they lay. Parents of both the boy and girl said they were anxious that the bodies be recovered. If they can not, a coroner's inquest must be held on the rim of the firepit.

CURTIS WILL PLEAD NOT GUILTY TODAY

Prosecutor Will Fight Reduction of Bail Holding Lindbergh Hoaxer.

Flemington, N. J., June 3 (A.P.).—John Hughes Curtis, the Norfolk, Va., boatbuilder, will plead not guilty, it was authoritatively learned today when he is arraigned tomorrow on a reported indictment accusing him of gross deception in the Lindbergh kidnaping mystery.

In view of his confession that he hoaxed Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in the search for the abductors of his infant son, it had been believed up to now he would plead non vult and cast himself on the mercy of the court.

But Prosecutor Anthony Hauck, of Hunterdon County, indicated that defense counsel would ask for a reduction in bail from $10,000 to $5,000 when court convenes and the possibility arose that Curtis might be released in a few days. The prosecutor said he would fight any diminution of bail.

Another intermediary reentered the spotlight today when Salvatore Spitale, one of three men appointed by Col. Lindbergh himself to comb the underworld, was arrested in a raid on a Broadway night club, in New York, and charged with violating the Sullivan antifirearms law.

He and Abe Kettler, 38, of Troy, N. Y., were later liberated in West Side court when evidence was produced that they had permits to carry the loaded revolvers found on them.

A third intermediary, Dr. John F. Condon (Jafsie) was quoted by the Springfield (Mass.) Union as having asserted he paid $50,000 ransom for the baby in a Bronx Cemetery only because Col. Lindbergh insisted and contrary to his (Condon's) better judgment.

Filipino Leaders Answer Charges

Deny Criticism From Island That They Oppose Independence.

(Associated Press.)

Aroused by criticism from Manila of their activities here, Sergio Osmena acting president of the Philippine Senate, and Manuel Roxas, Speaker of the Insular House, yesterday denied charges by Filipinos that they had been working for legislation unfavorable to the cause of immediate independence.

In a joint statement they said:

"Criticisms of the Philippine mission to the United States uttered at a mass meeting in Manila—if they are accurately reported in dispatches coming to this country—are apparently the expressions of those who admit of no other solution of the Philippine problem except immediate and complete independence.

"They do not represent the sentiments of the vast majority of the Filipino people."

Issuing of Summer Olympics Stamps Set

(Associated Press.)

The first of the summer Olympics stamps is to be issued by the Postoffice Department June 15, including a 3 and a 5 cent stamp. The first Olympic stamp was printed in January in connection with the Lake Placid winter games.

For several weeks the Postoffice Department has held up its order for the stamps, awaiting the action of Congress on increasing domestic postage from 2 to 3 cents.

They will go on sale in Washington June 16.

Guards Patrol Dietrich Home After Threat Note

Los Angeles, June 3 (A.P.).—Armed guards patrolled the spacious grounds of Marlene Dietrich's home and the residence of Mrs. Egon Muller, wife of a linen importer, tonight, while authorities sought persons suspected of plotting against the lives of the film actress' daughter and Mrs. Muller's son.

Buron Fitts, district attorney, announced two former servants in the Dietrich household were sought for questioning. The mix-up in letters, threatening death to Harry Muller and Maria Dietrich, revealed the plot.

Dickinson President Installed.

Carlisle, Pa., June 3 (A.P.).—Dr. Karl Tinsley Waugh, formerly of the University of Southern California, was formally inducted today as president of Dickinson College. Dr. Waugh had been acting president since January.

THREAT OF MILITARY RULE STIRS HAWAII

Island Government to Send Group Here to Oppose Williams Bill.

Honolulu, Territory of Hawaii, June 3 (A.P.).—The Territorial Senate was stunned into brief inaction today by the news that a bill had been introduced in Congress to reorganize the Hawaiian government, placing it under virtual military rule.

Notified of the introduction of the Williams bill to give control of the Hawaiian government to the War Department, the Senate dropped all other business to study the measure. It was indicated a Senate committee would appear before the National Congress and oppose the move.

Sentiment apparently was unanimously against the Territories chairman's bill. His proposed revision of the local government came as a shock. At the noon recess the Senate went into a stormy executive session. Those emerging said it was their unanimous opinion Hawaii should be ready to oppose this and other Washington measures.

"I can not believe the United States Government sincerely plans to deprive 350,000 loyal American citizens of self-government, which is the foundation of American institutions," said Senator Joseph Sylva. "Military government has failed elsewhere and there is no reason to believe it will succeed in Hawaii."

Senator William H. Heen, a leading Democrat, said his party here will do all in its power to oppose the bill, and William Miles, chairman of the Democratic central committee, said: "Knowing Mr. Williams' attitude, I can not believe he is in favor of this bill."

The recent unrest, which cropped out after the Massie-Fortescue murder trial here, abated so suddenly and completely that it had been generally hoped that the threat of a commission government had faded and that there was nothing to face but the recommendations by Assistant Attorney General Richardson, whose suggested changes were slight in comparison to the Williams bill.

Unpaid Teachers on Way To Ask Aid of Congress

Chicago, June 3 (A.P.).—A delegation of Chicago school teachers left today to tell Congress of their plight, after more than a year of payless pay days. Eight representatives of teachers' organizations were in the party, but the nucleus was five teachers—"human exhibits"—who were taken along to tell congressmen of their privations.

The teachers said they had no relief plan to present, but that they would ask the Government to come to their aid, lest they be forced to quit classrooms and turn half a million children into the streets next school term.

HUGE CORPORATION WILL HELP MARKET

nomers, inasmuch as the concern was not planned as a temporary measure, and may stay in operation for some time. It was also asserted that the corporation was strictly an investing organization formed for the purpose of making profits.

Mr. Lamont, who heads the organization as its president, declined to state when it would begin operations. The formal announcement said "its policy in acquiring investments must manifestly be based in large measure upon its confidence in final action by Congress in effectively balancing the budget, and thus manifesting its determination to maintain intact the Government's credit."

Bankers widely expressed gratification over the rapid progress of Congress in whipping the tax measure into shape for a final vote, and pointed to the prompt agreement of the House and Senate conferees as an important factor in today's rise in security prices.

In addition to Mr. Lamont as president of the corporation, another Morgan partner, George Whitney, will serve as chairman of the executive committee. Lansing P. Reed, prominent lawyer, will serve as secretary, and Longstreet Hinton, a member of the Morgan firm's staff, as treasurer.

The executive committee will include Albert H. Wiggin and Charles E. Mitchell, chairmen, respectively, of the Chase National Bank and the National City Bank, the two so-called Rockefeller banks; William C. Potter and A. Amtliney, president and chairman, respectively, of the Guaranty Trust Co. and the Bankers Trust Co., regarded in Wall street as the two leading Morgan banks, and Jackson E. Reynolds, president of the First National Bank.

The setup of the corporation will be similar to that of the National Credit Corporation, which was formed to make advances to banks last October, but which has since been largely superseded by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Like the credit corporation, the investing concern will have a nominal stock capitalization, and will raise its funds almost entirely through sales of debentures to banks wishing to participate. While the initial $100,000,000 has been subscribed by the New York banks, various banking institutions in other leading cities have already signified their intention of joining the group. In addition to the 18 New York banks thus far participating, the two private banking houses are the Morgan firm and Kuhn, Loeb & Co.

It was explained that the investing concern should not be regarded as primarily a Morgan project, for the Morgan concern had merely been selected by the entire group to assume active management. The formal announcement said: "The Morgan firm will, in accordance with the request of subscribing institutions and under the general direction of the corporation's board, act in the acquisition and handling of its investments."

St. Louis to Tax Chain Stores.

St. Louis, June 3 (A.P.).—A bill providing a city license tax on chain stores was passed unanimously today by the board of aldermen. Sponsors of the bill, chiefly independent merchants, regard the bill as a step toward eliminating chain stores. The tax would start at $25 a store for chains of two to five units, excepting the first store. For additional stores the charge would be higher, reaching $250 each for every store above 25.

U. S. WINS ATTACK ON TOKYO SHIP PLAN

Counter-Offensive Succeeds In Naming Group to Handle Italian Arms Issue.

Geneva, June 3 (U.P.).—The United States led a counter attack today on the Japanese hint that the ratios of the London naval treaty should be revised.

Over the opposition of Japan, the disarmament conference naval commission also appointed a conciliation committee to find a compromise on the Italian proposal to lower the tonnage limit under which war vessels are exempt from limitation.

Senator Claude A. Swanson replied vigorously to the Japanese inferences that the present naval ratios of five for the United States, five for Britain and three for Japan should be revised. He said flatly that the "distribution of naval strength in the treaties should be maintained."

Declaring opposition to Japanese demands that the tonnage limit for exemption should be maintained at 600 tons, Mr. Swanson said that any reduction made in this limit should not "disturb the balance of the London treaty."

The United States delegation expressed fear that, if the 600-ton limit is maintained, Japan would be able to build an unlimited number of 600-ton torpedo boats. This circumstance, combined with a Japanese statement that "certain countries should be allowed to retain over-age vessels for defensive purposes," if marked differences in naval strength continues, convinced the Americans that Japan intends soon to ask the commission to reconsider the ratios.

The Italian proposal caused such marked differences of opinion in the commission that it was proposed to name a conciliation committee, which was done over Japan's opposition. The members of the committee include Japan, United States, Britain, France, Germany, Hungary, Italy, Poland, Roumania, Sweden, Brazil, Finland and Russia.

In the moral disarmament committee the Polish project for government control of the press, cinema, theater and radio was vigorously opposed on the grounds that in countries where such control now exists it does not prevent official news agencies from supplying false news.

Canadian Defaulter Of Bail Sentenced

Quebec Seeks Arrest of Six Americans, Alleging Border Kidnaping.

Burlington, Vt., June 3 (A.P.).—Armand Lalanne, Canadian bail defaulter, was sentenced in Federal Court today to 60 days in jail at about the same time that warrants were issued in Sweetsburg, Quebec, for six Americans who allegedly abducted him and carried him over the international border line into Vermont.

Lalanne, who charged that Fred Yudas, of Burlington, his bondsman in a liquor case, and several other men had carried him from his St. Armand, Quebec, home to surrender him in Burlington to Federal authorities, pleaded guilty to charges of possessing liquor and assault on a customs officer.

Although Yudas said he and his companions had seized Lalanne on the American side of the border after he had been lured there through a preconceived plan, Missisquoi County, Quebec, authorities issued the warrants. The warrants charged Leland's abductors with having crossed the border through fields without reporting to immigration authorities.

Despite the issuance of the warrants in Quebec, court attaches here did not believe any international complications would arise as a result of the charges by Lalanne.

Muzzle on Press Told by Publisher

Col. R. R. McCormick Lists Instances; Attributed to Political Power.

Charleston, S. C., June 3 (A.P.).—Col. R. R. McCormick, publisher of the Chicago Tribune, said in a college commencement address here today that with all the recent progress of newspapers efforts have been made in the last ten years to destroy freedom of the press.

Col. McCormick addressed the graduating class of the Citadel, South Carolina Military College. An honorary degree of doctor of laws was conferred on him by the college, of which Gen. Charles P. Summerall is president.

The Chicago publisher listed instances in Illinois, Ohio and other States, where, he said, unsuccessful efforts were made to persecute newspapermen. He continued:

"Are all these efforts to imprison the press, coming in rapid succession all over the country, mere coincidences, or do they indicate an almost nation-wide effort to reimpose persecution upon liberty?

"Is it a part of a general movement of those in political power to muzzle protest?"

TAX BILL PROVISIONS REVEALED BY CRISP

and college football games from the admission tax. Mr. Crisp added that there had been "no controversy whatever over the gift tax."

He predicted the House "ought to get through with the bill in about two hours or less tomorrow."

"The Senate provisions on telephone and telegraph messages, including the language on leased wires were retained," Crisp said. "We kept also the Senate provisions on second-class mail and extended the first class rates until July 1, 1934. "We kept the Senate provision on insurance and admissions and the House language on foreign credits."

The Senate rates were retained on bond transfers, but the Senate receded on the Gore amendment for a tax of 80 per cent on all salaries and bonuses over $75,000.

A 4 per cent tax on oil pipe line charges was retained.

Explaining the conferees' action on the consolidated and affiliated corporate returns, Crisp said the House had been anxious to test out whether the imposition of a higher tax over the flat rate for corporations would not produce more money for the Government.

The Senate had placed a flat 14 per cent rate on all corporate returns, after the House had put the rate at 13¾ for single corporation returns and 15 per cent on consolidated and affiliated returns. Under the compromise, the flat rate is 13¾ per cent for single corporate returns and 14½ for consolidated and affiliated returns.

Treasury figures showed yesterday that the anticipated deficit for the coming fiscal year now is $1,476,000,000, while it was $1,241,000,000 when the tax measure was before the House. Saving of $350,000,000 in expenditures, along with the $1,119,000,000 revenue bill, would leave a surplus of $2,000,000, according to Treasury estimates sent Crisp.

USE OF WILL TOPIC TO GIRL GRADUATES

Head of Goucher College Talks to Mount Vernon Seminary Class.

Speaking last night before the graduating class of Mount Vernon Seminary, one of Washington's longest-established schools for girls, Dr. David A. Robertson, president of Goucher College, talked on "The Future Self." He emphasized the need for "intellectual initiative" in getting on in the world after the graduate left school.

"The race," he said, "is not always or even often, won by the brilliant. Those who keep on and use their will and determination often pass those of quicker minds."

A memorial wreath ceremony preceded the exercises at the seminary. Wreaths were placed in memory of Mrs. A. G. Henaley by Miss H. G. Brouse, a member of the faculty, and Miss Louise Ranar. Wreaths at the chapel entrance were placed by Miss K. E. Hill and Miss Frances Witte.

Miss Jean Dean Cole, president of the seminary, presented the diplomas to the graduating class. Prayer was said by the Rev. Robert Johnston, of St. John's Episcopal Church.

Tax Rate of Marlboro Is Cut 50 Per Cent

The tax rate of the town of Marlboro has been cut 50 per cent, Judge T. Van Clagett, one of the board of town commissioners, announced yesterday. Next year's rate will be 10 cents per $100, as contrasted with 20 cents last year.

The decision to cut the tax rate was due to the demands of many persons for relief from heavy taxes. By stringent economy in town affairs and the stopping of public improvements, it is believed that the town may be able to go through the next year on half its previous budget. Marlboro's slash is the greatest cut yet made in the tax rates in towns in Prince Georges County, although both Mount Rainier and Bladensburg have cut their rate from 20 cents to 15 cents. In addition to Judge Van Clagett, the commissioners of Marlboro are Charles J. Hill and Fred W. Wilson.

and Loretta Sutterling, 31, of 1307 H street northwest.

Taber, police said, told a story of being picked up by Owens and two of the women at Twenty-second street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest yesterday afternoon. He said that immediately after Owens got in the cab, he pulled a pistol and made him drive a few blocks down Pennsylvania avenue, where they picked up Hardy and the other woman.

Then, according to Taber, he was made to drive to an alley off Thomas Circle near St. John's College. All of his passengers got out, he said, and ordered him to wait. They returned with a large jar, evidently containing whisky.

Taber said he was next ordered to drive to 2136 K street, where the five again left the cab. He said Owens told him to come back in half an hour and a $10 bill would be waiting for him. The hacker told police he picked up a couple of fares and then returned to the K street address.

Owens met him at the door and told him to come in. When Taber asked for his money, Owens is said to have replied that he "didn't think he had any."

Drove to Drug Store.

When Taber protested, Owens again pulled out the pistol and with Hardy and the three women, forced him back into his cab. After driving through the Northwest section, the alleged bandits made him drive to the drug store, Taber said.

One of the girls got out and went in the store, came out a few moments later and reported that the "coast is clear," Taber said. Then the two men got out and went inside leaving the three girls in the cab.

There were about fifteen customers in the main part of the store when the two bandits entered. They first went to the back counter and Owens asked Miss Isabelle Pickett, clerk, for Dr. Arthur Bigue, calling him by name.

Miss Pickett explained that the druggist was busy in the rear of the store making up prescriptions. The two men pushed past her and entered the secluded prescription department.

Dr. Bigue looked up from his work to see Owens covering him with the pistol. He explained later that the man used to work for him and he thought the entire proceedings a joke until Owens said:

"This is a real holdup, Doc. Don't move, or I'll drill you."

Dr. Bigue was forced to open the safe and the twe men scooped up $400 and ran out a side door.

Meantime, Miss Pickett had run to the front of the store, crying that the place was being held up, but apparently she had a hard time convincing the customers. No one offered to aid. She took a nickel from the till and called police.

The girl clerk ran from the front door just as the two alleged bandits were coming out the side entrance. She tried to trip the two men, but they pushed her away and ran to their cab.

James Sprigman, of 2131 Florida avenue northwest, had just left the store, leaving his wife and daughter inside. They ran out and shouted to him to stop the men. He ran to the side of Taber's cab just as Owens and Hardy slammed the door.

Owens is said to have leaned out and fired one shot into the ground as the cab pulled away from the curb.

The shot brought Mr. Gaffney and several taxicab drivers into pursuit. Taber's cab sped down Twentieth street to Q, when it went the wrong direction on the one-way street, closely followed by a string of cars.

The chase led along Q street to Massachusetts avenue flashing through red lights, and then into P street, where four shots were fired from the fleeing cab, police were told.

The pursuers dropped back when the firing started, allowing John T. Settlers, colored taxi driver, of 901 French street northwest, and Russell Piel, taxi driver, of 106 U street northeast, to pull into the chase.

From P street, the fleeing cab turned into Thirty-first street down to M street, with Settlers and Piel close behind. At M street the cab turned into a dead end street and was forced to back again into M street, allowing the pursuing string of cars to close the gap.

Car Is Overtaken.

At Thirty-fifth and M streets Mr. Gaffney shouted to Private Clark to join the chase. The policeman leaped on the running board of Settlers' taxicab and the pursuit roared across Key Bridge.

At the Virginia end Taber's cab was caught in a jam of traffic, and Private Clark was able to cover the alleged bandits. They surrendered with no show of resistance. All were taken to the Seventh Precinct.

Tonight at the clubhouse on Mayo road there will be a dance to which the general public is invited. A nominal fee will enable couples to spend an enjoyable evening swaying to the modern tunes out where the harsh jangle of the city is unknown.

Tomorrow one of Woodland Beach's prominent lot owners, who has erected a summer cottage on his property, will entertain his friends and customers at a housewarming. He is F. K. Lorenz, of 3624 Georgia avenue, who conducts a jewelry business. He will have among his guests a number of members of the German Theater Club of Washington and there will be music and dancing for his guests.

The popularity of Woodland Beach as a spot for summer homes is increasing rapidly with additional lot owners being recorded daily. A lot may be purchased for the small down payment of $9, together with the price of a subscription to The Washington Post, while monthly payments of $3.50 will take care of the balance.

For those who have not visited the Beach to learn of its recreational facilities, it is reached via Defense highway as far as Camp Parole, turning right there onto Maryland State highway No. 2 across South River, and then left onto Mayo road, which leads directly to the property.

Bathing, boating and fishing will be offered those who like sports, while for others there is the attraction of complete relaxation in the shade with a book or a magazine. Visit Woodland Beach today or tomorrow and you will want to be one of the many happy property owners there.

RELIEF AND POLITICS.

If the stability of national finance is to be established, as a prerequisite of recovery from the depression, Congress must beat down the spendthrift proposals embodied in the two "relief" bills sponsored by Senate and House Democrats. In a concerted effort to snatch some political credit for relieving popular distress the Democrats of Congress have made the fatal mistake of espousing measures which, if enacted, would demoralize the Government's finances, increase the debt and therefore the tax burden, and actually contribute to national distress.

At a single sitting the House ways and means committee struck out $100,000,000 of the pork contained in the Garner bill; but the remaining pork provisions are a public outrage. Republican opposition to this proposed raid in behalf of congressmen at the expense of the Treasury was unanimous in the committee. The bill commanded solid Democratic support. It was reported to the House and became the subject of a caucus of House Democrats, who are staking the fortunes of their party on the measure.

This bill provides for construction of public works in selected districts and States. These works are not needed by the Government, but the diversion of public money to their construction is supposed to increase the popularity of the congressmen who share in this distribution of pork. No more reckless or improvident misuse of public money has ever been proposed. A vicious feature of the bill is the immediate imposition of an additional tax upon every motorist of ¼ of a cent per gallon for gasoline. This tax would be in addition to the proposed 1 cent tax in the bill sponsored by Senate Democrats.

Both the Senate and House bills offered by Democrats call for enormous bond issues. The basic idea of both measures is the fallacy that the United States can better its condition by saddling further debts upon its harassed citizens. Enactment of either of these bills would compel Congress to increase taxes above the extremely high level provided for in the revenue bill that has just been framed. Instead of being on the high road to prosperity in the near future, the country would find itself confronted with a budget problem even more staggering than that which has been solved by imposing drastic taxes at a time when taxpayers are at their wits' end to keep afloat.

Against the plan underlying both of these bond raids the President stands resolutely opposed. He offers a program of public relief which avoids the blunder of reckless indebtedness and the political crime of pork-barrel raids upon the Treasury. His plan would give immediate relief to States and communities, both by loans to alleviate unemployment and by immense contributions through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to projects which will pay their own way and thereby avert the calamity of increased debt and taxation.

Some of the most influential Democrats in both houses of Congress have co-operated faithfully, without partisanship, in the formulation of suitable legislation to meet this national crisis. It is a pity that partisanship should now thrust itself into a situation which affects all Americans and which can not be met successfully unless all political parties co-operate.

President Hoover is on solid economic ground. Those who propose to squander public money, much of it for the political advantage of legislators, are in an indefensible position. The record is now being made. The people who must pay the bill in the long run will have it in their power to pass decisive judgment upon these relief proposals. From a political viewpoint President Hoover will have nothing to fear when the time comes for the public verdict.

COMPLETING THE TAX BILL.

In thirteen hours of steady work the tax bill conferees wrote a new measure from the conflicting provisions of the House and Senate bills. It was a remarkable achievement, made possible by a genuine desire on the part of the conferees to get the tax bill on the statute books at the earliest possible moment. Chairman Smoot and members of the conference committee deserve a public vote of thanks for this effort to end the uncertainty that has bogged recovery plans.

For the most part the bill came from conference as it was written by the Senate. Conferees for the House receded from the position that body had taken on about 200 Senate amendments. The Senate conferees receded on about 30 amendments. This may be partly due to the fact that the need for revenue has changed considerably since the House completed its bill. But many of the items eliminated from the House bill were what Secretary Mills terms "atrocities," written into the measure in the frantic days following the defeat of the sales tax.

Without going into details, the bill as it stands seems to be as good a revenue measure as can be written under the circumstances. It applies drastic income taxes—running up as high as 55 per cent in the higher brackets—increased levies on corporations, and practically all of the excise taxes which take the place of the proposed sales tax. The tariff items on oil, coal, lumber and copper remain in the bill. That was inevitable after they had been approved by considerable majorities in the House and Senate.

Both houses can add to the excellent work of the conference committee by promptly adopting the tax bill as it is reported to them. It contains many items that are distasteful to members of Congress and to citizens who must pay the higher taxes. But all tax legislation is based on compromise. The important factor is that it provides additional revenue amounting to $1,115,000,000, which is estimated as sufficient to balance the budget.

All uncertainty as to the determination of Congress to dig its way out from under the enormous Federal deficit will be removed if this bill is not followed by the enactment of pork-barrel legislation. Business will go forward when the Government gives it a solid background of financial stability, but if Congress should run amuck with relief legislation by creating new bond issues, the hard work devoted to balancing the budget will have been in vain.

EDWARD J. STELLWAGEN.

Edward J. Stellwagen built his life into the business and civic fabric of Washington. He had a long career—it takes time to accomplish such a multiplicity of things as he achieved. He lived 77 years, and, until a few months ago every day of that span was filled with enterprise. His interests were legion in number, and in order that they might have fair chance of success in their infancy he gave them his time, strength and vigilant attention. He was a brilliant business strategist, a keen judge of men, a rare estimator of potential values. The businesses with which he was identified prospered, and the community received from his hands many benefits.

Washington has reason to miss Mr. Stellwagen, and will long remember him. That his work might endure would have been his wish, and assuredly it is abundantly fulfilled.

THE ECONOMIC CONFERENCE.

Great Britain's suggestion that a world conference be held with a view to stabilizing commodity prices is still enveloped in confusion and uncertainty. The United States has agreed to participate in such a conference, but Europe seems to be unusually skeptical. France has received the suggestion coolly, and Germany seems to be interested only in a conference that would discuss all of the world's economic ills.

All of the European governments are anxious for a world economic conference that would include in its agenda reparations, war debts owed to the United States and tariffs. European statesmen would flock anywhere to discuss those subjects. Any solution of those questions, they assume, would involve the transfer of part of Europe's troubles to America. Constant pressure has been exercised upon the United States to join an international economic conference ever since hard times set in. But the administration will not join in a futile confab when the American people have no intention of opening their protected market to world competition or of paying Europe's war debts.

Indications are that Premier MacDonald was making a roundabout attempt to draw the United States Government into the Lausanne conference on reparations when he first approached the State Department on the subject of a price stabilization effort. Ambassador Lindsay discussed an international conference for stabilization of commodity prices with Undersecretary of State Castle. Both assumed that if such a conference were called, it would be held in London. President Hoover consented to have this Government participate on the assumption that war debts and tariffs would be excluded from consideration and that the gathering would be independent of any other convention. Then the British government came forth with a suggestion that the proposed economic conference be held as a part of the Lausanne conference on reparations.

Confusion was certain to result from such procedure. Apparently European governments were anticipating a general economic conference. But the United States has agreed to take part only in a movement to loosen credit facilities, stabilize commodity prices and thus stimulate business through normal channels. This country will not be enticed into a general economic conclave for the purpose of devising means whereby America could save the world by sacrificing her own people.

Since the attitude of the United States has become definitely known, European enthusiasm for an economic conference has suddenly changed to indifference or hostility. Statesmen of Europe are not interested in discussing price stability. What they want is to pry open the American market and shunt the burdens of the last war upon American taxpayers. If all possibility of gouging the United States is eliminated, they have no interest left in the proposed gathering.

President Hoover may be expected to insist that the original purpose of the projected conference be preserved and that all connection with the Lausanne gathering be severed. Otherwise it would be futile to hold such a conference at all. Europe ought to understand by this time that Uncle Sam will not be drawn into the reparations squabble either through the front or back door.

ENGLAND TO EXPAND CREDIT.

The indications are that the Bank of England is preparing to follow the example of the American Federal Reserve system and embark upon a determined campaign to expand credit and provide easy money with a view to stimulating industrial activity and raising the price level. It will not give much satisfaction to the "cheap money" advocates, however, to note the repeated assurance in connection with this program that Great Britain has no intention of resorting to inflation of any kind.

Within the last fortnight the Bank of England has bought about $20,000,000 in gold from the Bank of France and from New York. Financial observers in this country see in this move preparation for the inauguration of a vigorous easy money policy. This course has been recommended by economic leaders in England for some time. Sir Walter Layton of The Economist has insistently urged it upon the Bank of England as its duty. He favors, if possible, cooperation in a world-wide effort to secure a 30 per cent increase in commodity prices, but at least in what is termed the sterling area.

Not by any inflationary means, but by easing money or facilitating credit, is the gradual restoration of prices to be encouraged; reduction of the bank rate, probably to 2 per cent, is advocated with the assurance to industry that it would be maintained at that low rate until prices have risen virtually one-third, always with the proviso that there shall be no inflationary increases in other costs, such as labor.

The restoration of prices is not dependent upon inflation of the currency, with all the attendant evils of such a course and the immeasurably greater losses caused than benefits secured. With the restoration of confidence and resumption of business the commodity price level will rise again. England has firmly avoided any inflation of the currency. This nation is just as resolutely opposed to any adulteration of the dollar. Both countries are proceeding on sound lines when they amplify the supply of credit to aid legitimate industry in reestablishing normal activity.

After cannibalism has been abandoned by primitive men in the jungles of the earth, it doubtless still will be practiced by boards of directors and lone-star pirates in the financial purlieus of civilization.

It begins to look as if both prohibition planks to be written at Chicago will contribute new words to the dictionary.

People who go to Europe third class have the privilege of looking down upon those who can not go at all.

SIX MILLION MEN

From the Topeka Capital.

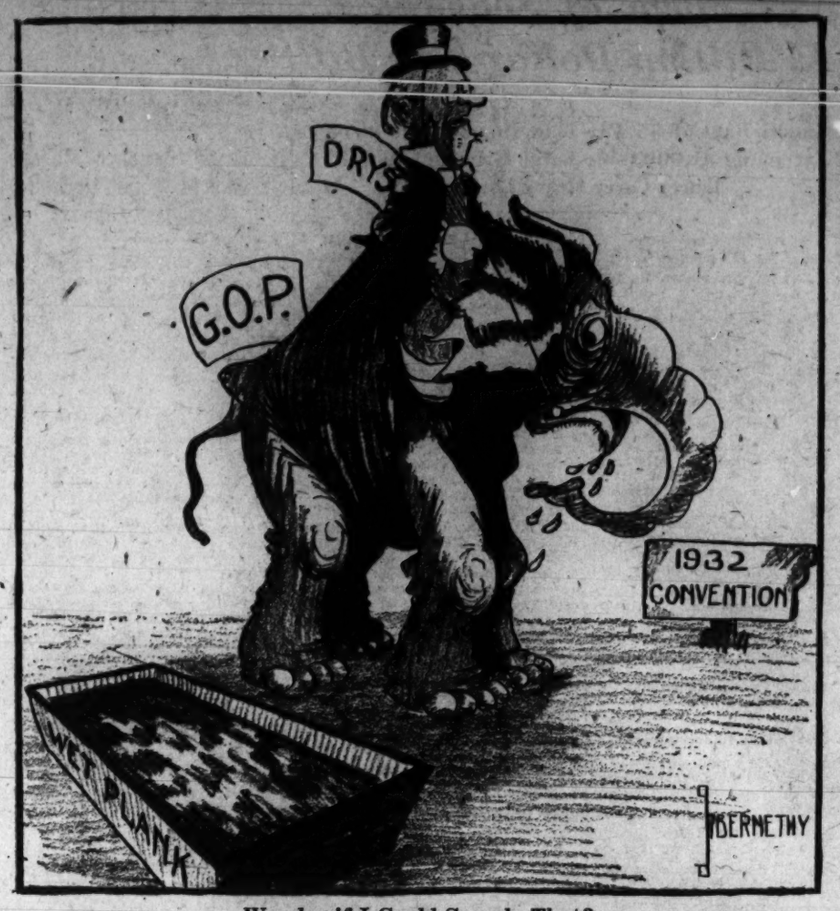
As matters turned out, the Springfield Republican concludes that of all grotesque notions growing out of the World War the most fatuous was the calculation of the economic loss occasioned by the killing of 6,000,000 young men. The statisticians assumed that they might have had an average life expectancy and that their productive capacity in an economic sense was so many dollars or hundreds or thousands a year during that time. The loss calculated was prodigious.

"The reality has been very different," says the Republican. "If the 6,000,000 were to rise from the dead, what could be done with them? The unemployed in the world are already estimated at from 20,000,000 to 30,000,000; employers and governments would despair if there were any more of them."

Unemployment, as the Republican says, is the worst of all disasters. "Time," it remarks, "is a one-way street; there is no recovery of years that the locust has eaten. Whether the world is rich or poor matters less than whether the people living in it are so placed that they can live useful and happy lives. The world's present experience should make an end of the notion that employment is but an incident of the economic system, instead of its corner stone."

Workers have always known this and the one terror that clouds their lives is fear of loss of the job. Now employers have come to a realization of the same truth. When they have lost the job employers can not market goods. The enigma is how to discover the secret of a planned in place of a hit-or-miss capitalism. "The plain fact is," says the Republican, "that millions of lives are threatened with ruin, and existing conditions are in some ways, as a great jurist says, 'worse than war.'"

It is not, in fact, as bad as the Republican assumes. There were no 20,000,000 to 30,000,000 workless in years preceding the World War, and the young men coming on found a place for themselves. Going a little further into it, if the 6,000,000 young men swept away by the war were living they still might find work—but for the devastating effects of the war itself. Not only did it kill them, but it is chiefly responsible for 20,000,000 to 30,000,000 others unemployed in the industrial part of the world.



Wonder if I Could Sample That?

POST HASTE.

A European debt conference will be called by any other name if Uncle Sam will but attend.

Kentucky has struck gold. Visitors will be welcomed with shotguns, as in coal mining.

Just how Uncle Andy decided that Mr. Mellon should wear knee breeches and the ambassador appear in pants is a bit obscure to our plus-four informality.

Huey's long-range kingfishing in the Louisiana Legislature is as welcome as a bonus army.

As a tasty chaser after a disagreeable session at Lausanne and dissensions at Geneva, the powers can foregather in London in sweet accord on the desirability of higher prices.

If Congress votes support for the bonus army it might as well provide tent cities and rations for a dozen other lobby delegations that will be on their way next week.

When the House committee gets through investigating Government competition with private business it can begin on a flock of utterly unnecessary social services.

Any Democratic keynoter is going to be in a difficult position on the tariff after the exhibition of his colleagues in Congress, but attempts at explanationing by Senator Barkley, who voted for embargo duties, will raise a hee-haw even from the party donkey.

Among other economy measures a bill should be passed to cut out half the number of the President's callers.

Veterans should realize that the greater the number who now descend upon Washington the more impossible such pressure would render congressional action in their favor, even if such class preference were contemplated.

Certainly all these Bicentennial celebrations have made G. Washington and S. Bloom better known to the Nation than ever before.

Having declined a seat at the Lausanne conference for the 'steenth time, Uncle Sam should also give assurance that this time he will not even be peeking in the window.

The Reichstag will be dissolved so that there will be no danger of Chancellor von Papen, in Bruening's shoes, being voted out for walking like Charlie Chaplin. PAUL HUDSON.

The new revenue bill has in it a 100 per cent tax on income earned through violations of State or Federal laws. Thus stealing from the Government is changed to stealing for the Government.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE THINGS ETERNAL.

If life be nothing but a fight
For food; a place to sleep at night,
And fire and robes to wear;
If growth be nothing more than size,
And age be merely dimming eyes,
Then death's the end of care.

If men, like bugs and flies and worms,
But live their days on nature's terms
And in her process die,
Then brute and beast, who eat and drink,
Are better off than men who think
And often sit and sigh.

But age with joy a book can thumb
And dream of ampler years to come,
And under every care
And back of hurt of every kind
The thoughtful man can solace find
Which softens his despair.

Long after nature's growth is done
A growth in wisdom still goes on,
With its attendant peace,
And something hints that worldly strife
Is but the gateway to a life
Where growth shall never cease.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY DEAR LOUISE:

Humility is the chief of virtues, but, like all good things, it becomes a snare and a delusion if you overdo it.

Perhaps there is little danger of your being too humble, in a land where gray-beards jerk a forelock to youth and femininity; but you don't seem any too sure of yourself at times, and a word or two concerning the value of self-respect will do you no harm.

If you lack self-respect, you will lack self-confidence; and if you lack self-confidence, you will lose many an easy victory for want of trying.

I can't tell you whether you need more self-respect than you now possess. That is for you to decide. But if you feel the need of a little better opinion of yourself, I can tell you how to obtain it.

Self-respect, like all other values in this world, is relative.

Consciously or otherwise, you arrive at a valuation of yourself by making comparison with others.

"What a wonder I am!" really means: "How wonderful I seem when compared with Anne, Bett and Jane."

And since comparison is the root of the matter, it is obvious that there are two ways by which you can arrive at an excellent opinion of yourself.

One is by raising yourself up, and the other is by pulling others down.

You have known people who habitually spoke in scornful tones of everybody. Belle was one of that kind. Her chief delight was to point out the faults and weaknesses and failings of her acquaintances.

She didn't mean any harm by it. That was just her cheap way of winning self-respect. She was making herself shine by comparison. The more faults she found in others, the more reason she had to be pleased with herself.

The weakness of that system is obvious. If you can seem to get higher merely by pulling others down, you lose all incentive to climb and so remain where you are.

A much better plan is to do some honest climbing and leave the rest to nature. Each gain of ground will give you new confidence, and self-respect will follow as the addition of two and two makes four.

The way to respect yourself in the presence of third-graders is to win promotion to the fourth grade. Love, DAD.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

A Courageous Congressman.

Kansas City Star.

It is refreshing to find a veteran Democratic congressman like Ralph F. Lozier, of Carrollton, rising in his party caucus to denounce the pork-barrel public works bill proposed by Speaker Garner. In general the party organization is able to put pressure on dissenters and bring them into line. But Representative Lozier refused to be stampeded against his better judgment for a measure that is so extravagant and dangerous. He set a fine example of putting patriotism above politics.

Mud Slinging Statistics.

Life.

A conservative estimate is that the mud slung during a political campaign gathered together makes a number of mountains out of molehills.

Economic Fallacy.

Minneapolis Journal.

A nation cannot purchase prosperity by borrowing money to waste on nonproductive and unneeded public works. Germany tried it. Germany borrowed and borrowed and borrowed, and spent her borrowings on public buildings, stadiums, idealistic housing enterprises to be operated at less than cost, and what not. And Germany, unable to pay her debts, unable to get any more credit, is much worse off than she was before she tried the same visionary scheme that Mr. Garner now proposes.

No Right to Support.

Louisville Courier-Journal.

As long as the veterans remain in their own communities they have a right to agitate for the bonus bill, faulty as their reasoning may be in demanding a measure so injurious to their country. When they come of their own choice and throw themselves on the city of Washington, however, they have no more right to support by the Government during their stay in the Capital than any other lobby which appears in Washington in an attempt to influence Congress.

High Cost of "Pork."

Kansas City Times.

While hogs are quoted at lower prices than have prevailed in the last 50 years, political "pork" shows no decline in cost. For example, the maintenance of superfluous navy yards. These and kindred naval provisions along the coasts have been objects of attack by economists for many years, in fair as well as foul economic weather. But even under the stress of present conditions the House naval affairs committee reports that it is unable to do anything about eliminating the cost of these superfluous activities in this session of Congress.

If the committee had tried to make this saving, if it had been courageous enough to disregard the pressure that always comes from local areas affected by proposed abandonments, it could have reported a bill out long ago with a proffered saving of $5,000,000 annually. But political pork prices are tenacious. They are hard to depress. Congress is finding this out—or rather the country is finding it out through Congress—in the general considerations for cutting Government expenditures.

Add Definitions.

Atchison Globe.

An optimist is a man who thinks a member of Congress is earning what he and his kin are receiving from the dear, sweet Government.

Party Platforms.

Topeka Capital.

Newton D. Baker, who may be the Democratic presidential nominee, made a remarkable remark concerning platforms the other day, directed to the Democrats. "The most important thing to be done at Chicago," he declared, "is the adoption of a platform short enough to be memorized by a man whose memory is not very good; a platform bold, truthful and constructive, and addressed to the evils from which the country is now suffering."

But the trouble with platforms as a rule is that they are not even short enough to be remembered by the politicians who write them.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Mr. Parker Discusses Names for Broadcasters and Says Audience Is Annoyed by Advertising on the Air.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: On a recent trip across the continent, I chanced upon an arresting paragraph in a Topeka newspaper. Some radio advertiser, it seems, professed to hear a popular demand for a new name for "announcer." Among the suggestions were "airmaster," "chonagus," "salutator," "marshal" and "mike-master." Personally, I have known wrathful owners of receiving sets to call announcers names which are usually heard only in garages, or among the best people of the Palm Beach colony.

Without delving into nomenclature unfit to print, I can think of several names for the purveyors of ballyhoo over the ether. Here are a dozen samples: Anaesthetist, barker, bore, bunkspiller, bull-thrower, dopester, huckster, home-wrecker, hooey-slinger, spouting geyser, wind-jammer, public nuisance. Coast down the alphabet yourself. It is an inexpensive indoor sport.

It is said that some of the announcers gag at the flapdoodle they are compelled to chant at the behest of the radio advertiser. A large section of the public shares this nausea. One of the potentates of broadcasting tells us that the sale of a radio set is the sale of a seat in the theater of the air. Picture that gentleman's reactions if he bought a ticket for a stage performance and found it heralded, interrupted and concluded with advertising patter! If actors took such liberties as do the broadcasters the audience would wreck the box office. Yet this is precisely the radio owner's grievance under the grotesque conditions that now obtain. He feels that he was gypped when he bought his seat in the theater of the air. FRANK A. PARKER.

Reader Asks if Marriage in the Federal Service Is a Crime.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: There is a bill pending in Congress which has been passed by the House of Representatives. A clause of this bill provides for the discharge of either the wife or the husband of a married couple if both are employed by the Government.

Most of these workers are among the lower paid employes, whose combined salaries are not more than is needed to take care of their necessities of life and, in many cases, those of their dependents.

The number of cases where both the husband and the wife are working for the Government is very small, in proportion to the total number employed in the Federal service. By dismissing them, little, if any, would be gained. On the other hand, it would destroy any merit system we have, seniority of service, &c. It would undermine the foundation upon which the morale of the Government worker is built. The thought among the unmarried employes that they would be dismissed from their work if they should marry would have a very demoralizing effect upon these workers.

In most cases these married workers were unmarried when they entered the Government service. They are citizens and, in many cases, taxpayers in their respective States. Are they to be penalized because they committed the crime of marrying while in the Government service? Are we going to have a law on our statute books that will punish an employe of the Federal Government for having married? M. J. B.

Reader Comments Upon Senator Harrison's Speech on Passage of Tax Bill.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Senator Pat Harrison takes up some more valuable time for the purpose of advising his people "back home" that the President's appearance before the Senate had nothing to do with the speeding up and passing of the revenue bill. There may be a few people who will fall for this latest political bunkum, but the country at large knows differently. With all due respect to the senator and his colleagues on both sides of the chamber, it is my guess that the revenue bill would still be the subject of debate and undisposed of in the Senate had the President not appeared and urged its passage when he did.

To avoid the time and expense incident to the sending out of a few thousand extra copies of the Congressional Record containing the senator's explanation, let it be said that the country is not now interested in who was responsible for the speeding up and passing of the bill, or whether that person was a Democrat or Republican. There remains some important legislation to be enacted before adjournment, legislation equally as important as the revenue bill, and it is the prompt passage of this legislation which 99 per cent of the citizens of the country most desire.

Hagerstown Reader Says Farmers Would Cheerfully Replace Government Clerks.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Government should balance its budget as we farmers must balance ours, by lessening our expenses, through hiring less help and at lower wages.

Thousands of farmers would jump to get these Government positions at one-third the salaries now paid.

Taxes should not be laid on virtuous thrift and industry, but rather on injurious vices, like booze, dope, tobacco, gambling, &c.

The proposed 2-cent stamp on checks will lessen their use, and increase the need of money that they supplant, and increase our financial stringency. Can't congressmen see this? D. WEBSTER GROH.

How to Be Beautiful

Expert Answers Questions Propounded by Readers.

L. W. writes: "I had a slight burn from a permanent wave recently. Is there any danger."

By this time I hope that L. W. has forgotten all about it. Permanent wave methods are so improved these days that a burn can only be caused by the operator's carelessness. There is no danger in a surface burn if kept clean and if care is taken that comb does not scrape off scab. If left alone scab will fall off and the spot will be healed. The only danger surrounding a surface burn is infection caused by neglect in keeping the area clean. Warm solution of bicarbonate of soda should be applied constantly with cotton to draw out any inflammation. In the event of swelling, a physician should be consulted immediately.

P. M. wishes a simple but quick exercise for reducing the ankle. Now all exercise should be undertaken with patience. Persistence has its own reward. Here are two simple exercises which have been known to whittle off excess ankle weight.

The first can be done at any time during the day (at least ten times whenever you think of it). Rise on toes, give the legs a good stretching, come down on your heels.

The second is less simple. Sit in a chair, crossing one knee over the other, let's say left over right, first. Rotate the left foot from the ankle, begin with a good stretch forward and down, then to the left, up and around to the right and down. Now reverse the circle, starting forward and down, to the right, up, around to the left and down. Repeat several times. Then cross right knee over left and repeat with right foot, rotating from ankle in an inward circle, then from ankle in an outward circle.

Mrs. P.: Your daughter is right about the pillow being the possible cause of that heaviness under the chin. I am especially suspicious because you are sure your posture is right, you say you hold our head up and walk and sit erect, and the tie-up treatment you outline is excellent to firm a double chin. A high mound of pillows throws the head forward and this may cause an ugly line (similar to the dowager's hump at the back) as well as a "bunching" under the chin. Do try sleeping wthout a pillow entirely, or use a baby pillow if you must have one.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

Two bandana handkerchiefs make the most adorable kitchen apron! (A Dah-ray adaptation.)

NEW YORK, June 3.—Where are fabrics going? Now along comes a fabric that looks and acts like leather—and miladi lu-v-es it—and poor me, poor me—I have to investigate it fer m' deah publick!

At the present this cloth is produced only by the French silk houses. To quote my bulletin, translated: "It is an acetate warp, spun silk filling construction embossed in designs simulating leather, among them being sharkskin.

Now, don't take a nose dive, dahrling. An "acetate" anything means nothing more alarming than synthetic—chemical, something produced by man and not by nature. And, since all the new and lovely fabrics are synthetic, as it were, this one is not too much of a novelty.

But, alas, it hasn't been named yet! When it is, it will surely have a perfect name, one that will tell the mere woman who buys and wears it at a glance just eggs-actly what it is. Not to mention two or three names—maybe four or five. Ennyhow, when you hear of a cloth that resembles leather, no matter what name it masquerades under, 'member that you read about it first here, willyah?

• • • •

But there's nothing synthetic nor acetate about the idea for an adorable house apron made from two colorful bandana handkerchiefs! It's the darlingish idea—I had simply forgotten all about it, when the most gorilicious doctor in the wur-r-r-rld reminded me—saving me a relapse. leaflet ideas being so-o-o-o-o scarce.

So I up and made you the leaflet telling you how to make the apron, out of simply nothing, my deah, but two bandana hankies—and in ten minutes, too. Honestly, not a speck of extra ribbon, nor fancy edge finishings, nor anything—just a snip of the scissors, and there you are.

'Nif you don't think this takes the kitchen out of kitchen aprons! Well, it's the hit of the evening to put a bandana hankie apron on after the theater and serve a bite to eat—or in the small hours of the morning when you can't call it breakfast and you can't call it supper, and you just eat it anyhow—no, not the apron!

Stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the directions for making it, and the bandana hankie apron is yours!

Wool voile for summer coats, lined with what is called self material, meaning more wool voile—is good. Something very quietly elegant about it, too.

Have you any ideas for leaflets? Meaning any leaflets that you would like us to make for you. If you have, on with them, on, on, ere we perish!

'N' a few leaflets left telling you how to make a variety of boudoir dolls, all in your spare finger time, 'specially during vacation. On with the envelopes!

• • • •

Ostrich feather fabrics! Yes, gossamere as it may look but not feel, this is a new material that is very smart. 'Course you can't expect anything so delicate to bear up under real wear—but then, who cares? If you want something to wear, try a kemp wool—actually—made of kemp! Wot nex! Wot nex!

AN EXHIBITION OF RESTRAINT.

SOME 20 months ago while playing in an international match in London with Mr. Theodore A. Lightner as my partner, I invented a bid. Mr. Lightner had opened the bidding with one diamond. I held nine hearts, including the four top honors. My holding did not justify a Forcing Takeout, and yet it was so strong that it justified a try for Slam if I could correctly picture my holding to my partner. Mr. Lightner is a great player and can draw inferences with marvelous precision. I bid five hearts, and Mr. Lightner passed. Inasumch as the opponents held two Aces, we made our contract of five hearts, and no more.

The other day an almost identical situation occurred in the city of Louisville, in a Duplicate game, and not all the players, according to my informant, Mr. William J. Bell, showed the same restraint or reached the proper contract.

The hand and bidding were:

East—Dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.

	♠ A K Q J 10 8 6 5 2 ♡ — ◇ 9 3 ♣ 7 5
♠ 7 ♡ 6 5 2 ◇ A 8 5 2 ♣ A 6 4 3 2	N W E S	♠ 9 4 3 ♡ Q 10 9 8 3 4 3 ◇ 7 4 ♣ Q 9
	♠ — ♡ A K J 7 ◇ K Q J 10 6 ♣ K J 10 8

The Bidding:

South	West	North	East
			Pass
1◇	Pass	5♠	Pass

and now many Souths bid either five notrump or six diamonds, and the hand was inevitably doomed to defeat.

Undoubtedly North's proper bid after his partner's Opening bid, with this hand, is five spades, a bid which is both an invitation and a warning. It clearly pictures the tremendous mass strength in the spade suit, but denies that the holder has a better bid, which would be a Forcing Takeout. Therefore the hand does not hold a tremendous spade suit and another Ace, because if East held such a strong trump suit, as well as another Ace, he would then make a Forcing Takeout and reach the best bid in the hands gradually. North has pointed the way to South, and South should heed the warning.

TODAY'S POINTER.

The safe bidding of Slams is based upon the elimination of the possibility of losing tricks to adversely held honors—not upon the count of playing-tricks, however accurate that count may be in reaching a game contract.

Mrs. Putnam Gets Welcome in Paris

Ocean Flier Forces Husband to Share Honors Crowd Bestows.

Paris, June 3 (A.P.).—France gave Amelia Earhart Putnam a sample "Lindbergh welcome" when she arrived from London today to accept honors for her solo crossing of the Atlantic.

With newspapers screaming the line, "The Girl Lindbergh," the crowds went just as wild, threatening once to carry her on shoulders to her hotel, despite all the police could do. She was rescued by a member of the staff of the American Embassy, however, and taken to a hotel where she was forced to appear time and again on the balcony to acknowledge the roar of the crowd.

The demonstrations started when the young flier alighted from the train which brought her from Cherbourg. As she appeared attired in a dark blue ensemble trimmed with gray fox, and carrying a huge bouquet, thousands broke the police lines and surrounded her.

Her husband, G. P. Putnam, the American publisher, whom she had greeted on his arrival at Cherbourg today, modestly stepped back at the outset, but Amelia grabbed his arm and forced him to accept the cheers with her.

Father Loses Right To Disputed Child

Foster Parent Is Awarded Custody of Boy by Judge in Tulsa.

Tulsa, Okla., June 3 (A.P.).—Without attempting to determine the disputed parentage of 3-year-old Willard Warren Waters, Judge Harry Halley has awarded custody of the boy to M. D. Willard, 50, the foster-father. J. D. Waters, 52, construction foreman, however, was held to be the legal father.

Waters asked custody of the boy, although he denied being the real father. He charged in a $25,000 suit against Mr. and Mrs. Willard that they had alienated the affections of his wife, Nora, and had entered into a secret agreement whereby she became the mother of Willard's child. The Willards have no children. The mother of the boy died March 23 of pneumonia, sealing the only lips which could definitely name the boy's father.

Willard, a telegrapher, denied he was the father. He testified he and his wife took the boy with Mrs. Waters' approval. He said Waters had deserted his family several times and he and Mrs. Willard had taken the ill and neglected mother and baby into their home for a time. Although awarding custody to Willard, the court ruled that the boy was born in wedlock and was the legal son of Waters.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

Another Fireside Angler!

DEAR Frances McDonald: I can not refrain from offering Minnie-Ha-Ha a little consolation and advice and at the same time saying "shake" to her husband and his brother-in-law. I will freely confess to Minnie that I am the same sort of hopeless "nut" as her men folks—we all belong to that great fraternity of poor fish who dream gorgeous dreams of freedom in the vast outdoors. We yearn for the abiding peace and pleasure of such a life, while we dismiss with a gesture of contempt the possibility of hardship of discomfort. We assume as a matter of course that our dreamed-of life will have a general lemon meringue pie background, and upon this assumption what is more natural than the desire to cast off the shackles of civilization and to flee its cruel exactions?

We would like to take our wives, with us to the land of Heart's Desire, but they won't go. They buttress this unreasonable attitude with references to bugs and ants and mosquitoes and mud and smoky campfires and lack of bathrooms and—— Oh, well, that's just like a woman! It would serve them right if we just up and sallied forth upon our great adventure, leaving them to their own tearful devices, but they won't let us and, besides, we know how people back home would talk about us. So there you are. They won't go and we can't.

So there's your consolation, Minnie. When all is said and done (mainly said), everybody stays put. Furthermore, there are thousands of unreasonable wives who live through exactly what you do and whose heartfelt sympathy goes out to you. By the same token, there are thousands of us poor fish whose dreams of happiness are wrecked by those self-same wives. There is nothing for us poor men folks to do except to go back to the beginning and start to dream all over again; so please pass the pie.

Now for the advice. Encourage your men to take a practice trip or two. Help them to rig up a knapsack and a shelter from things you have around the house. Go with them to the 10-cent store and help them select a skillet and a stew pan and a couple of tin cups and turn them loose into the boundless wild. They will have a lot of fun—also a lot of experience—and when they get back they will think more and talk less. The shackles of civilization will be considerably less shackling, and when they hold forth on their hobby the talk will be restricted to improvements of their outfit and reasonable planning for another trip "sometime." All this you may implicitly believe, Minnie, since I speak from abundant personal experience. I am not completely cured and I hope I never will be, but my wife can now live with me without danger to the family china.

And now in return for my helpfulness will you do me a very great favor? You speak of a book like "Robinson Crusoe," only modern. I simply must have that book. I can never be happy again without it. Won't you please write to Miss McDonald again, giving her the name of the book and the name of the author and the name of the publisher? Thank you a thousand times! I am sure Miss McDonald will pass the information on in her column and another great happiness will come into my life.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

TRAIN the radio audience to listen—then you're on the road to a new art form. So believes Vernon Radcliffe, director of the Radio Guild, heard over a nation-wide N. B. C. network each Friday afternoon. In the past three years Radcliffe has seen radio drama emerge from its cocoon, develop wings and take flight as a full-fledged division of radio entertainment.

Under his direction the Guild presents each week a recognized play by a master playwright. Radcliffe declares that the thousands who first listened to the early productions have increased to millions, and he is convinced that out of these experiences a new dramatic force is gradually evolving.

"Some call it broadcast drama," says Radcliffe. "It isn't any more 'broadcast drama' than you could call the drama of the theater 'stage drama.' But whatever it is, this new form of expression is something with which we must reckon. It has something—a third dimension—that the stage doesn't have, and it is infinitely more difficult to deal with this dimension of sound than with any other dramatic entity.

"FIRST, we had to develop a listening audience. People were accustomed to being amused when they turned on the radio. They hadn't learned to listen to the spoken word without embellishments.

"Now, after three years of painstaking work, we know that people have developed this listening sense, because we are able to do things on the air that we couldn't have attempted three years ago. For example, we have learned that the voice is an instrument and that by subtle placing it can be directed—without the listener's knowledge—in producing almost any desired emotional effect."

In producing "Beggar on Horseback," Radcliffe recently called upon the technical assistance of twenty or more engineers and production men. Two orchestras were used. One played from an adjoining studio. The other operated in view of the actors. The leading character, torn between the desire to compose symphonic music and faced with the temptation of writing jazz, falls asleep. His conflicting thoughts are reflected in a fitful dream.

The orchestra in the adjoining studio played jazz in rapid rhythm. The other orchestra played symphonic music. A singer broke through the disorder. A voice shouted somewhere. Then a train came roaring into the confusion. It hissed steam. The bell rang and the wheels pounded. Beneath it all ran a steady, pulsating rhythm. The music disappeared. The train faded from earshot. The pounding continued. The listener then suddenly realized that some one was knocking at the sleeper's door. The audience shared the sensations of the sleeper with psychological fidelity.

WHILE there are several dozen other dramatizations on the air during the evening hours, there is only one or two as well done as the Radio Guild presentations, and none surpasses them. The big drawback with the Radio Guild period is that it is presented too early for business people. It is understood that the reason for the afternoon hour is that the program was designed especially for schools and colleges.

The N. B. C. executives should now pick out a good evening spot for the Radio Guild during the summer months. Without a doubt the presentations would soon be one of the highlights of the season. It is the sort of evening entertainment the audiences are searching their dials for.

Frederic William Wile will turn sports reporter for a day to bring to listeners a play-by-play and error-by-error description of the biennial Congressional baseball game between the Republicans and the Democrats from Griffith Stadium this afternoon (WMAL, 3:30 o'clock). The game is staged for the benefit of the Capital City's unemployed.

The Armenian National Musical Society, under the direction of Grikor Suni, will present the second of a series of six recitals of Armenian music during the broadcast tonight (WMAL, 8:15 o'clock). Marie Arakian, soprano, and Henri Narcissian, tenor, will be heard in solo selections.

Olin Downes, music critic of the New York Times, who is now engaged in a musical investigation tour of Europe, will report his discoveries in a series of three transatlantic radio talks which will be transmitted throughout the United States. Downes is now in Europe, and his broadcasts will be heard during the present month. Definite dates and hours have not as yet been set, but the three points from which he will speak are Warsaw, Moscow and Paris.

Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, will discuss "The Agricultural Omnibus Relief Bill" in an address in the Institute of Public Affairs (WMAL, 9:15 p. m.). The bill recently was given favorable consideration by the agricultural committee of the Senate, and is now being considered by the House agricultural committee.

THE Comedian Harmonists, one of the most popular radio acts in Germany, will again be heard during an international broadcast from Berlin (WJZ, 9 p. m. tonight).

• • • • Phillips H. Lord, known to millions as "Seth Parker," will become the Country Doctor in another series of broadcasts to be inaugurated over the WJZ network, at 9 p. m., on June 20. • • • • Hugo Mariani, conductor, believes in working at his ease. He directs his orchestra during rehearsals while seated on a high stool. • • • • Ruth Etting will sing "Keepin' Out of Mischief Now," "Lazy" and "I Found You" during the Music That Satisfies period tonight. • • • • Cheringow, a hamlet just outside of Moscow, Russia, is the birthplace of Harry Horlick, conductor of the Gypsies. • • • • Beryl Retting, blind radio pianist, admits a fondness for poker. He plays with raised cards.

A three-month leave of absence has been granted Frank A. Arnold, director of development of the National Broadcasting Co. since its organization in 1926. During the summer, Mr. Arnold will complete a new book he is writing on "Radio as a Social Force" and also prepare a course of thirteen lectures to be delivered at City College, New York. He plans to resume his direct contacts with the industry in the fall.

"IT'S hard to distinguish between weeds and young plants," declared Richardson Wright, horticulturist, in a recent broadcast.

"Mebbe so," was the comment of Ray Perkins, who has a garden at his Scarsdale, N. Y., home, "but it's a cinch for my neighbor's chickens."

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

THE SIZE OF THE PILLOW.

IT is known that in sleep we shift positions every few minutes. Does this mean that we need pillows or not? Should any one sleep on a pillow? What difference does it make if one's pillow is hard or soft, large or small?

Pillows are used for two purposes—to protect the ears and the skin of the head and face against the effects of pressure, and to raise the head. To the first of these I will give but a few words. Skin and soft parts caught between the hard bones of the skull on the one hand and a hard mattress on the other are considerably pinched. Every one, even a small baby, needs to have some sort of a soft pad for his head to lie on. A feather pillow is ideal for this purpose.

The second of the reasons for a pillow requires more development. An object of a pillow is to straighten out curves in the neck region of the back bone. The average normal baby's head is about round. The distance from the center of his head to the sides and to the back is about the same. In addition, his chest is nearly round, being a little deeper than it is broad. When the shoulder breadth is added to the chest breadth the total just about equals the depth of the chest. It also about equals the head dimensions. Therefore, babies do not need pillows to keep their spines straight. They only need something to act as a soft head pad.

As the human body grows the relation of the dimensions change. The shoulders become larger, the chest broadens and flattens. The head changes in shape as well as in relation to the size of the body. Some become long-headed, others broad-headed.

The growth of the chest is faster than that of the head. Before long the person lying on a bed without a pillow finds that in whatever position he lies his neck is bent. If his shoulders and chest are broad and his head is long and narrow, his neck is bent whenever he turns on his side. If the bent position is maintained long he becomes uncomfortable. If it is continued long enough he gets a crick.

Some one wants to know when a child is old enough to need a pillow. The best answer is to have a child lie on a mattress without a pillow and turn on his back, his side, and in other positions. Whenever any position necessitates a considerable bending of the neck, the child needs a pillow when he is in the position. However comfortable a bent position may be, when held for any length of time it becomes uncomfortable.

About the second year a difference in dimensions becomes considerable enough to cause bending of the neck during sleep for a large part of the time, and to make escape from the bending position increasingly difficult. That is then, usually, about the time for the child of average dimensions to begin the use of a pillow. But it should be small and soft.

By adolescence the chest and shoulders have broadened greatly, and the side to side head measurements are much less. At that age and from then on the neck is bent sharply when the sleeper turns on his side. But, since sleepers are changing positions constantly, and since certain positions do not hold the neck clamped in a crooked position, the pillow should be small as well as soft. There should be room enough to permit the sleeper's head to leave the pillow when he turns into a position in which a pillow crooks and cramps his neck.

There are a few adults with dimensions built on lines that make it possible for them to sleep in comfort without pillows. For instance, a narrow-shouldered, round-headed person does not need a pillow as much as does one who has broad shoulders and a narrow, long head.

Age is a factor. As a general proposition old persons need larger pillows than young ones. Many of them have already developed the asthma tendencies which call for pillows, and in addition many have stoops or curves which make low pillows uncomfortable.

The matter sums up in this: persons vary in their pillow specifications.

What Today Means

"GEMINI."

IF JUNE 4 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a. m. to 10:20 a. m., from 2:30 p. m. to 3:50 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 8:15 p. m. The danger periods are from noon to 1:30 p. m. and from 10:30 p. m. to 11:35 p. m.

A light, fantastic mood will be engendered by the planets on June 4, and there will be little taste for the serious things of life. Those who usually enjoy their Saturday "half-day" will seek diversions of amusement instead of home or other duties. A reminder of the past will disturb memories hidden away in dusty corners of your brain.

Children born on this June 4 will have sunny natures, and much zest for the fleshpots and social and pleasure veins of existence. Their clever and convincing tongues will almost be able to paint black white in an endeavor to prove incredibable things.

Born on June 4, you are a person with very decided and cultured tastes, with few, if any, real artistic talents. You can neither produce nor create, but you instinctively know how to select or buy that which is correct or worth while—you can separate the wheat from the chaff. You like to associate with or read about men and women with brains worth picking. As a copyist, you are undeniably clever, and are credited with more brain, wit and originality than nature has really given you. You can throw a new light on old things, and put a sparkle in unromantic facts, for you have many little sidings of originality in your mind.

You are a person of action, and waste no time in going after what you want. Anxiety and impatience, however, often make you bit the iron before it is hot, thus postponing or spoiling your chances for success. You involuntarily communicate your extraordinary enthusiasm to others. You can exercise authority without harshness, and can be firm with a pleasantness of manner, which takes the sting out of discipline.

You are fond of the good things of life, but do not alloy your pleasures to hurt yourself or others. You are strongly emotional, but discipline will ever be master of your instincts. You love social life and the color of existence.

Successful people born June 4:

George III of England.

Jeremy Belknap, founded Massachusetts Historical Society.

Eckley B. Coxe, mining engineer.

Samuel B. Whitney, composer and organist.

Walter L. Dean, artist.

Advice on Gardening

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me how to increase my rambler roses by taking off some slips. JESSIE V.

Ramblers may be propagated easily by cuttings. Cut the long stems into 6 or 8 inch lengths. In the early fall bury these slips in moist sand and place them in a cool part of your cellar or in a cold frame. In the spring they will have rooted and can be planted in your garden where, if you cultivate them carefully, they should make excellent plants at the end of the first summer. You can also make cuttings by choosing shoots that are ready to open their buds. Remove all but the top leaf. Plant such cuttings in a sunny spot in your garden and cover them with an empty fruit jar to retain moisture and allow the jar to remain all winter. A third method is to root cuttings in a box of sand and when roots have formed, lift and plant them in your rose plot.

In the fall I want to add some shrubbery to my garden. Three of the bushes I want to be berry-bearing, as I am anxious to attract the birds. Please give me the names of three shrubs that are supposed to entice birds. MRS. JENNIE S.

The following shrubs will not only afford food for birds, but will offer them nesting sites: Sweet birch, bayberry, mountain ash, weigelia, European white birch, coralberry and viburnums. Dogwoods are also attractive to birds as nesting sites.

Why do isolated holly trees never bear many berries?

JANET W. O.

The sexes are distinct upon the plants, so they should be set in groups of both sexes to insure pollination.

I have a large aspidistra plant which must be transplanted. When must this be done and should the plant be separated when it is repotted?

EMILY L.

You may transplant an aspidistra at any season. It is always well to divide the plant. Usually it can be divided into three pieces.

I have two evergreens which are begining to turn slightly gray. Up until this year they have been beautiful. What can be the cause of this; also can you tell me what to do to retard the trouble?

THOMAS F. C.

It is no doubt a case of red spider. If you examine the plants carefully you may detect the minute webs. Better spray the trees with miscible oil. You can get this preparation from your seedman. On soft-wooded plants red spider can usually be controlled by constantly spraying with cold water. While the red spider does have a sucking mouth part, it is not controlled by the use of insecticides.

Please tell me how to prune my lilac bush. RACHEL H. D.

Lilacs bloom from the topmost buds and should be pruned after they have finished flowering so as to encourage growth of the individual twigs. Remove old wood and any suckers you may find about the base of the bush.

DISCOUNTING IS TOLD AT COBLENTZ TRIAL

Treasurer of Subsidiaries Is Kept on Stand; Hearing Resumes Tuesday.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., June 3.—The trial of State Senator Emory L. Coblentz, president of the Central Trust Co., charged with having received a deposit when he knew the bank was insolvent, will enter its third week next Tuesday with the State still examining witnesses. It is not thought the defense witnesses will take the stand before Thursday. Court adjourned this afternoon until Tuesday in order that one of the judges might go to Oakland Monday for the opening of the June term of the Garrett County Court. Coblentz is being tried before a full bench.

William B. French, Frederick, treasurer of several subsidiary companies of the Central Trust Co., was on the stand practically all day, his fourth day, and was subjected to cross-examination. State's Attorney James Clark indicated that Mr. French had completed his testimony, but said there were several witnesses yet to be heard by the State. The petit jury of this term of court has been further excused until June 20, which causes belief that the present trial will run until nearly that time.

Mr. French, who had testified as to the value of notes, bonds and other securities, held by the Central Trust Co. and its subsidiaries, was asked on cross-examination if he did not say to Grover L. Michael, an officer of Central Trust Co., in August, 1931, that he hoped to make sale of the Gordon Hotel, Washington, and come out $75,000 above indebtedness.

Says Sale Failed.

He said he had hoped to sell, but it got no further. He admitted that he had suggested that $800,000 of Wardman securities be offered for as little as $425,000, as it was "mighty desirable to turn Washington real estate notes into bonds; in other words, to get frozen assets into liquid assets." He said Coblentz and Michael agreed with him to sell Washington securities at a big discount, and this was so advertised.

French then explained why he listed Clifton Terrace bonds of $60,000 at a value of $19,965.65. Regarding the stock of the Mayflower Sightseeing Co., French said he "Couldn't locate anything." Stock of the Middletown Packing Co., of $10,000 book value, he placed at $5,000. French, on cross-examination as to his statement of June 29, 1931, admitted he did not consult Mr. Coblentz as to property values. It was stated by State's Attorney Clark that there are over $3,000,000 worth of Wardman paper alone held in the subsidiary security companies of the Central Trust Co.

Other items were questioned in turn, including some F. H. Smith Co. bonds, in default and held by the Central Securities Co. in its miscellaneous assets ledger. French explained that the coupons to the amount of $3,187 were evidently cashed by the securities corporation, but he did not know where they got them. He said he had made no effort to collect.

Liabilities Listed.

The State asked the witness to enumerate the total liabilities of the Central Securities Co. French read a list of items, the amounts exceeding $3,000,000, some listed as 6 per cent collateral trust notes and notes payable.

A schedule showing deed of trust notes covering Washington, D. C., properties, which the Central Trust Bank took over through its subsidiaries was next taken up by the State. French said his companies took over the properties and he operated them for a while as a receiver, appointed by the District of Columbia court. They included a number of apartment houses and hotels, such as the Astoria, Franklin Park, Clifton Terrace and Wardman Park Annex apartment buildings and the Gordon Hotel.

When the trial resumed this morning R. Paul Smith, vice president of the Potomac Edison Co., Hagerstown, was called and asked by the State as to his net worth on September 1, 1931. "It was enough to meet all my financial obligations and a little more," the witness said. Smith's name had been introduced into previous testimony as one of the indorsers of a note of the Guarantors Investment Co. in transactions with the Central Trust Bank.

Confederate Rites To Be at Arlington

Memorial Exercises Will Take Place at Cemetery Tomorrow.

The Confederate memorial exercises, under the auspices of Camp 171, United Confederate Veterans, will be held in the Confederate section of Arlington National Cemetery tomorrow at 3 o'clock p. m. Representative John E. Rankin, of Mississippi, will be the principal speaker. He will be introduced by Gen. W. L. Wilkerson, commander of Camp 171, U. C. V.

Members of the local Confederate camp and visiting Confederate veterans will march from the west gate of the cemetery to the Confederate Monument. They will be led by the United States Marine Band, playing "The Washington Post March." Invocation will be pronounced by Dr. Samuel Judson Porter, pastor of the First Baptist Church. Vocal selections will be offered by a double quartet.

After the ceremony at the monument, wreaths will be placed on the tombs of Gen. Joe Wheeler and the Confederate Unknown Soldier. Flowers will be strewn over all the graves in the Confederate section by the flower committee, assisted by the Daughters of the Confederacy, Children of Confederacy and the Junior Memorial Society.

Legislature Gives Long Free Rein in Home State

Baton Rouge, La., June 3 (A.P.).—A demand that Huey P. Long hurry back to Washington and stop "meddling" in Louisiana's affairs of state fell on deaf ears today, and as far as the Legislature is concerned, the "kingfish" can remain in his native State as long as he likes.

The House of Representatives tabled a resolution including that demand by an overwhelming vote. The tabling didn't even arouse debate, but Representative Malcolm Dougherty, the resolution's author, took another fling at the senator before the vote was taken. "Doug's place is in Washington," he said, "and he should not be here trying to steal credit from the governor."

24 From Annapolis Get Marine Posts

Walter Asman, of Capital, Among Those Given Commissions.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., June 3.—Although early advices were that no commissions as second lieutenants in the Marine Corps would be available for the class of midshipmen graduated from the Naval Academy yesterday, 24 of the class have been commissioned in that arm of the service, it was announced today by officials of the academy.

Among those who applied for such commissions in preference to continuing in the regular line of the Navy is Walter Asman, appointed from Wisconsin, but whose home is in Washington, D. C.

Others who went into the Marine Corps are Joseph C. Bigler, Ohio; Robert O. Bisson, Illinois; Alpha L. Bowser, jr., Pennsylvania; George N. Carroll, Massachusetts; Clarence O. Cobb, Thomas J. Colley and George Corson, all New York; Robert L. Denig, jr., Ohio; Hector Dezayas, California; William K. Enright, California; Marion A. Fawcett, Indiana; Oscar A. Heinlein, jr., Missouri; John G. Humiston, Idaho; Cleo R. Keen, Missouri; Ellsworth N. Murray, Minnesota; Robert R. Porter, Wisconsin; Paul J. Shovestul, Pennsylvania; James G. Smith, Missouri; Marvin T. Starr, Washington State; Forest C. Thompson, Indiana; Joseph Thompson, Maine; Harvey Tschirgi, Iowa; Howard J. Turton, Connecticut.

Girls' Slayer Is Found Insane.

Cleveland, June 3 (A.P.).—A sanity commission today found Jacob Gordon insane in his mad attack last week on three schoolgirls, killing one and slashing the throats of two others. He was sentenced to Lima State Hospital for the Insane.

SETTING 50 BLAZES INTO YEARS ADMITTED

Hagerstown Man Declares He Was Actuated by Strange Urge.

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., June 3.—An amazing story of incendiarism over the last nine years, during which he confessed he set approximately 50 fires, which caused damage here of between $500,000 and $750,000, was told here today by John Murray, 37-year-old father of three children, who is being held on a charge of arson.

Murray has been under suspicion for some time, but it was not until he was identified as the man seen leaving the alley leading from the Miller Furniture Co. fire early this week. He allegedly confessed not only to setting all three fires here this week, which caused a loss of approximately $75,000, but also most of the major conflagrations here during the last nine years.

All of the large fires here in recent years have started at about 3 o'clock in the morning. Murray, who is an employe of the Western Maryland railroad shops here, was released from work shortly before that hour each night and on his way home, he said, he fired the buildings.

A strange urge, which often almost caused him to want to destroy his own family, actuated him. Often, soon after setting the fires, he suffered remorse and would extinguish them, or if they had gained too much headway, would turn in the fire alarm. On other occasions he suffered no remorse for three or four days after the fires. Once he slipped back into his home and was about to turn on the gas to kill his sleeping family when he broke the spell, he told the police.

He confessed setting the Danzler Lumber Co. fire, the most disastrous in recent years. A suit is now pending for $200,000 against the Western Maryland Railroad Co. It was contended that a spark from a defendant company's engine started the blaze.

Fine on Bus Line Upheld in Ruling

Capital-Alexandria Firm Is Also Cited on Second Charge June 13.

Richmond, Va., June 3 (A.P.).—Its previous actions against the Washington-Alexandria Buses, Inc., were sustained by the State Corporation Commission today.

Contending that the company violated its certificate to do interstate bus transportation, the commission imposed a fine of $200 for alleged violation of the certificate by transporting passengers intrastate, and later issued another rule summoning the company to appear June 13 to show cause why it should not be fined or have its license revoked for an alleged second violation of its certificate.

The opinion handed down today, written by Commissioner J. Lester Hooker, was in reply to the company's appeal from the original fine of $200.

Murderer of Girl, 12, Is Sentenced to Chair

Crown Point, Ind., June 3 (A.P.).—Glenn Donald Shustrom, confessed attacker and killer of 12-year-old Alberta Knight, was sentenced to die in the electric chair September 23, by Judge Martin J. Smith today. The court disregarded the youth's pleas for mercy, based upon the claim that he was "too drunk" to realize his crime.

The girl was assaulted and then choked to death with an electric light cord at her mother's rooming house two months ago. A drinking orgy had preceded the murder. Fingerprints left on the bed posts in the high school girl's room trapped Shustrom and he confessed.

"A Word to the Wives"

Is P. A. Holding Your Husband Back?

JOHN MARSHALL is typical of thousands of husbands. Hard working, ambitious and progressive, yet he has seen three other men in the past year promoted ahead of him for positions he was particularly well fitted for. There is no question but that P. A. (personal appearance) is holding him back. A new suit . . . a new straw hat . . . new shoes would easily solve his problem.

THAT NEW TAX BILL.

THE Senate has balanced the budget with a tax bill that will unbalance the taxpayers. It has adopted an income tax rate that runs the public through a hopper and then hurls it into an electric washer with the rest of the "flat work."

* * * * *

It removes the buckles from his suspenders and the buttons from his shirt. And if the taxpayer has any buttons in his wife's name it goes double.

* * * * *

Congress is going to restore prosperity by putting the salaried man through a vacuum cleaner, and restore business by making the business house a refilling station for Government collectors.

* * * * *

Trying to earn more money during 1933 will be as sensible as trying to grow more hair in anticipation of an Indian massacre.

* * * * *

All the Government needs to do now to throttle personal ambition and private initiative is to shoot the horse and burn the business buggy.

* * * * *

* * * * *

Uncle Sam will greet Gus Q. Citizen with a cheery, "Hello, sucker!" and speed him on his way with a kick in the pants and a casual inquiry, "Will the funeral be public or private?"

* * * * *

If the Government is right in its plans to restore good times, then one of us is crazy. The income tax bill for 1933 not only skins the public, but has the pelt relined with barbed wire and makes him buy it back as a new suit.

* * * * *

When the people of America sit down next year to figure up their income taxes you will hear a groan that will take four days to pass a given point.

* * * * *

You have to read the new tax bill to believe it. It sounds like a ransom letter from a man who speaks only in telephone numbers.

* * * * *

If you are out of work you get no assistance, and if you have a job you are shoved into the back room and slugged over the head until you say "Uncle!"

* * * * *

Once upon a time parents encouraged their children to grow up, work hard and make a lot of money. Under the new bill a man who makes any money merely qualifies for the role of the Fairy Prince in the allegorical pantomime entitled "Hit Him Again; He's Still Got a Nickel!"

A man who earns $40,000 a year must give the tax agent $3,000 outright and then pay 18 per cent normal tax. After that comes the surtax. A surtax does the same thing to an income that a truck does when it backs up to run over a victim the second time.

* * * * *

And if a man works hard and gets $100,000 a year he pays the Government $21,320 at once and then 40 per cent of the gross.

* * * * *

DRIVER HELD AS CAR KILLS FAIRFAX MAN

William Wiley, 79, Is Hit on Richmond Highway by Camden Resident.

William Wiley, 79 years old, of Lorton, Va., was instantly killed yesterday morning when struck by an automobile driven by Meyer Teitelman, of Camden, N. J.

The accident occured on the Washington-Richmond highway near Pohick Church. According to the testimony given before C. A. Ransom, Fairfax County coroner, the elderly man was crossing the highway when struck. His body was thrown 85 feet by the impact.

Teitelman, a retired building contractor, and his wife were returning to Camden from Florida.

Capt. Heywood J. Durrer, of the county police, stated that after striking Wiley the Teitelman car left the highway and ran about 220 yards into a field where it was stopped by a tree. The driver backed away from the tree and continued on his way toward Washington, it was reported, before he was overtaken by a truck driver about two miles away and held for the police.

Teitelman was arrested on a warrant sworn to by the coroner charging him with the striking and killing of Mr. Wiley and also failing to stop. He was held for grand jury action of the Circuit Court of Fairfax County under a $5,000 bond. Failing to give bond, he was taken to the county jail at Fairfax. Relatives were notified and it was learned that Teitelman's son-in-law was rushing to his aid by airplane from New Jersey.

Yesterday afternoon near Woodridge on the same highway, C. E. Hedges, an employe of the State highway department, was injured by an automobile driven by Lewis Bauer, of Clarendon, Va. He was taken to the Alexandria Hospital, where it was stated that his injuries were not serious. Bauer was released from custody after being questioned by the police, who stated that he was not to blame for the accident.

Funeral services for Mr. Wiley will take place tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock in the Silver Brook Methodist Church near Lorton with the Rev. H. A. Hoyt conducting. The interment will be in the Silver Brook Cemetery. He is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Sarah Wehn, Mrs. Vernon Beach and Mrs. MacHern, of near Lorton.

Firemen's Carnival Funds Need Cited

Committee in Charge of Arlington Fete Told to Continue Work.

Serious financial difficulties face the Arlington Fire Department during the coming year if it is not permitted to hold its annual carnival, Deputy Chief Charles L. Snoots told the members at a meeting last night.

Snoots informed the department of the recent opinion of Commonwealth's Attorney Lawrence W. Douglas that the use of games of chance are illegal and that he can not, under his oath as a county official, permit their use. It was pointed out that the department will have great difficulty in meeting its trust notes and the maintenance of the building, and the plans for a community firemen's hall at Arlington are impossible if the carnival is prohibited.

In the hope that some solution to the problem may be found, the committee in charge of arrangements for the carnival scheduled to be held the week of July 11 was instructed to continue its work. Charles H. Jefferies was elected to the office of fire marshal for the balance of the year. Chief A. C. Scheffel, who has been confined to his home as a result of a recent operation, was reported as much improved.

RIALTO

"FLAME OF MEXICO." Mrs. Juliet Barrett Rublee's picturization of an original story, featuring Alicia Ortiz and Donald Reed. Musical interpolations composed by Milo Menendez and Arnulfo Miramontes. Directed by David Kirkland. Reviewed Friday night.

By NELSON B. BELL.

Mrs. Juliet Barrett Rublee, wife of the former legal adviser of the late Dwight W. Morrow, Ambassador to Mexico in the Coolidge administration, evidently deeply fascinated—as all natives of the temperate zone inevitably are—by the subtropical charms of life below the Rio Grande, obviously had it in mind to create the Mexican "Birth of a Nation" in this colorful subject.

What "Flame of Mexico" actually achieves, through the medium of a story that lacks both smooth-flowing continuity and conviction, is an arbitrary and at times confusing combination of scenic grandeur, political intrigue, Gringo villainy and fervent romance.

Mrs. Rublee has been principally done in by the expansive ambition of her scenarist. In attempting to develop multiple lines of audience interest, scant justice has been done to any one movement of a plot that might well have been content to deal singly with the political emancipation of an oppressed people, the love affair between Rafael, the patriotic young radical, and Rosita, daughter of an aristocratic and landed family of the old school, or the shady enterprises of the American carpet-bagger, intent only on filling his own coffers with easy gold, no matter how or from whom obtained.

Punctuating the action of the picture are a long succession of "stunts" such as became outmoded with the passing into oblivion of the old Biograph and Kalem releases. The reversion to the use of printed titles has a further effect of stamping "Flame of Mexico" as a product of an earlier and almost forgotten era. While a musical accompaniment runs through the greater part of the footage, and frequent vocal numbers are introduced, no dialogue is heard and the film thus catalogues itself at once as what was known in the early days of the screen's audibility as a "sound picture."

Donald Reed, in the role of Rafael, works like a Trojan in a part that has been imbued with artificialities that his own earnestness and sincerity can not wholly obscure. Senorita Alicia Ortiz, a beauty of pure Mexican type, is picturesque in many elaborate native costumes, but has not as yet acquired the first rudiments of effective acting before the cameras.

In its revelation of the natural beauties of the country with which it deals, "Flame of Mexico" is pictorially superb. Seldom have such magnificent vistas been caught by the camera to supply exotic background for the comparatively petty intrigues of human drama.

The accessories of last night's world premiere were notable. In honor of one of the most fashionable audiences of the season, the front of the theater was ablaze with light, bands were playing and flashlights keeping up an incessant barrage as leaders of Washington's official, diplomatic, social and professional sets swarmed into the playhouse.

Preceding the projection of the feature, a natural color study of "Outposts of the Foreign Legion" in Morocco, and an interesting Pathe Review were shown. Between these offerings Mercedes and Ignacio, soprano and barytone, strolled up and down the aisles in native Mexican costumes, singing songs of their native land to guitar accompaniment. They were accorded an ovation.

A brief salutatory was delivered by Senor Casares, Commercial Attache of the Mexican Embassy, who introduced Mrs. Rublee, producer of "Flame of Mexico." Mrs. Rublee explained briefly the circumstances prompting the making of the picture and the purposes it is intended to serve. She, too, needless to say, was received with friendly warmth by the capacity house.

PALACE

"AS YOU DESIRE ME." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picturization of the stage play by Luigi Pirandello, adapted to the screen by Gene Markey, starring Greta Garbo, with Melvyn Douglas, Erich Von Stroheim and Owen Moore. Directed by George Fitzmaurice.

Although given wide scope for the play of her versatile talents in this tale of a war casualty who has lived loosely, with the world's most ardent wastrels as her most persistent admirers, only to be whisked in the twinkling of an eye to the exalted heights of vast wealth and a pure and steadfast love, even so deft an artiste as Garbo finds herself handicapped by the ambiguities of so vague and noncommital a play as this Italian romance of Pirandello's, now entering its second week on F street.

To point his argument that it is easier to doubt than to believe, that faith is a prerequisite of perfect love, and that, in combination, belief and trust completely subordinate individual identity, the author has sacrificed clarity to a degree that seriously impairs the power of his drama to carry conviction to any but the most poetically imaginative among his auditors.

In the pivotal role, Greta Garbo is privileged to disclose how beautiful she can be when the studio resources are bent to that end. Her transition from the drunken harridan of the opening sequences to the chatelaine of a vast estate, at least partially freed from an obscuring amnesia, is so adroitly managed that neither its smoothness nor its drama is lost. It may not be Garbo's greatest performance, but it is as moving as the author's odd conceptions will permit.

The supporting cast is led by Melvyn Douglas, as the husband who is the only one who is sure that the woman restored to him really is his wife, lost for a decade following a debacle of the war. His portrayal is earnest, intelligent and believable. Owen Moore ranks next as an amusing friend of the family. Erich Von Stroheim is wholly without distinction as a dissolute novelist who stands as the play's symbol of villainy. Hedda Hopper, William Ricciardi and Rafaela Ottiano lead the supporting ensemble.

The bill is completed by the customary list of abbreviated screen auxiliaries. N. B. B.

More than 4,000 children in the elementary schools of Arlington County tucked their books under their arms yesterday and prepared for a happy summer vacation. While the children finished their studies and are now ready for a long play period, they will return to their classrooms for a short period on Monday, when they will receive their final reports.

METROPOLITAN

"CONGRESS DANCES." United Artists presentation of the UFA picturization of a story by Norman Falk and Robert Liebmann, featuring Lilian Harvey, Conrad Veidt and Henry Garat. Directed by Eric Charell. Reviewed Friday evening by W. A. Whitney.

To a great many people the study of history means no more than the painful task of memorizing an almost interminable series of names and dates whose significance—if there ever was any—is lost to them in the far, far distant past. Yet behind this cyclorama of events gone by there lived, moved and had being people, even as you and I; and it is these people that "Congress Dances" endeavors most successfully to portray.

Against a background of the Vienna Congress following the termination of the Napoleonic wars, this brilliantly staged and charmingly enacted operetta takes place. Whether the producers have taken more into consideration than is their wont, the historical facts involved, is entirely beside the point, for it is not so much the history incident to the drama as it is the devices employed to prevent Czar Alexander from participating in the proceedings that make the picture.

Unfortunately for Prince Metternish, Austrian chancellor of state, the czar brought his double, whose duty it was to impersonate his majesty on occasions when the royal life might be in danger or even to pinch-hit in the gentle art of making love when matters of state demanded the imperial presence. So it is that both the czar and Uralsky are called upon to make love to Christel, a delectable morsel of femininity, whose ingenuous charm captivates his highness when he saves her from a flogging for tossing at him a bouquet mistaken for a bomb. Knowing the czar's penchant for beautiful women, Metternich contrives to have the imperial fancy intrigued by a charming princess at the opera, but the coup fails, because the double attends instead.

Even though there is somewhat more than the usual semblance of musical comedy plot, it is the music that makes "Congress Dances" splendid entertainment. To Rowland Leigh, for his charming dialogue and lyrics, and to Werner Richard Heymann, for the music and the adaptation of the old Viennese melodies, must go a huge portion of the credit for a delightful evening. Not since "Zwei Hertzen im Drei Viertel Takt" has there been such a glorious musical accompaniment—an accompaniment which frequently relates the situations far more eloquently than the dialogue.

Director Charell has drawn from his situations every last drop of dramatic worth, weaving into the gossamer fabric of narrative the solos, the choruses, and the straight speaking parts in a smooth-flowing and logical manner, never allowing the injection of song to interfere with the development of any portion of the play.

Into a picture whose principal merits are technical has been put a cast that is uniformly excellent. As Christel, Lilian Harvey is an especially charming actress, and the possessor of a voice that makes her "Live, Love and Laugh," a thrilling episode. Playing both the czar and the double is Henry Garat, who, as the former, is affable, witty, and not averse to pulling a fast coup d'etat, and, as the latter, is bored with a routine that interferes with his embroidery. Prince Metternich, crafty caller of the congress, is handsomely played by Conrad Veidt. Up to the standard of UFA is the supporting cast, which has been selected with a keen eye to type.

"Congress Dances," while it falls somewhat short of being the ne plus ultra of cinema, is the finest operetta of foreign origin that has come to Washington.

Supplementing the feature are "Magic vs. Science," "Hide and Seek," an animated cartoon that has little interest, and an issue of Paramount News.

Three Gas Light Co. Sessions Are Legal

Patrick Says Ban on Voting of Stock Does Not Affect Recent Elections.

The last three meetings of the directors of the Washington Gas Light Co., held since the issuance of the order by the Public Utilities Commission imposing a ban on the voting of stock, are legal in the opinion of the utilities body, Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman, stated yesterday.

Consequently the election of the directors to fill the vacancies and the election of Marcy L. Sperry, utilities operating engineer, as president Thursday to succeed George A. G. Wood is held not a violation of the commission's order.

Gen. Patrick declined to say when the commission intends to take any further action in the prosecution of the Chase, Harris, Forbes Corporation for owning the majority stock in the gas company. He intimated that the body is awaiting the scheduled stockholders' meeting on June 15, which has been postponed a half dozen times already, and the proposal Arthur Dean, attorney for the New York bankers, was to have submitted several weeks ago.

Commission officials seemed little disturbed at the prospect that the stockholders' meeting may be indefinitely postponed.

LOEW'S FOX

"NEW MORALS FOR OLD." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picturization of John Van Druten's play, "After All," featuring Robert Young, Margaret Perry, Laura Hope Crewes and Lewis Stone. Directed by Charles Brabin. Reviewed Friday night by Dorothea Lewis.

The younger generation is hurrying on its way to become the older generation as quickly as its growing pains will let it, according to this human and more than nice picture. Really not many new morals for old, after all.

Simply, sincerely, and in extremely good taste, it introduces us to the Thomas family: Father and mother, a little outmoded, groping for their children, and during their groping, worrying, nagging gently and hanging on (selfishly, yes, but understandably so), to those children; and the children, Phyllis and Ralph, lovable and young and so proudly trying to be independent, struggling with their own problems, conventional and unconventional.

And in the end, playwright Van Druten has rather convincingly shown that only youth's painful trial and error method will work, and though this solving of its own problems process may hurt parents, the solution probably won't.

Ralph wants to paint, not design wallpaper in the family firm. Phyllis loves a married man. Bald and simple, so stated, but complex for the two youngsters.

Phyl goes off with her Duff, a very decent, likeable fellow, and mother and father can not understand that their affair is "different." Ralph waits the promised year, then goes to Paris to study painting and mother can't understand his desertion. All this misunderstanding and inarticulate love goes on, after Phyl marries her Duff, and Ralph comes back to his wallpaper, until mother and father are gone, and it is Phyl who is beginning gently to nag Duff, and Ralph, too.

Our only complaints are the length of the picture, which might have been speeding of action, and a rather edi-improved by judicious cutting on torial kick about the happy, hopeful tone of the ending.

It's hard to pass out first honors to a superlative cast but we nominate Robert Young (Ralph) and Margaret Perry (Phyl) for the blue ribbons. This even over the perfection of playing in Laura Hope Crewes' mother, and rarely shaded work of Lewis Stone as Father.

Young Robert Young is grand, entirely easy, natural, likeable and doing every bit as good work as he did in the flashier role of Kip in "The Wet Parade." Little Margaret Perry, a blonde edition of Dorothy Jordan but a better actress, makes a particularly pleasant movie debut, playing Phyl with sensitiveness and taste.

Save for Wesley Eddy's amusing and pretty accurate "radio impression," the stage show is rather average and unexciting. Easy and smooth as he is, Harry Rose is just a little too much in evidence.

Norman Prescott wanders about the audience learning names and birthdays. Buster Shaver presents his entrancing little people, Olive and George Bransow, and the Chester Hale boys and girls dance well But Wesley's is the spot, and we'll swear we thought Arthur Tracy was playing a return engagement.

COLUMBIA

"GRAND HOTEL."- Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picturization of the novel and play by Vicki Baum, adapted to the screen by William A. Drake, with all-star cast, headed by Greta Garbo, John Barrymore, Joan Crawford, Wallace Beery, Lionel Barrymore, Lewis S. Stone, Jean Hersholt, Robert McWade, Purnell Pratt and Tully Marshall. Directed by Edmund Goulding. Two performances daily; three on Sunday. All seats reserved.

By entering its fourth consecutive week with every promise of a volume of patronage that will compare favorably with the week-to-week record it has already compiled, this foremost of modern photoplays takes rank with the most powerful box-office attractions known to the annals of the motion picture in Washington.

To achieve so notable a place upon the short list of great pictures, "Grand Hotel," of course, must possess virtues well beyond the average film play. It not only possesses such distinguished virtues, but possesses them in almost superabundance.

To illumine the work of a cast composed of such preeminent stars as Greta Garbo, John Barrymore, Joan Crawford, Lionel Barrymore, Wallace Beery, Lewis Stone and Jean Hersholt, supported by such incomparable mimes as Ferdinand Gottschalk, Robert McWade, Rafaela Ottiano and scores more, are the inspired direction of Edmund Goulding, the matchless settings devised by Cedric Gibbons and the flawless photography of William Daniels.

All this would come to naught were not the story and play by Vicki Baum, of which the picture is a skillful adaptation, instinct with effective theater. The deft blending of character, the expert interweaving of apparently unrelated destinies and Fate's final droll telling off of her principal puppets combine to bring startling realism and poignant drama to the shadows on the screen.

No discreet amusement seeker will permit this picture to slip away without having seen it. N. B. B.

"WESTWARD PASSAGE." RKO-Radio Pictures Alemination of a story by Margaret Ayer Barnes, adapted to the screen by Bradley King, with dialogue by Humphrey Pearson, starring Ann Harding, with Laurence Olivier, Irving Pichel and Zasu Pitts. Directed by Robert Milton. Reviewed Friday afternoon.

By NELSON B. BELL.

This is the familiar story of the young wife who couldn't make up her mind and like all tales constructed after the same formula is conspicuously deficient in motivation.

I mean to say that after Olivia Van Tyne had married Nick Allen, the temperamental young author just trying to break into the big money, she should really have had some more valid excuse than their petty quarrels for divorcing him and marrying Harry Ottendorf. But since she did divorce Nick and marry Harry, with whom she had been living happily for six years before Nick bobbed up again at the hotel in Lucerne, Switzerland, she should have hunted around for even as slender an excuse as a spat to leave him and go back to her first love. The way it works out on the screen makes Olivia not quite nice in her marital arrangements and Nick no less than an unconscionable cad. Harry, the one who really is put upon, is the only honest lad in the crowd.

Now then, granting that Olivia and Nick are not really nice people—that is, in so far as their views of what are jokingly called sacred institutions are concerned—it may be possible to extract a bit of a kick from certain other aspects of the picture.

For instance, there is the droll comedy of ZaSu Pitts, cast as a suspicious inn keeper who takes it for granted that all of her guests are no more than one leap ahead of the law—and usually is right! She makes a small part seem considerable bigger than it is and creates an eager longing for more of the same. Then there is the crisp presence of Juliette Compton, in a smart role which she does ample justice; Irene Purcell, in the merest bit that she makes as brittle as her recent impersonation opposite Buster Keaton in "The Passionate Plumber;" Bonita Granville, as Little Olivia, small daughter of Olivia and Nick, who falls precociously in love with her stepfather, excellently played by Irving Pichel.

The attractive surroundings in which the action finds itself, from time to time, also adds a bit of a fillip to an otherwise commonplace fiction—the inn presided over by Miss Pitts, a small apartment, a bachelor artists' hangout, and, to lend the title point, the palatial liner bound westward from Europe.

Ann Harding brings none too much gayety to the role of Olivia. There is about everything she does in this picture a suggestion of dampened ardor, not to say positive boredom. In a majority of the scenes she is irresistibly lovely, but somehow the sparkle seems to be gone. In the opposite role of Nick, Laurence Olivier, an English leading man who finds his way to the screen via the New York stage, plays with an odd blending of subtle humor and irritating petulance that makes his character less attractive than it should be to win back so sophisticated a person as his former wife, although the fault may be largely the author's, at that.

The surrounding bill is featured by an issue of the "Screen Snapshots," that consists wholly of a debate on the topic of prohibition between Sister Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton, the evangelical head of Angelus Temple, and Walter Huston, actor. Mrs. Hutton, of course, is the dry; Mr. Huston, the wet. If applause is a reliable barometer, Mr. Huston won.

A two-reel comedy, "Stealin' Home," deals with a weird baseball game in which Jimmy Gleason is the featured player but Harry Gribbon the funny one. The real laugh is found in the Aesop Fable, "The Farmerette," with the new Pathe News completing a better than fair to middlin' entertainment.

Academic, for best report in high school, Margaret Williams; prize for best report in intermediate department, Billy Bell, prize donated by Mrs. David N. Rust; best reports in the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh grades, Richard Williams, Julia Ann Patch, Agnes Washington, Alberta Thomas, Billy Bell, Mac Patch, Sally Gorman and Margaret Hewitt.

Alumnae cup awarded to Gold team, Jacqueline Cochran, captain. For field day letters awarded players: Virginia Walton, captain Green team; Dorothy Rust, Ann McDonald, Louise Backus, Marian Martyn, Margaret Rust, Jacqueline Cochran, captain Gold team; Anne Cleveland, Margaret Gordon, Myrtle Holden, Margaret Williams and Betty Brown-Serman.

Tennis tournament: Myrtle Holden, Virginia Walton, Anne McDonald, Billy Bell, Jacqueline Cochran, Mac Patch.

Poetry contest: Warren Fales, received prize previously, having left for France with his parents, Lisa Lindsey, Dale Carter, Anne Carter Waller, honorable mention.

The invocation was by the Rev. George B. Vest, rector of Emmanuel Episcopal Church; benediction by the Rev. Percy Foster Hall, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, both members of the board of trustees of the school.

Music was by the school Glee Club.

Drama Guild Gives Play 'Interference'

Audience Is Amused and Thrilled by Work of Theater Group.

Swiftly moving melodrama which mixed murder, blackmail and a shadow of the past all to a happy ending and all to the delight of the audience, was the thing at Wardman Park Theater last night when the Drama Guild presented "Interference" by Roland Pertwee and Harold Dearden.

The play was intensely amusing and at times thrilling. Honors were divided between Maurice Jarvis as Sir John Marlay, the physician whose prestige is saved by murder, and Denis E. Connell, as the villain who romantically abdicates to do the saving.

To mention the other actors who did well would be to name the entire cast. They were Howard Frederick, Edwin C. Berryman, Eldred Wilson, Mannix Wallser, Helen A. Ryan, Eileen Fowler, Anne Ives, Helen Burton, Marvin Beers, Thomas Cahill, E. R. McKenzie, Helen A. Sheckells and Capt. Ray C. Montgomery.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

At last there comes along a young player who confesses that appearing before the camera is not exactly duck soup even for one who has learned all—or most—of the tricks of the stage.

Margaret Perry, latest recruit from New York stage to the screen, likens her first experience before the camera and microphone to that of a baby learning to walk.

Miss Perry knows plenty about the stage. She received critical huzzahs for her work in the original Broadway production of "Strictly Dishonorable," and subsequently scored as the heroine of John Van Druten's play, "After All." Consequently, when she was brought to the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios to play her original role in "New Morals for Old," the screen adaptation of "After All," now showing at Loew's Fox Theater, she felt very sure of herself.

"But the first thing I learned," stated Miss Perry in a recent interview, "was that you have to be unnatural to be natural on the screen, a paradox for which my stage training had left me totally unprepared. I went into my first scene with Robert Young, and looked directly at him. A howl went up from the cameramen, and Director Charles Brabin came to my rescue. I was shown how to look past the character I was facing, so as to present my face to the camera at a certain angle—'cheating,' they call it."

And what a lot of that there's been going on lately!

If Mrs. Juliet Barrett Rublee, producer of "Flame of Mexico," concerning last night's world premiere of which something will be found in other columns of today's Post, had been able to secure a slightly less exaggerated story upon which to base her revelation of life on the other side of the Rio Grande, she would, indeed, have afforded the screen a realistic and truthful reflection of life as it is lived in our sister republic.

Not a scene in the picture but was filmed in Mexico, and all of the characters depicted, with the possible exception of three or four, are assumed by natives. In the ensembles there are to be found typical specimens of every stratum of the Mexican social structure, from the lowest peon laborer to the aristocrats of fabulous wealth and centuries old traditions.

And certainly no scenic subject, made exclusively as such, could ever hope to reflect more impressively the natural splendor of Mexico, from the snow-capped mountain peaks to the sun-baked plains, than has been done in this pictorially gorgeous length of gelatine.

Washington figures rather more conspicuously than usual in the newsreels this week. There are to be seen views of the veterans in the Capital in search of congressional action on the bonus, and Gov. Ritchie of Maryland greeting Archbishop Curley at the pontifical high mass pronounced on Memorial Day before a crowd of 60,000 in the Catholic U. Stadium.

Then, too, in the Pathe News are the views of Amelia Earhart Putnam upon her landing in Ireland and later in London, and Henry Ford and his son, Edsel, being shown about the Indianapolis speedway the day of the races by Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, the ace of American aces.

Quite a fruity newsreel.

Reverting momentarily to the premiere of "Flame of Mexico" at the Rialto last night, Mrs. Rublee had an expert eye for the atmospheric touches needed to set the evening off in the mind's eye of those present. The orchestra pit was gay with the bright hues of Mexican handiwork, tastefully arranged for most effective display.

There were no end of itchy palms in the audience!

George M. Cohan has gone and done it again. I mean that business of signing for the movies. Heretofore that has been about as far as he has ever managed to get.

On the first of the month, however, he signed his name on the dotted line once again and will appear in one picture, now in work, while another is dropping onto paper from his own pen.

He should have done it long ago.

Oh, so that thing slapping me in the face is the deadline!

Dough.

2 cups Sanico Flour
2 tablespoons sugar (Sanitary)
4 tablespoons shortening (District Grocery Stores)
½ teaspoon salt
4 teaspoons baking powder
¾ cup of milk (District Grocery Stores)

Spread.

5 medium-sized cooking apples (Sanitary)
2 cups of sugar (Sanitary)
1 pint water
Cinnamon.
About ½ pound Land o' Lakes butter

Sift flour, 2 tablespoons sugar, salt and baking powder together, mix in shortening and make into a soft dough with the milk. Roll out about half-inch thick, then spread the finely chopped apples (which have been pared and cored) over this dough, sprinkle with cinnamon and a little sugar, then roll up like a jelly roll. Meanwhile put 1½ cups of sugar into the pint of water and let cook until sugar is all dissolved, then cut the roll into pieces about 2 inches wide. Place with cut side down in the hot syrup, put small piece of butter on top of each and sprinkle with a little more sugar and cinnamon, then bake in hot oven until apples are baked and the crust is a golden brown. Dish out, putting a little of the sirup over each; this can be made even more delicious by placing on top of each dumpling a spoonful of sweetened whipped cream, made by using the cream from the top of a quart bottle of Chevy Chase Dairy milk (also obtained from the Sanitary).

This is an inexpensive and a most delicious dish and can be served at any time of the year.

RECIPES NECESSARY FOR WEEK-END PLANS.

YOU are right about St. Roche being a harvest festival, Mrs. L., but it is not essentially a spring festival and, therefore, not particularly of the moment for your church supper. The occasion arises from St. Roche, born in Montpelier, France, about 1280—born to be early an orphan with a vast patrimony, which he distributed among the poor and set forth, thereafter, on a pilgrimage to Rome. In that and other Italian cities he devoted himself to the care of the poor (and rich as well), among whom a great plague was raging, and which he subsequently took himself. The story is an intriguing one. When himself ill, St. Roche crawled off alone into a woodland near Piacenza, when his hour of need found him at his self-appointed nursing, and his little dog went back and forth from the city, fetching him bread in his mouth and helping him through his illness. Upon recovery the good man of mercy returned to his old home, but was so changed that he was unrecognized and thrown into prison. Believing it to be the will of God, St. Roche endured, without identifying himself, five long years of confinement and hardship, at the end of which he died in his cell. Legend has it that the jailer found him sleeping, with a great white light brilliantly enveloping him—a paper lay beside him with the words "Ceux qui sont frappez de peste et imploreront la favour de Sainct Roche seront queris." ("Those who are struck of the pestilence and implore the favor of St. Roche will be healed.") It was thus learned who was this man who had died in their jail and his was henceforward martyrdom's name.

Only after a century, however, was the memory of St. Roche revived outside his native city, at the time of the Great Church Council of 1414. But we must be brief and skip the rest of the story. Suffice it to say that in England his festival on August 16 used to be celebrated as a "harvest-home" occasion, with dancing in the churchyard, and was always accounted the great harvest festival of the year.

This is a sketchy picture at best, my dear, for lack of space, but it will serve to answer your question as to whether or not it is proper to build your spring festival around this saint's day. St. Roche is the patron of prisoners and the sick, especially the old-time "plague-sick," and by virtue that revival of his memory in 1414 (in Italy) he is now feted in some parts of the world in connection with a full, fine harvest. You will, I hope, be able to judge what you wish to do from the foregoing and I wish you success in your venture.

Roast Chicken.

Thoroughly clean the chicken. Stuff, place on its side and rub the entire surface with salt, then with butter, giving special attention to the legs, wings and breast. Dredge with flour and place on a rack in a dripping pan. Put the chicken into a hot oven and when the flour begins to brown reduce the heat to moderate. Baste every fifteen minutes for the period of cooking. Start the basting with a half cupful of butter added to a half cupful of boiling water, and after the fat from the bird has seeped into the pan the mixture in the pan may be used to carry on the basting. It may be necessary to cover the chicken with a brown paper if it seems toward the end of the cooking to be browning too fast. It may be cooked in a double cooker if desired. A tender chicken requires about twenty minutes' roasting to the pound.

Giblet Gravy.

Cook giblets until tender, drain and chop fine, saving liquor. Make gravy in pan in which poultry was roasted. Measure fat, add an equal quantity of flour, blend well and stir until a golden brown. Add giblet liquor and cook until smooth, stirring constantly. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Thin to desired consistency with cold water or vegetable liquor and serve.

Fresh Strawberry Tartlets.

Cut plain or rich pastry in rounds of size to cover inverted muffin tins. Cover outside of pans, prick several times and bake in a hot oven. Put chilled cream filling to one-quarter inch thickness in bottom of each shell. Cover with berries that have been glazed in rich sugar sirup (two cupfuls sugar to one cupful water). Boil the sirup down until jellied, chill and pour over all. Serve cold with a few whole berries on top. (Stoned red cherries may also be used if desired).

Answers to Readers.

Dear Miss Carey: I am five feet seven inches tall, 45 years old and weigh 180 pounds. I am gaining all the time, though I try not to eat the things I know make me so heavy. I have such a desire to eat continually and am very miserable. No matter how hard I work, I just get fatter and fatter, and so am coming to you for help. If I could lose just 20 pounds I'd be happy. MRS. S.

The charts indicate a weight of about 154 pounds for you, Mrs. S., so that you could very nicely do with a loss of even 20 pounds. It may be that 160 would be the best weight for you, for, after all, the weight at which one feels and looks best is without a doubt the weight to which to aspire.

Suppose you let us have your name and address on a stamped envelope. We shall send you at once our menus and suggestions for reducing. Study them carefully, preparing your diet accordingly, and make up your mind to stick to it for at least one month. You see, even though you may be avoiding the foods which make fat, you are probably not eating enough of the bulky foods, the fruits and green vegetables, which will not only satisfy your appetite but which will supply the vitamins and minerals so necessary for health and vitality. Without realizing fully the exact amount indulged in, you are probably taking more calories than you need by way of snatches between meals and bedtime lunches. Hunger is a very difficult thing to ignore—in fact, I doubt very much if it ever has been for long—and it is only natural that you satisfy its cravings in one way or another. So, eat plenty of fruits and generous servings of vegetables, two salads daily, two glasses of milk, skimmed or buttermilk, and whatever else you like besides, just so you always keep within your caloric allowance.

Let us hear from you soon and—buck up!

NEW ORLEANS DISH WINS POST AWARD

Recipe Offered by Mrs. J. L. O'Connell Is Named "Crab Jumbalaya."

From New Orleans, home of exotic Creole culinary creations, comes this week's Post $5 recipe winner.

This formula, which was submitted by Mrs. J. L. O'Connell, of 934 I street northwest, is for "Crab Jumbalaya." She says that it is a popular New Orleans dish.

With the interesting ingredients which are named below this recipe should result in an appetizing and tasty sea food dish.

To be eligible for the weekly recipe awards of The Post, formulas which are submitted should use some of the products which are advertised on the Saturday food page of The Post.

Mrs. O'Connell's winning recipe follows:

6 crabs
2 cups rice
1 can tomatoes
1 green pepper
1 large onion
6 cups water

Fry onion in any desired fat; add tomatoes, pepper cut fine and water. Clean fresh crabs and cook all together in deep utensil. Salt and pepper to taste; a little garlic may be added if you like the flavor. When mixture comes to a boil add the rice. Cook about 30 minutes or until rice is done. Serve hot. Fresh shrimp may be substituted for the crabs.

Ingredients from Sanitary or District Grocery Stores.

Fruit Rice Parfait.

Press out all the syrup from crushed pineapple in a No. 2 can, drain a No. 2 can of apricots, and combine the syrups. Bring to boiling, add one-fourth cup rice, boil five minutes, then cook over boiling water until the rice is very tender and the liquid all absorbed. Add one-fourth cup sugar, the drained pineapple and the apricots pressed through a sieve. Chill thoroughly. Just before serving, fold in one cup beaten cream. Pile lightly in glasses and garnish with a bit of preserved ginger. Serves eight to ten.

OUR DAILY FOOD

By COLONEL GOODBODY

"RECEIPTS" FROM ANCIENT COOKERY LORE

I'VE been reading a book about medieval feasts in England, written by William G. Mead. The food of the Middle Ages consisted principally of meat and fish—meat for ordinary days and fish for fast-days. Pork was the favorite, though beef and mutton were also popular.

Looking over the old "receipts" you find that the meat was often ground to a paste, or minced, or seasoned with a great quantity of spices.

Every kitchen must have had a chopping block and a large wooden bowl for cutting meat into small pieces, if we believe the old "receipt" books, which contain many specimens like this one:

"Take eels . . . and chop them in fair slices. Hew fair butts of calf or pork, . . . all small. Take butts of pork and smite them in pieces. Take the paunch of a sheep and let it boil till it be tender, then lay it on a fair board and cut it in small pieces of the breadth of a penny."

Of course, these recipes were used in the days before forks were invented, and it was quite necessary that the contents of each dish be soft enough to be eaten with a spoon, or dipped up with the fingers.

There were few simply-prepared dishes in the Middle Ages. As Mr. Mead says, "The ideal, apparently, was that nothing should be left in its natural state, but rather deviled and hashed and highly spiced and mixed with a dozen or a score of other ingredients, so that no one might have an inkling of what a dish was composed."

Even oysters were dressed up with sugar and spices, with ginger and saffron and powdered pepper.

The other day I looked through a collection of ancient cookery books, and wrote down some of the most interesting recipes. They are all vague as to proportions—like this one: "Take hens and pork, and seethe them together; take the liver of hens, and pork, and hew it small, and grinde it all to dust; take bread grated and do put it thereto; and temper it with the self broth, and bind it together with yelks of eggs, and cast powder thereon fort; boil it, and look that it be not stonding." (stiff).

In a later book "The Art of Cookery Made Plain and Easy," there were directions "to dress calf's chitterlings curiously." In another, printed in 1600, I found "The most kindly wale to preserve plums."

In "The Accomplisht Cook or the Art and Mystery of Cookery," printed in 1678, there are bills of fare for every month in the year. "Also," according to the author, "how to set forth the meat in order for that service, as it was used before hospitality left this nation."

I found a menu for All-Saints Day—in November. The first course alone included twenty dishes, beginning with oysters, continuing through beef and capons and geese and ducks and mutton, venison and swans, veal and roast turkey, and ending with "a double-bordered custard." The second course includes twenty more dishes—oranges and lemons, and more meat dishes—pig and lamb and ducks, "a couple of pheasants," several varieties of fish, three brace of partridge, and then a dish of spinach. After the spinach, a roll of beef, a cold goose pie, and so on and so on until we finally reach the dessert—jellies and tarts and gingerbread, "and other fruits," according to the original bill of fare.

Is it any wonder that the old cookbooks included a few chapters of medicines and salves, and "broths for the sick?"

Market Meanderings

By MILDRED REED BUNDY

Purchase of Flowers Made Attractive at Local Market; Bananas Cheap and Strawberries More So; Texas Sending Its Sugar Corn.

Many a garden in Washington and hereabouts will bloom more brightly this summer because many a gardener has consulted a certain yellow-haired girl who sells plants at the door of a big, downtown market. Over the small counter of her small quarters, with her pleasant face and bright hair and willing person so well placed among the pinks and petunias, the calendulas, the columbines and the climbing roses, there is much valuable information given with or without the purchase of her wares.

Possible customers among the flower fanciers, whether they be professional gardeners or eager amateurs, are not quickly or simply satisfied. The Meanderer decided after watching this girl flower marketer deal with the species. For flower fanciers are given to rhapsodizing. They are always thirsty for more knowledge of their hobby. They compare notes untiringly. They feel impelled to tell at every opportunity about their gardening success. All of this the flower seller seemed to know and endure. If the customer has irritated the young marketer, the customer goes away without knowing it. No words told the Meanderer that life is sometimes a bit thick for the golden-haired plant vender. Slightly crooked smiles that might look like an expression of exasperation if they were not accompanied by tolerant twinkles in her eyes were the only clews the Meanderer had to the daily shop philosophy of her new friend.

"Dearie, I want to buy for three people * * *" one customer began at the flower booth. The customer was a well-groomed, well-meaning woman toward whose kind the advertisements for "The larger sizes" in smart gowns are directed. Buying three plants for the window box of an apartment house neighbor, buying a dozen zinnias for another neighbor and an assortment of plants for herself that should make her garden a riot of color soon, this customer consumed an unbelievable amount of time. She went away highly hopeful of her potential gardens in paper bags.

One of the values, attractive to thrifty gardeners that the little flower booth was offering was a dozen petunia plants for 50 cents each. Zinnia plants were 35 cents a dozen. Clove pinks, Chinese pinks and outdoor carnations were three plants for 25 cents, as were delphiniums.

Soon the summer prices for bananas, always so low in Washington, will be in effect, prophesied a dealer in wholesale bananas to the Meanderer this week. This dealer brought his customary several hundred bunches of bananas from Baltimore this week by truck. Three boats carrying approximately 20,000 bunches of bananas, come into Baltimore each Monday from South American ports. During the heaviest part of the banana shipping season an additional boat comes with its cargo on Thursday of each summer week. The shipments to Baltimore serve Maryland, Virginia, the District and nearby Pennsylvania. The retail price of bananas in Washington was as low as 10 cents a dozen in some markets.

"The bottom dropped right out of the strawberry market early this week," is a statement that might be made unanimously by those who buy and those who sell the berries in Washington. What was an advantageous buy in strawberries for the Washington consumer was probably a bitter disappointment to the grower.

"Prices were lower on berries this week than I've ever known them to be," one well-known wholesale merchant in the Southwest market told the Meanderer. "How many years would that cover?" the Meanderer asked. "Well, I've been in this business since I was about big enough to walk." So it might be deduced that not in more than 30 years have berries been so cheap in Washington. The Meanderer hesitates to quote a price, since it was so variable, but crates of 32 quarts of perfect quality sold for $1.50 or less, from the wholesale markets. Few retail shops asked more than 10 cents per quart.

And while she put away her bargain strawberries for next winter's enjoyment, the Meanderer thought of how many quarts of such pleasure Washington will have at the expense of the strawberry growers.

Persian lime pie seems to the Meanderer an excellent suggestion for a summer dessert. It is made like lemon pie, using the juice of the attractive green Persian limes now on the market instead of lemon juice. A small quantity of the lime juice may be used, because it is concentrated, and the extra cost of the limes, therefore, is not appreciable.

Sugar corn from Texas this week is a new suggestion only for the marketing housewife with a well filled purse, for the corn sold at not less than three ears for 25 cents. Often it was labeled 10 cents an ear.

GRAIN PRICES SLUMP ON AID BILL REPORT

Wheat, Corn and Oats Lose, With Gains in Provisions; Exports Continue.

Chicago, June 3 (A.P.).—Quick setbacks of more than 2 cents a bushel in wheat late today accompanied announcement the $2,300,000,000 Garner relief bill had been favorably reported.

Wheat traders construed the announcement as bearish, and a flood of stop loss selling followed, with the market collapsing to the lowest point touched in almost a month. The fact that the proposed tax increase on produce exchange transactions might remain in the new tax bill did not conduce to improve trade sentiment.

Wheat closed nervous, ⅞ to 1⅛ cents under yesterday's finish, corn ¼ to ⅝ cent down, oats ⅛ to ½ cent off, and provisions unchanged to 5 cents up.

The turn in wheat prices came after the market had developed an upward trend in connection with an advance of securities. Aside from the stronger tone in stocks, however, wheat bulls had little help, save for some enlargement of export trade, seaboard advices indicating liberal foreign buying of United States hard winter wheat again today in addition to overseas purchases of 1,100,000 bushels of hard winters yesterday.

Argentine offerings of wheat abroad were reported light, and other signs indicated that at present North America's stock of wheat was the main source of supply for Europe.

Some buying at the last on the part of traders in a position to collect profits caused something of a rally from the day's bottom, but there was little confidence shown.

Bears put stress on reports that spring wheat prospects were unusually good, and that frequent rains were minimizing likelihood of grasshopper damage. Late reactions in the New York stock market were a contributing bearish factor.

RETAIL TRADE GAINS BRIGHTEN PROSPECT

Mercantile Reviews Regard Seasonal Upturn as Sign of Improvement.

New York, June 3 (A.P.).—There have been no developments in trade and industry to stimulate enthusiam during the past week, but in a few special lines of retail activity, business has been on a more active plane by reason of seasonal demand, according to the weekly mercantile reviews.

Dun's Review looks at the situation with some degree of optimism, declaring that wholesale and retail distributive totals make the best showing in volume of any month this year, with tonnage handled and unit sales increasing moderately.

"As a result of this better trend," says Dun's, "there has developed a feeling of encouragement that is far more pronounced than could be discerned a year ago. The warmer weather has stimulated interest in all lightweight wearing apparel, and sales of beach clothes, sporting goods and summer needs in general were given such an impetus by the Memorial Day holiday that much of the momentum was reflected in the enlarged movement of such items during the current week."

Automobile Production Better.

To Bradstreet's, the general business and industrial outlook appears less favorable. It states that, although the weather during the past week has been ideal for a seasonal growth of business activity, whatever there has been of an uplift has been so slight as to be of but little benefit.

This review comments that indecision and delay on the part of Congress and restriction of credit by banks are believed largely responsible for the present dormant state of business.

Because of new activities in automobile manufacturing, business has improved in the centers of that industry, the review states.

New Bond Issues.

New bond issues offered in this district in the past week totaled $31,800,000, compared with $18,066,950 in the previous week and $72,175,000 in the like week of 1931.

Construction Contracts.

Heavy engineering construction contracts awarded during the last week in May totaled $14,953,000, a considerable decrease from the preceding weeks of the month, according to the Engineering News-Record.

The cumulative value of contracts let from the first of the year to date is $469,279,000, compared with $1,253,500 in the same period last year.

Lumber Shipments.

Production of lumber for the week ended May 28, as estimated by the National Lumber Manufacturers Association, was 114,587,000 feet, about half the volume of the corresponding week last year. Orders exceeded the production by 4 per cent and shipments by 11 per cent.

Tank Car Dividend.

Directors of the General American Tank Car Co. today declared a dividend of 50 cents on the common stock, payable July 1 to stock of record June 15. The previous payment, made in January this year, was a quarterly distribution of $1. Following this payment the company announced that dividends would be acted upon semiannually.

Officials stated today that earnings for the first half of the year will exceed $1 a share on the common stock, and that results in the second quarter were more favorable than in the first quarter.

Silk Consumption Off.

Imports of raw silk during May were 34,233 bales, as compared with 30,953 in the preceding month and 42,264 in May, 1931, the Silk Association of America reports.

MARKET COMMENT

Robert C. Jones & Co.—Official confirmation of the organization of the bond pool, which we mentioned earlier in the week was announced late yesterday. This syndicate comprises practically every important bank in New York City and is being organized for the purpose of buying selected bonds which have been unduly depressed in price. We reiterate our advice to buy best bonds, bank stocks and industrials, believing the market will sell substantially higher. The political and business outlook is much clearer.

G. M.-P. Murphy & Co.—From somewhere in the present range, or close to it, a rally should start that will carry through sufficiently to offset temporary disappointments. We believe that constructive forces have been at work recently, and the results will become apparent soon, possibly with enough effect on confidence to impart an entirely different tone to markets.

Westheimer & Co.—Constructive action being taken for bond market support is considered likely to encourage renewal of rallying tendencies in all security markets. Sentiment also being helped by favorable developments at Washington.

Arthur N. Few & Co.—The final balancing of the Federal budget has definitely stimulated the market. A bond rise always precedes a return to normal in stock values. Marked strength is evident in leading bond issues, and we believe that careful purchase of outstanding, non-speculative stocks is wise at this time.

Hemphill, Noyes & Co.—Confidence, of course, is the motivating force behind business movement and at the present time the main obstacles to political and legislative. The key industries—steel, automotive and new construction—are showing a slight improvement over recent weeks, contrary to usual seasonal tendencies, but unfortunately this is not true of industry generally.

Waggaman, Brawner & Co.—The advance of the last two days and the scarcity of offerings has improved sentiment. We look for a steadier market, subject to sharp improvement on any favorable news.

The following reviews of yesterday's financial markets abroad are from the regular European service of the Associated Press:

London—A smart rise was recorded in American issues on more favorable Wall street news followed by an improvement in gilt-edged securities and Paris favorites. Oil shares declined on the failure of the oil conference held in New York. The market closed quiet and steady.

Paris—Trading on the Bourse was stimulated by favorable advices from foreign markets and Thursday's firm closing at New York. The tone was firm, bank stocks and electrical issues being specially favored.

Berlin—A confident tone prevailed on the Bourse after initial weakness. Business remained quiet as operators awaited plans of the new government to cover the budget deficit. The market closed firm.

MOBILE & OHIO ROAD BLAMES BUS LINES

President Lays Receivership to Motor and Barge Competition.

St. Louis, June 3 (A.P.).—Difficulties of the Mobile & Ohio Railroad, for which a receiver was appointed in Federal Court here today, were attributed by Fairfax Harrison, president, to unregulated motorbus and barge competition.

Mr. Harrison, president also of the Southern Railway Co., which controls the Mobile & Ohio, said the failure to obtain a loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation was also a contributing factor, and explained the latter railroad could not produce sufficient collateral to satisfy the Finance Corporation.

The receiver, Ernest E. Morris, executive vice president of the road, said tonight no radical changes were contemplated in its operation, and that as receiver he and the personnel of the road would "carry on as we have been doing."

Norris' bond was fixed at $40,000. As executive vice president he has virtually controlled the operations of the road for twelve years. He said the road had been operated on an economical basis and no new economy moves were planned at present.

Samuel W. Fordyce, attorney, who filed the petition for Gatch, Tennant & Co., asking the receivership, requested Federal Judge Charles B. Faris to appoint two receivers, but Judge Faris replied, "I have never been able to see the value of two receivers unless both are willing to work for the pay of one." Fordyce asked for appointment of Norris and Congressman John McDuffie, of Monroeville, Ala.

Receivers Sought For Southwest Gas

Utilities Operating in Texas, Louisiana and Oklahoma Sued at Wilmington.

Wilmington, Del., June 3 (A.P.).—A receivership suit was filed in chancery court today against the Southwest Gas Utilities Corporation, of Shreveport, La., by Jennie Fox, of New York, owner of a $500 bond of the corporation.

The suit alleged the corporation is insolvent, and on May 1 defaulted in the payment of bond interest. It stated the concern had suffered heavy losses due to insufficient working capital, the general business situation and shrinkage in the value of assets.

The corporation provides natural gas service to 40 communities in Oklahoma, Texas and Louisiana and controls 14,000 acres of gas leases. It owns or controls the Southwest Gas Co., Northwest Louisiana Gas Co., People's Gas & Fuel Co., Southwest Gas Utilities Corporation of Oklahoma, Southwest Gas Utilities Corporation of Texas and the Southwest Utilities Service Co.

National Credit Corporation.

New York, June 3 (A.P.).—The National Credit Corporation today issued a call for redemption on June 13 of 10 per cent of the original principal amount of its outstanding gold notes. This is the sixth partial redemption arranged by the corporation.

Stock Markets Stage Gains On Banking and Tax Outlook

Promise of Organized Buying at Early Date Boosts Prices Despite Profit-taking; Curb Follows Big Board's Advance.

By JOHN L. COOLEY.

New York, June 3 (A.P.).—Security markets forged ahead sturdily today in anticipation of final action on the tax bill and of an announcement that banking support was to be provided contingent upon a satisfactory balancing of the Federal budget.

It was no secret in Wall street that the bankers were to reveal, after the close, their plans for organized buying of securities, and both stocks and bonds rallied eagerly. Extreme gains, ranging from 1 to 5 points, were reduced by most shares, but fixed income securities, including preferred equities, held buoyantly to the finish.

In bonds net gains of several points were numerous. Common stocks cut their rise to an average net advance of two points.

Profit-Taking Appears.

Profit-taking and belated liquidation served to dampen the ardor of shares generally, although utility and tobaccos finished with good gains. Light and power company issues appeared to like the final decision of congressional conferees on the electricity tax; but the spirit of the general market was distinctly one of encouragement at what was to be and had been done to change financial prospects. Trading was active, especially on the advance.

Transactions totaled 1,886,642 shares.

Consolidated Gas, North American, American Water Works, United Gas Improvement, Pacific Gas and Peoples Gas returned gains of 1 to 3 points.

Rails finished with something to the good, although mostly well under their highs.

American Telephone, stimulated to the extent of 3 points, met enough stock to cancel its rise. U. S. Steel halves a 2-point jump, but American Tobacco B, Liggett & Myers B, Reynolds, National Biscuit, Coca Cola, Corn Products, Hershey and Woolworth closed strongly.

Wall street expects that the new American Securities Investing Corporation will function chiefly in the bond market, where lack of confidence has been most evident. To what extent it will operate in equity securities is problematical, but it was quickly pointed out that stocks, theoretically at least, should be influenced by a strong bond list.

Liquidation to Come.

Brokers are uncertain just how much liquidation remains to be cleared up. They would, of course, prefer to have it worked off on a rising, rather than on a falling market. It was suggested, however, that an important change in sentiment might easily obviate necessity for at least a part of such selling. Much of the markets' recent troubles have been psychological.

Outside of Congress and the New York banking community, the day's news contributed little to financial trends. A receivership for the Mobile & Ohio presented the first railroad casualty since the reconstruction corporation was formed, but it had no echoes here. Gold withdrawals were again rather voluminous as foreign currencies maintained recent rates in dollar terms.

Dun's Weekly Review of Trade said wholesale and retail buying was running at best volumes of the year, resulting in "a feeling of encouragement that is far more pronounced than could be discerned a year ago." Bradstreet's, on the other hand, found that "whatever there has been of uplift has been so slight as to be of little benefit," due in large measure to recent congressional delays.

Curb Prices Rally.

The curb market rallied vigorously on advance reports of formation of the huge banking syndicate to buy securities, and the prompt action on taxation by House and Senate conferees.

A number of active stocks ran up 1 to 3 points and a fairly large scattering of preferred issues jumped up as much as 5 points. Turnover was in moderate volume, totaling 200,000 shares, against 260,000 shares yesterday. Prices receded somewhat from the best in the late dealings.

The utilities responded actively to indications that the proposed tax on electric power would be shifted to the shoulders of consumers. Leading the rally of the power stocks were American Gas & Electric, up 1⅜ to 19½; American Light & Traction new, up 2 points to 12½; Commonwealth Edison and Consolidated Gas of Baltimore, each up 2 points to 52 and 54, respectively and Electric Bond & Share, which advanced 1⅛ to 7⅛.

Utility Preferred Gains.

Utility preferred stocks which registered gains of 2 to 5 points included the Empire Gas issues, National Power & Light, New York Telephone, Philadelphia Co. and United Gas preferred. The Electric Bond & Share stocks raced up 5 points for the 5 per cent preferred and 5⅛ points for the 6 per cent preferred.

Breakdown of the world oil conference in New York was partly offset by new evidences of progress in stabilization of the domestic industry. California crude production was reported lower for the week and the American Petroleum Institute threw its influence in favor of a 10 per cent curtailment program for gasoline refiners. Gulf Oil advanced 2 points to 26½, and Standard of Indiana was up 1 point. Other oil stocks which gained a substantial fraction included Humble, Imperial and Standard of Kentucky.

Gains of 1 to nearly 5 points featured price movements in Aluminum Co. of America, Great Atlantic & Pacific, Sherwin Williams, Singer Manufacturing, A. O. Smith and United Shoe Machinery. The Ford issues were up fractionally.

Manufacturers Trust Co. announces receipt of funds to pay July 1 interest on the Republic of El Salvador series A bonds issued under a loan contract between the republic and Minor C. Keith. The company also received $81,900 to use in buying bonds for sinking fund purposes.

Collateral Loans Drop $78,619,440 in May

New York, June 3 (A.P.).—Borrowing of New York Stock Exchange member firms on collateral decreased $78,619,440 in May to the new low for the tabulation of $300,397,220 on May 31. A year ago these loans totaled $1,434,683,650.

The record high, made at the end of September, 1929, was $8,549,383,979.

The number of Pennsylvania Railroad stockholder continues to increase, according to announcement made recently, which disclosed that 249,228 stockholders were registered on the company's books on May 1. This is an increase of 904 stockholders over the preceding month, reflecting the further distribution of the company's shares of stock.

The average holding per stockholder reached a new low record on the same date, when the increasingly large number of shareholders brought the average holding down to 52.81 shares per stockholder. The total number of shares of Pennsylvania stock outstanding on May was 13,162,775.

Monroe W. Rothschild, formerly vice president, has been elected president of the Vadaco Sales Corporation, succeeding Thomas J. McHugh.

The Coco Cola Co. reports for the quarter ended March 31, profit of $2,667,857 after expenses and other deductions but before Federal taxes. This compares with profit of $2,902,801 in the first quarter of 1931.

THE MARKETS AT A GLANCE

What the Stock Market Did

	Fri.	Thurs
Number of advances	432	286
Number of declines	61	216
Stocks unchanged	124	173
Total issues traded	617	675

Stocks.

The prospect of final action on the budget-balancing program, plus confirmation of the bond pool, sent stocks upward to gains of 1 to 5 points. Formal announcement of organized banker support did not come until after the close, but it was well discounted in the late morning trade. Profit-taking accounted for an afternoon recession, but all the averages closed higher for the day.

Bonds.

Bonds staged the most vigorous rally of the year, rails leading advances of 2 to 9 points.

Curb.

Utilities led the strong advance on settlement of the electric power tax. Oils also were better on the A. P. I. plea for curtailment of gasoline production. The general list registered advances of 1 to 5 points before the slight late recession.

Wheat.

Professional bears took hold of the favorable report on the Garner public building bill. Futures closed a cent lower. July corn went to a new low for the season.

Cotton.

Prices moved nervously in a narrow range, but the firm undertone gave way late in the afternoon, principally on weakness at Liverpool and a somewhat soft spot situation in the South.

Paris May Extend Loan to Germany

Renewal Would Depend on Amortization; Interest Rate Reduced.

Paris, June 3 (A.P.).—The financial newspaper Agence Economique et Financiere said today the Bank of France would renew its one-quarter share of the $90,000,000 credit to Germany if Germany would agree to an amortization proportional to any increase in the gold reserves of the Reichsbank and any betterment in the general situation.

The rate of interest on the renewal would be 5 per cent instead of 6, it said. Arrangements are now being made, it added, by experts of the Bank of France and the Reichsbank.

The newspaper also said the League of Nations financial commission had agreed on a means of extending financial aid to Austria in which England, Switzerland and Holland were said to be ready to participate. The credit would amount, it said, to about $21,000,000.

Group to Protect Coal Bondholders

Baltimorean Heads Committee in Consolidated Co. Receivership.

New York, June 3 (A.P.).—Formation of a protective committee for holders of first and refunding mortgage 5 per cent bonds of the Consolidation Coal Co., which went into receivership yesterday, was announced today. Interest due June 1 on the bonds was defaulted. Howard Bruse, of the Baltimore Trust Co., is chairman of the committee.

Following an original equity action in Baltimore Thursday, Federal Judge Julian W. Mack appointed Robert C. Hill, Frank R. Lyon, and Howell Fisher ancillary receivers in equity for the Consolidated Coal Co., which owns 300,000 acres of bituminous coal fields in Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virgina, West Virginia, and Kentucky.

BOND PRICES RALLY, WITH RAILS LEADING

Most Vigorous Rise of Year Laid to Bankers' Pool for Stabilization.

By VICTOR EUBANK.

New York, June 3 (A.P.).—Cheerfulness flooded the bond market today and the trade staged its most vigorous rally of the year. Headed by railroad bonds, which soared in many cases frfom 2 to 9 points, the general market enjoyed its sharpest rise for a single day since the year-end whirl on December 31.

Transactions totaled $12,467,000, par value, against $13,962,000 yesterday.

While the carriers dominated trading, the utility and industrial classifications were also higher. Reports that Wall street banks were forming a vast price-stabilization corporation with millions of dollars subscribed for the purchase of securities, caused people who were selling bonds earlier in the week to take second thought. Many former sellers were reported among the buyers of today.

Bankers that closely follow the market reported that early buying appeared in small lots—representing the purchases of bargain hunters. This buying, though moderate, showed that bonds were hard to get at prevailing quotations and bids were marked up. Around noon, when rumors of an early announcement on the security stabilization plan took form, stronger buying appeared, particularly in the rails which had been heavily sold in previous sessions.

Railroad issues, which gained 2 to 5 points, included bonds of the Santa Fe, Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake & Ohio, Chicago & Northwestern, Erie, Great Northern, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, New Haven, Southern Pacific and Union Pacific. Gains of 5 to over 9 points were made by the B. & O. 5s of 2000, Central Pacific guaranteed 5s, Chesapeake & Ohio general 4½s, Burlington general 4s, Chicago & Northwestern general 3½s and 6½s, Colorado & Southern first 4½s, Erie consolidated 4s, and Great Northern 7s. Great Northern 5½s raced up 15½ points for the day's widest gain.

Public utility loans scored substantial gains, although less spectacular than the rails. American Telephone convertible 4½s, American Water Works 6s, Columbia Gas 5s of 1952, Ohio Public Service 7s of 1947, and Northern States Power 5s of 1941 were up 2 to 3 points.

Traction issues were firm. Interborough Rapid Transit bonds were up 1 to 3 points, and Third avenue Elevated refunding 4s advanced 4½.

Austrian bonds featured the foreign government group. The 7s of 1957 were up 7½ points. Other firm spots were the German government 5½s and 7s, gaining 2¼ to 3 points. They were the day's most active issues in the foreign government section.

Pacific Phone Dividend Hailed A. T. & T. Index

New York, June 3.—In some quarters in Wall street it is felt the action of the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Co., in declaring the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 on the common stock may be taken as an indication that the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., which controls it, has no present intention of changing its own annual dividend rate of $9.

Pacific is one of the largest of the American Telephone & Telegraph subsidiaries and A. T. & T. owns more than 83 per cent of its common stock.

The Pacific company in the first quarter earned $1.49 a share.

Crop Fund Loans To Farmer Fought

Hyde Insists That Money Must Be Used for Production.

(Associated Press.)

Any revival of the loans to farmers from the funds set aside for crop production is opposed by Secretary Hyde. The Secretary of Agriculture said yesterday that he disapproved suggestions made to President Hoover by representatives of the Texas and New Mexico governors for a reopening of the crop-loan funds for other than production purposes.

Out of a maximum fund totaling $200,000,000, crop loans were made by the Department of Agriculture aggregating $65,000,000, but these loans ceased on May 1.

Agricultural interests are seeking their reopening for loans for general agricultural relief. Secretary Hyde opposed administering the loan fund, criticizing it severely shortly after Congress made the money available in the Reconstruction Finance Corporation measure and delegated the Department of Agriculture to administer the loans. The Senate has passed a bill for the reopening of the loans, but the measure is still pending in the House.

Merger Plans Reported By Corrigan-McKinney

Cleveland, Ohio, June 3 (A.P.).—William G. Mather, who holds the controlling interest in Corrigan-McKinney Steel Co., said today that negotiations for the merger of Corrigan-McKinney and Newton Steel, at Newton, Ohio, were progressing and that he hoped for an early announcement of the merger.

Reports have been current in financial circles for some time that such a merger was in progress. Corrigan-McKinney, estimated to be worth about $60,000,000, was acquired by Cleveland Cliffs Iron Co. in March, 1930. The last annual report of Newton Steel listed assets of $14,000,000 and a funded debt of $3,000,000, which was used to build a plant at Monroe, Mich.

GEHRIG HITS 4 SUCCESSIVE HOMERS AS YANKS WIN, 20-13; M'GRAW RESIGNS AS GIANTS' MANAGER DUE TO ILL HEALTH

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

BOSTON, Mass., June 3.—Jack Sharkey took time out from his training for the Schmeling fight three weeks hence, and visited the wife and kiddies here. He seemed like a different Sharkey.

He didn't say what he was going to do to the German. There was none of the blatant braggadocio that has marked his presence since he graduated into the big league of the prize ring after beating Harry Wills when none of the leading contenders would risk a meeting with the black menace.

Sharkey is quietly confident that he'll beat Schmeling. He disclaimed the dire predictions of the German's fate. He appeared more of a business man fighter than anything else. Calm, deliberate with a confidence that lacked the cocksureness of his previous training campaigns.

If this is the new Sharkey, then America's chances of reclaiming the first world title that ever was held on foreign shores are increasing. The old Sharkey couldn't be trusted to carry out his battle plans. Something in his mental make-up seemed to snap when the fighting was thickest. He tossed away his big chances, but there'll be no slip-up on June 21, he said.

Sharkey's failures are vivid. He was a mile in front of Dempsey at Yankee Stadium in 1926, when he foolishly exposed his jaw in the seventh round. He permitted Stribling to fight Stribling's own kind of a fight and was barely able to win a decision in Florida. He was on the verge of knocking out Schmeling when overanxiety gripped him and he sunk a foul into low territory. There are other sad chapters in his fighting career, and in each case his mental acrobatics are to blame.

Against Schmeling, Sharkey will carry into the ring all but one advantage. The German will have the asset of stamina over the former gob, but in all else Sharkey is the superior. There is no comparison in the boxing ability of the two. Sharkey made Dempsey look like a novice. He excelled even Tunney in speed and footwork. The German looks clumsy in comparison.

Sharkey's punch with either hand was excelled by only two modern-day heavyweights — Dempsey and Firpo. Schmeling has not yet demonstrated knockout power. He stopped Stribling by wearing him down in 14 rounds before the referee stopped the fight in the fifteenth.

The sailor has every natural asset of a champion. But heretofore he couldn't be trusted to make the most of his native talent. If it's a new Sharkey that faces the German, a new Sharkey retaining all his speed and punch backed by a calm, deliberate plan of battle that doesn't go haywire, as the saying is, he'll bring the title back to America.

The battle three weeks hence finds the prize fight public not unduly exercised. The advance seat sale has not assumed the proportions of a championship battle. Attempts have been made to ballyhoo the bout along Rickard's lines, but neither Sharkey nor Schmeling provide the press agents with the subject matter that Dempsey, or Firpo, or Willard boasted.

Prices for the bout, with $25 tops, have bounded back to the boom era, and this department will be surprised indeed, if the thousands of ringside seats are half filled at that figure. But the populace has been denied a heavyweight championship fight for a year. It will be staged in a population center of 10,000,000 and the lower priced seats, which are among the last to be sold, may net a respectable gate.

LEONARD BOUT RAINED OUT.

New York, June 3 (A.P.).—A ten-round bout scheduled for the Coney Island Stadium tonight between Benny Leonard, former lightweight champion, and Andy Saviola, New York welterweight, was postponed today because of rain. The match will be staged next Wednesday night.

NEW YORK LEADER WON TEN PENNANTS IN 30 YEARS AT JOB

Doctor Advises Move; Long Storm Center of Majors.

Bill Terry Succeeds 'Little Napoleon' of Baseball.

By JACK CUDDY
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, June 3 (U.P.). John J. McGraw, the "little Napoleon" of baseball, stepped down from the managership of the New York Giants today because of illness after 30 stormy years at the helm, during which he won ten pennants and finished in the first division every year save two.

He was succeeded by one of his most colorful lieutenants, "Memphis Bill" Terry, the club's slugging first baseman and one of the greatest players of all time.

Thus, in his sixtieth year, the best-known man in baseball ended 41 years of active connection with the game. But McGraw has not quit entirely. He will continue with the Giants as vice president and general adviser.

The announcement of his resignation came at a time when the Giants' fortunes are at their lowest ebb in years. Rated as the strongest team in the National League when the season opened, they went into a slump and today are floundering in last place, two full games behind the seventh-place Philadelphia Phillies.

Became Ill on Trip West.

The fire-ball manager became ill during the club's recent Western trip and saw his last full game on May 10. A combination of ptomaine poisoning and sinus trouble afflicted him. Because of his age he responded sluggishly to treatment.

Despite his illness and the poor showing of the Giants, McGraw's resignation was entirely unexpected. There had been rumors of such a development, but these rumors had popped up now and again for the last five years. The first hint of his retirement came just before today's postponed double-header with the Phillies, when it was learned that two conferences were under way among players and officials.

McGraw was working on a five-year contract with the Giants, having signed for this term in 1930.

The truculent manager's successor, Bill Terry, is rated as the finest first baseman in baseball. Unequaled as a fielder, Terry also is one of the strongest hitters in the game. He won the National League batting championship in 1930 with a percentage of .401. Last year Chick Hafey beat him out for the title by a fractional margin. This season he has averaged .314. He was selected as manager because of his thorough understanding of the game, its shrewdness and his genial personality.

John Joseph McGraw, in the opinion of baseball writers, is the man who typified the spirit of baseball. His name is synonymous with the game to baseball followers throughout the land. Just as Rockefeller stands for Standard Oil and Ford is tied up with the automobile, so does McGraw mean baseball.

Helped Make Baseball Interesting.

No saint, no paragon, is McGraw, but the fans would not have it otherwise in a game where there is no "glorious defeat." A genius in technique and strategy, he has made baseball more interesting and lucrative.

A fighter, a master showman, and a leader who was willing to take chances, he attracted the greatest players of his time to the Giants and gave the customers their money's worth. It is generally believed that no man associated with a sport in the United States has matched the lasting imprint which McGraw, as manager of the Giants, has left on our national pastime.

McGraw boosted the New York team from the doldrums to the most dazzling heights of baseball history. He was playing with the old Baltimore Orioles, famed in song and story, when he was summoned by Andrew Freedman, then president, to take charge of the disorganized Giants. He assumed leadership on July 19, 1902. Since then the club has won ten league pennants and three world championships.

Under his leadership the club became the most colorful outfit in baseball, as well as the most feared and hated. They were despised so heartily in most cities that the fans poured out in hordes to heap derision upon them. Because this brought money into the club's coffers, the shrewd

Tribe Defeats Tigers Twice, 3-1 and 10-7

Detroit, June 3 (A.P.).—Cleveland took both ends of a double-header from the Detroit Tigers today, winning the first, 3 to 1, and then pounding four Bengal hurlers for a 10-to-7 victory in the nightcap.

Wes Ferrell won his third straight triumph and his eighth of the year in the initial tilt by hitting a home run over the scoreboard in the fifth to score Montague ahead of him to break up a pitching duel with Bridges.

Although Detroit pounded out fifteen hits in the finale to Cleveland's eleven, the Indians bunched their blows to better advantage and profited by eight passes.

Boxers Eager For 'Bonus' Matches

Miller Swamped by Offers for Show to Aid Veterans.

Gigantic Boxing Card at Ball Park on Wednesday.

IF there is any difficulty in arranging the program of veterans' benefit boxing bouts scheduled next Wednesday night in Griffith Stadium, it likely will be caused by the scores of boxers who have volunteered their services.

"Heine" Miller, in charge of arrangements as aid to Chief of Police Glassford, was yesterday swamped with calls and visits from local professional boxers who sought to perform on the card, the entire proceeds of which will be used to defray expenses of the bonus marchers.

A meeting for the purpose of arranging the program and ironing out details will be held tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock at 458 Indiana avenue northwest.

Miller reported that virtually every person in Washington interested in boxing as a participant, promoter, official or manager, had volunteered his services gratis.

Strickler First to Volunteer.

Billy Strickler, light-heavyweight, was the first boxer to volunteer. Young Van, undefeated middleweight, was second. Eddie Buell, himself a World War veteran and one of the best bantamweights ever produced in Washington, also asked to be placed on the card.

Other boxers anxious to perform are Reds Barry, Nick Antonelli, Frankie Rio, Don Whitlock, Walter Kirkwood, Frankie Vance, Roy "Kid" Manley, Babe Truehart, Pete Ready, Johnny Ryon, Ralph Smith, Stanford Carrier, Harry Haas, Leroy Bonbrest, Jack Baxter, Gene Kalopas, Mike Apperti, Young Toby, Lee Crandall, Jerry Dunn, Henry Irving and Leonard Tucci.

Policeman James E. Bennett reported that he has secured some talent from among the bonus marchers, notably Mickey Dolan, veteran Pacific Coast welterweight.

Received by Miller from James A. Sullivan, president of the Knights of Columbus Athletic Association:

"This is an opportunity to help our brother man and at the same time demonstrate not alone to the District but to the general public that boxing can be held in the District of Columbia for the enjoyment of all and without harm to our morals or welfare.

"I will take over any assignment you think me capable of handling and am thankful for the opportunity to serve the veterans and the boxing game at the same time."

Piet's Homer Wins For Bucs in 11th

Cubs Are Beaten, 6 to 5, as Swetonic Wins Fifth in Row.

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 3 (A.P.).—A long home run into the lengthening shadows in center field gave the Pirates a 6-to-5 victory over the Chicago Cubs after eleven innings of good and bad baseball today. It was Tony Piet, hustling Pittsburgh second sacker, who broke up the game.

With none on and none out, Tony cracked Jakie May's first pitch out to the flagpole and then jogged home.

The Cubs threatened in their half of the eleventh. The first two batters singled, but Steve Swetonic, who went the route, tightened up to fan Hornsby. The next two were easy.

Swetonic registered his fifth consecutive win under difficulties. Three errors behind him stretched the game.

Crowder and Fischer to Face Sox

Threat of Rain Keeps Nats Idle; Double-header Today.

MacFayden Is Sought by Yanks; West on the Mend.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor of The Post).

FENWAY PARK, Boston, Mass., June 3.—The Nats and the Red Sox were idle today as a result of suspicion that rain would fall. A drop was felt at Chelsea and another was reported drizzling in Cambridge at noon, whereupon the Boston management deemed it sufficient cause to postpone the game in favor of a double-header when Washington returns next September.

Two hours before game time the sun was beaming down benignly upon the city of cod and culture, but the edict rendered shortly after noon tethered the athletes to the hotel lobby. It was good business for the recumbent Boston Club, which draws more pigeons under the eaves than fans in the grandstand. The double bill later in the season will net a few more dollars than two single games.

The Nats and Manager Johnson regard the postponement today as temporarily cheating the team of one more victory, for their hopes of a sweep of the six-game series here are unconcealed. They have already punctured the Sox three times since the series opened, and are bent on stretching their current winning streak to six straight, at least, when the clubs clash in a double-header tomorrow.

Ragland to Miss Starting Chance.

The postponement apparently has cheated Frank Ragland of a chance to start his second game for the Nats for he was scheduled to work in the double bill tomorrow. Johnson now plans to work Fischer and Crowder in tomorrow's double matinee, with Lloyd Brown withheld for duty against the Athletics at Washington on Sunday.

Their three victories here on the heels of their defeat of the Mackmen earlier in the week have served as a tonic to the Nats' pennant hopes and the probability that they will open their Western trip closely bunched with the Yanks and Athletics, has made them the more eager to sweep the five games with the Red Sox.

Manager Johnson is confident that the Yankees and Athletics will find sterner opposition in the West than they have encountered in the past four years. It has been the weakness in that sector that has enabled the New York and Philadelphia clubs to outstrip the Nats in past seasons, but with Detroit, St. Louis and Cleveland now offering better resistance, the Nats' chances appear greatly improved.

The Nats have been able to hold their own with the Yanks and Athletics for the past two seasons and even showed a bit of an edge in their battle with the leading contenders. Aid from the Western clubs is calculated to tighten the race for the first time in four years and Johnson is counting on this help.

The acquisition of more pitchers for the Nats is regarded as a certainty. Neither Griffith nor Johnson expects the club to campaign with only seven hurlers and a deal for a pitcher or two within the next few days would occasion no surprise. Danny MacFayden of the Red Sox is still the object of negotiations, although the Yankees yesterday entered the competition for this hurler when Manager McCarthy conferred with President Bob Quinn by long distance telephone.

Johnson has no complaints outside of the paucity of pitchers. The club has proved itself in every other department and is showing a distinct upward trend in its hitting. Fourteen solid blows off MacFayden yesterday and recent successes against New York and Philadelphia pitching virtually erased Johnson's hitting worries.

Sammy West has fully recovered from being "beaned" yesterday by Southpaw Michaels, and specialists who examined him reported no serious injury. His ear bled profusely for a time, but he was a figure about the lobby today. Despite his recovery, Johnson is expected to withhold him from the line-up tomorrow in favor of Sam Rice.

SETS MODERN MAJOR LEAGUE MARK AS BAT ORGY WITH MACKS EQUALS 2 ALL-TIME RECORDS

Teams Hit for Total of 77 Bases; Nine Homers in Game.

Gehrig Hits Earnshaw for 3; Lazzeri's Slam Decides.

LOU GEHRIG.

PHILADELPHIA, June 3 (U.P.).—One modern major league batting record was broken, two all-time records were equaled and two were approached today, as the New York Yankees defeated the Philadelphia Athletics, 20 to 13.

Lou Gehrig hit four home runs in consecutive times at bat, equaling the major league record for home runs by one player in one game and establishing a new modern major league record for consecutive home runs in one game by one player.

The Yankees hit seven home runs, equaling the major league record for home runs in one game.

The two teams amassed 36 hits for a total of 77 bases, two short of the major league record of 79. The two teams got nine home runs, falling one short of the major league record.

Ruth Slams 15th Homer.

In addition, Babe Ruth hit his fifteenth home run of the season; Jimmy Foxx his nineteenth, and Gehrig's string was run to 11.

Nine pitchers were used—five by the Athletics, who started with George Earnshaw.

Gehrig blasted out his homers in the first, fourth, fifth and seventh innings. Ruth got his four-bagger in the fifth and Earl Combs did likewise in the same frame. Tony Lazzeri drove out a four-bagger in the ninth. Foxx made his circuit drive in the ninth inning, and Cochrane, of Philadelphia, garnered one in the first frame.

The Yankees won the contest with a six-run rally in the ninth inning, featured by Lazzeri's homer. Allen, Rhodes, Brown and Gomez performed on the Yankee mound, while Earnshaw, Mahaffey, Walberg, Krause and Rommell pitched for the A's.

Arlett Turned Trick For Baltimore.

When Gehrig drove out his four home runs he duplicated the record-equaling feat performed Wednesday by Buzz Arlett, of the Baltimore Orioles, home-run king of the International League. The record was established originally in 1894, when Robert Lowe, of the Boston Nationals, hit four homers during one

Braves Rally in Ninth To Beat Dodgers, 6 to 5

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 3 (A.P.).—Bob Worthington's double in the ninth inning broke up a tight ball game and gave the Boston Braves a 6-to-5 decision over the Dodgers today. The Dodgers took a 3-run lead early in the game but the Braves hammered Lefty Clark out of the box in the sixth, tying the score. Hack Wilson hit his third home run in two days, off Frankhouse in the third inning.

Goslin's Homer in 10th Lets Browns Win, 2-1

Chicago, June 3 (A.P.).—"Goose" Goslin stepped into the breach with a powerful home run blow into the right field stands in the tenth inning to give St. Louis a 2-to-1 victory over the White Sox today.

Vic Frasier allowed but 5 hits in the overtime game but two of them were homers, the other coming off the bat of a former mate, Bruce Campbell, in the first inning. George Blaeholder was nicked for 10 hits but tightened in the pinches, leaving 11 White Sox runners stranded.

RISQUE SCORES EASY VICTORY IN BELMONT PARK FEATURE

Winner Beats Flag Trick A Length

Risque Takes Lead From Start; Dark Charmer Third.

Steeplechase Won by Bandit; Evergold First at Chicago.

NEW YORK, June 3 (A.P.).—Risque, Mrs. John D. Hertz's good mare, had a little too much class for three others of her sex in the Minerva, a handicap at a mile, which featured the program at Belmont Park this afternoon. Running to her best form, the daughter of Stimulus—Risky flashed past the finish line a length before A. C. Schwartz's Flag Trick in the good time of 1:37 3-5. Dark Charmer, representing W. S. Kilmer, lost the place by a like distance and easily beat Delicacy for the show.

Risque carried 126 pounds, conceding gobs of weight to her rivals. She opened at 7 to 10 in the betting, but receded to even money when a lot of money showed for Flag Trick.

Steffen rode judiciously on the winner. He broke her in front and took a snug hold of his charge to show the way by a length over Flag Trick. Fields cracked Flag Trick with the whip around the bend, but through the stretch he settled down to a handride. Risque held the race safe without being forced to give all she had. Dark Charmer always had Delicacy under control for the minor spoils.

The Aiken Hunters Steeplechase, 2½ miles for hunters and ridden by gentlemen jockeys, drew out a field of 5, and the favorite, A. F. Goodwin's Bandit, was the winner, leading home Flying Horse Farm's Moholi with Foxcatcher Farm's Fairy Girl third. Land Boy, on whom Mr. Goodwin had declared to win with performed badly, being outrun from the start and finally pulled up last, 27 lengths back of the winner, which was his stablemate. Bandit took the lead at the end of a mile and, gradually increasing his advantage to the finish, won by 1½ lengths. Moholi beat Fairy Girl a like distance for the place.

Washington Park, Ill., June 3 (A.P.). Evergold, promising member of the Shandon Farm Stable, capped a field day for long shots over the muddy Washington Park track today by defeating a fast field over 7 furlongs in the feature event.

Osculator Favorite In $70,000 Belmont

New York, June 3 (A.P.).—Nine 3-year-old colts and one filly today were named for the sixty-fourth running of the $70,000 Belmont Stakes, which will be run over 1½ miles at Belmont Park tomorrow.

W. R. Coe's Osculator, second in the Withers mile, heads the list of entries. Burgoo King, winner of the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, and Boatswain, victor in the Withers mile, were not eligible for the race.

SALISBURY, never far from the pace, came fast to take command entering the stretch and taking a good lead in the run home, easily bested TONY JOE. The latter gained steadily in going that he favored and was going well at the end. LANIER was a factor at the start, but although finishing fast, was no threat. FOOLHARDY was never dangerous and had excuses. SANS COIN and WESTERN PRINCESS were used up making the pace. ESTIN showed a dull effort. CHECKERBERRY raced very wide in the first quarter and quit in the stretch.

EVERGOLD got through on the rail when CAMP BOSS raced wide on the back stretch and, taking a good lead after going half the distance, increased it as he went on to win easily. PEGGY LEHMAN came fast in the last quarter and easily bested the others. WAR GLOW was taken very wide by CAMP BOSS during the back stretch turn and met with considerable interference from the latter thereafter. CAMP BOSS, the early leader from the start, but was always outrun. WISE ADVOCATE bore out badly on the back stretch and continued to bear out slightly in the run home.

ZEVAR went to the front rounding the first turn and, opening up a good lead, was rated in advance of the others to the finish to win easily. RESPOND made a bid on the back stretch and when in the run home, but was not good enough. WINNIE JO had no excuses and never threatened the leaders. PING COATES raced evenly, but was never dangerous contender. THE SHOW OFF displayed a flash of early speed.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—GABBO, $8.04, $4.34, $3.36; HIGH STORM, $3.56, $2.52; HOW TIZ, $3.50.

GABBO was in close quarters while attempting to get through approaching the far turn, was then taken to the outside and, getting to the front after leaving the back stretch, opened up a long lead, but tired badly in the last furlong and was doing his best at the end. HIGH STORM raced HOMEWOOD into defeat and continuing gamely, was gaining on the winner at the finish. HOW TIZ stumbled at the start, closed a big gap and finished fastest of all. FREIGHT CLERK saved ground in the stretch.

STONE MARTIN followed DODGSON closely to the far turn then went to the front to take a long lead and was an easy winner. SUN FIRE moved up strongly during the back stretch run, but although finishing EL PUMA seemed to lack his usual dash in the stretch run. EL PUMA loomed dangerous at the stretch turn, but weakened near the end. CHENE was fairly well up throughout. CULLODEN was never dangerous and tired. DODGSON stopped badly.

MRS. MECKLEY PLAYS FOR MARYLAND GOLF TITLE TODAY

Indian Spring Star Meets Champion

Defeats Mrs. Hurst to Become Foe of Mrs. Morrow.

Mrs. Colladay Gains Consolation Final at Baltimore.

Special to The Washington Post.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 3.—Both being victorious today, Mrs. Betty Meckley, of Washington, and Mrs. E. Boyd Morrow, of Baltimore, will battle for the crown in the Maryland State golf tournament over the Elkridge Hunt Club course tomorrow afternoon.

As Mrs. Morrow, who hails from Elkridge, has been State champion five times already, the Indian Spring representative is faced with quite an assignment. Incidentally, the finals will be the first Washington-Baltimore title match in the twelve-year history of the championship.

Mrs. Meckley Avenges Mrs. Haynes.

Mrs. Meckley triumphed today by 6 and 4 over Mrs. William B. Hurst, jr., Elkridge, who upset Mrs. J. Marvin Haynes, Columbia player, yesterday. Mrs. Morrow conquered a clubmate, Mrs. W. Fairfield Peterson, 5 and 4.

Mrs. Meckley and Mrs. Hurst halved the first five holes. At the sixth the local player had two shots in the rough, while Mrs. Meckley was right down the middle and won the hole with a 5.

The Washington golfer also won the seventh, eight hand ninth mainly through short iron shots and made the turn 4 up.

After the tenth was halved a ponderous tee shot at the eleventh gave Mrs. Meckley the edge through the fairway and she won the hole with a par 5 to become 5 up. Mrs. Hurst came back with a fine par effort to take the twelfth. However, Mrs. Meckley drove the short thirteenth and won with a birdie 3, against her opponent's 4, to become 5 up again.

Mrs. Hurst Concedes Match on 14th.

Both were on the fourteenth green in 3. After Mrs. Hurst had used two putts to get to the edge of the cup, while Mrs. Meckley was only a club-length away in 4, the Elkridge player conceded the hole and the match.

Mrs. Stephen Colladay, Columbia, won again today in the first flight consolations, 7 and 5, her victim being Miss Mabel Whiteley, Elkridge.

At 10:30 a. m. tomorrow she will oppose Mrs. Jerome Sloman, Suburban Club champion, in the finals.

Three Legion Games Are Listed Tomorrow

Three games are scheduled in the American Legion series tomorrow. Bunker Hill meets Lincoln at 1 p. m. on the West Ellipse. At 3 o'clock, on the South Ellipse, Bunker Hill will play a second game with George Washington as its opponent. George Washington has a game with Spengler listed for 11 a. m. on the West Ellipse.

G. U. Prep Wins Title In School Net League

Georgetown Prep School won the championship of the Prep School Tennis League when Gonzaga defaulted in their scheduled match yesterday. The Garrett Parkers boasted a record of eight victories and one defeat in league play. Friends School was second with eight victories and two defeats. St. Alban's, Devitt and St. John's also competed in the loop.

The singles champion of the league will be determined today when Boyle, of Friends, and Cannon, of Georgetown Prep, clash at 3 p. m. on the Georgetown Prep courts.

Udaipur, 10-1, Wins Classic British Oaks

Epsom Downs, England, June 3 (A. P.).—The Aga Khan's Udaipur, an outsider, today won the 150th renewal of the Oaks, classic race for 3-year-old fillies, before a great crowd on the Downs, which included King George and other members of the royal family.

Udaipur won by two lengths from Lord Woolavington's Will o' the Wisp, with Lord Derby's Guidecca third, two lengths farther back.

The race was at a mile, 881 yards, the same distance as the derby.

Udaipur paid 10 to 1, Will o' the Wisp was 9 to 4 and Guidecca 10 to 1.

The stakes are £2,000 with extras, the total purse amounting to about £45,000.

Washington and Baltimore Gain Hotchkiss Net Final

Capital Team Downs Richmond With Only Mitchell Losing to Cabell; Baltimore Checks Norfolk; Jacobs Is Pressed.

Special to The Washington Post.

NORFOLK, Va., June 3.—Washington and Baltimore, perennial rivals in the final play-off for the Hotchkiss Tennis Trophy, moved into the title round once more this afternoon on the courts of the Norfolk Country Club. Washington won decisively from Richmond, eight matches to one, while Baltimore barely skinned by Norfolk, five matches to four.

Washington's lone loss came when Dooly Mitchell, recent winner of the City of Washington Tournament, was upset by Bob Cabell, former University of Virginia all-around athlete, in a brilliant three-set match: 7—5, 4—6, 6—3. Fighting with his back against the wall, Mitchell fought off eleven match points before succumbing in the third set.

Employing an assortment of terrific ground strokes, and showing a willingness to run miles without end, Cabell forged to 5—1 and 40-love in the third set only to be withheld by Mitchell's dynamic stroking. But finally success crowned his hard efforts and he ripped over a stunning placement on the final point.

Eddie Jacobs, head man of the Baltimore team, had a scare in the No. 1 singles match between Baltimore and Norfolk, when Gil Corrington gained set point in the first set by hitting chop strokes that bit deeply into the clever Baltimorean's courts. But Jacobs survived the set at 8—6 and went on to win the second by 6—1. Tomorrow's match between Baltimore and Washington is the tenth, in as many years, the two have met for the Hotchkiss Cup. Washington has been victorious the last four years. The meeting between Jacobs and Mitchell is expected to feature.

Singles—Cabell (R.) defeated Mitchell, 7—5, 4—6, 6—3; Mangan (W.) defeated Miller, 6—3, 6—3; Considine (W.) defeated Bickel, 6—4, 6—4; Hermann (W.) defeated Spicer, 6—2, 5—7, 6—2; Rutley (W.) defeated Joanson, 6—3, 6—4; Buchanan (W.) defeated Smith, 6—2, 6—2.

Alexandria Senior Series Opens Today

Colonials Oppose Nation-Wide Nine on Baggett's Field at 3:30 P. M.

Alexandria, Va., June 3.—The Colonials and Nation-Wide nines will meet in the inaugural contest for the city senior baseball title at Baggett's Stadium Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

Both have impressive records for independent games this season. The Storemen only last week hung a double lacing on the Triangle A. C.

Nation-Wide has secured Snubby Schreiner, high school catcher, to play with the team and also Frank Williams, of Richmond U.

Lefty George, formerly of the Cardinal A. C., will twirl for the Colonials.

On Sunday the Nation-Wide boys will play Griffith Blue-Coats on the high school field.

Charlie Corbett, manager of the Celtics, announces three games for his ball club. On Sunday the Franc Jewelers will play here. On June 12 the Skinker Eagles meet the locals, while the Ballston A. C. has been scheduled for June 19. The latter game is for the northern Virginia semipro title.

"Mystery Train" Trip Tomorrow Lures 2,000

Frank L. Jenkins, passenger traffic manager of the Southern Railway System, might well head for Hollywood, where mystery stories and plots are in big demand.

His latest is a "mystery train," that is to head, no one knows where, from Union Station at 9 a. m. tomorrow. It will arrive about noon, when an old-time Southern barbecue will be served, after which swimming, boating and hiking will be in order. One dollar and six bits covers everything, and to date over two thousand people have purchased tickets, and while they don't know where they are going, will soon be on their way.

Vice President E. R. Oliver, having been unable to learn the destination of one of his own trains, has canceled his usual Sunday foursome and has invited friends from Capitol Hill to join him in his private car. A news reel will be made of the novel trip and outing.

GEHRIG SLAMS FOUR SUCCESSIVE HOMERS

game. In 1898 Ed Delehanty, of the Philadelphia Nationals, did likewise. In the minor circuits, George Kelly, of Rochester, duplicated the feat in 1919, and in 1922 John Gillespie, of the Bridgeport Eastern League, equaled the performance.

But Gehrig made a modern major league record of consecutive homers, beating the record of three held by such modern hitting stars as Babe Ruth, Carl Reynolds, Goose Goslin, Mel Ott and Earl Averill. He equaled the all-time record for consecutive homers set by Robert Lowe, of Boston, in 1894, before the major leagues were formed.

Junior Nines Vie For Leadership

Georgetown Dixie Polish Rivals in Capital City Game Tomorrow.

"Buck" Trundle's slugging Georgetown aggregation will fight it out with the Dixie Polish tossers tomorrow for the leadership of the junior division of The Post's Capital City League. The game will be played on the East Ellipse diamond at 1 p. m.

Although the two clubs are traveling at a 1.000 pace, having won all of their league games, Georgetown is actually a half game ahead of its rival, as the latter did not play last Sunday. This half game gives the West-Enders a decided advantage in the battle, as it can drop no lower than second, while Dixie Polish can slide down into third should Swann Service win its game with Mount Rainier.

On paper the two clubs are evenly matched. Both have received good pitching and the hitting has been above par.

ILL HEALTH CAUSES M'GRAW TO RESIGN

McGraw adroitly encouraged his players to be cocky and truculent.

In handling the team, McGraw always was the supreme egotist. He was confident of his great knowledge of baseball, and almost forbade his players to think while on the diamond. They were to look to the dugout for instructions. He was in command. This domineering attitude won for him the title "Little Napoleon."

McGraw was born at Truxton, N. Y., April 7, 1873, and played his first professional baseball game in 1890. One year later he was second baseman of the famous Orioles, where he rose rapidly. He took over the managership of the Orioles in 1899, but served less than a season, yielding the position to Wilbert Robinson, who was deposed as manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers last year.

The Giants were a perennial second division club when McGraw took charge. He changed that almost immediately. Eighth in 1902, the Giants were second in 1903, and year after year he kept them at the top or close to it. For ten years his path was smoothed by perhaps the greatest pitcher who ever curved a ball, Christy Mathewson.

Nobody can estimate how much money McGraw made for successive owners of the club. One estimate is $20,000,000, which is, perhaps, as good as another.

Outside of baseball, McGraw, the autocrat, the strategist, the umpire baiter, the great little fighting man, became the "good thing" for down-and-out baseball players and sporting people of all kinds. Since he came into financial success not a year has passed that he hasn't handed out from $5,000 to $15,000 to charities of this sort.

Terry With Giants Since 1923.

The new manager, Bill Terry, has been with the Giants since 1923. He is 33. His home is in Memphis, Tenn. The Giants obtained him from the Little Rock Club in 1922, farmed him out to Toledo, where he became a first baseman and called him to New York in 1923.

Terry was a persistent holdout during the spring of this year, objecting to a cut in his 1931 salary of $24,000. He was brought to terms after a personal conference with McGraw. His salary this season is understood to be $20,000.

In announcing his resignation today McGraw gave the following statement to the press:

"For two years, due to ill health, I have been contemplating the necessity of turning over the management of the Giants to some one else.

"My doctor advised me, because of my sinus condition, that it would be inadvisable to attempt any road trips with the club this season, so I suggested to Mr. Stoneham that another manager be appointed inasmuch as it is impossible for me to manage the club unless I accompany it. To which Mr. Stoneham agreed.

"We therefore agreed on 'Bill' Terry, who, I think, has every qualification to make a successful manager. While my illness may be but temporary, I want it fully understood that Terry will have full and complete charge and control of the team and will have to assume entire responsibility therefore.

"I do not intend to retire from baseball, but will continue with the Giants, not only retaining my stockholdings, but also as vice president and as general advisor and counselor in business as well as baseball matters.

"I am turning over a good team to Terry, who, I believe, will capably handle it.

"During my 30 years with the Giants, the fans have been extremely loyal to me, for which they have my heartfelt thanks, and hope that they will give to Terry the same loyalty and support."

MANN BOOKS HEAVIES AT PORTNER'S

Nerron Battles Tow in 8-Rounder on Monday Night.

THE aspirations of young Bob Tow, Georgia heavyweight, are due for rude treatment next Monday night when he faces George Nerron, Greek heavyweight champion, in one of the eight-round bouts featuring the fistic program of the Alexandria Day Nursery.

Tow, a sparring partner for Bob Godwin, Southern light-heavyweight champion, recently knocked out Wid Matthews, of Baltimore, and then began gunning for Reds Barry, local pride. Instead of securing Barry, the Day Nursery management brought in Nerron as Tow's opponent, and judging from the records the Greek looms as formidable as Washington's famous redhead.

Nerron, 24 years of age and weighing 205 pounds, has fought Jack Dempsey, W. L. "Young" Stribling, Tuffy Griffiths, Knute Hansen, Paul Pantello, Salvatore Ruggirello and Paul Cavalier. The Greek lost to the first three mentioned, but won over the others.

Raspi to Meet Swetman.

Matchmaker Mann yesterday closed out the card, signing Young Raspi, Baltimore featherweight, to meet Doug Swetman, Washington, in the four-round preliminary.

In the other bouts of eight rounds, Billy Landers, Norfolk bantam, will engage Joe Fino, of Mexico, and Sylvan Bass, Baltimore middleweight, is to oppose Ken Overlin, of the U. S. S. Idaho.

Maxie Rosenbloom, light heavyweight champion will box at Fort Washington on June 27, probably against Bob Godwin, it was learned last night. Rosenbloom recently defeated Reds Barry at Twin City Arena.

Negotiations are under way to bring Midget Wolgast, flyweight champion, to Fort Washington on June 20.

SANDLOT DUST

BILL M'CREA, pilot of Auth's, doesn't toot his little tin horn very often, but when he does the blast is justified. Bill was singing the praises of his star southpaw the other day, one Mr. "Lefty" McMahon.

Mr. McMahon, according to Bill, is a pitcher of no mean ability. His most effective weapon is the ball that negotiates the distance between the pitcher's box and the plate in zero flat. Last season "Lefty" turned in 20 victories for Mount Rainier, and has won five games and lost none in Auth livery this season.

Boys Club Summer Camp Scheduled to Open June 27

CAMP REEDER, a summer camp sponsored and operated by the Washington Boys Clubs, will open for its eighth season Monday, June 27, it was announced yesterday by Charles M. Fyfe, director. The camp is located on the West Hatton farm, on the Wycoming River in Charles County, Maryland.

Modern facilities and 10 acres of ground enable officials to care for 75 boys. Swimming, canoeing, fishing, baseball, track, and target practice, which is conducted on a specially constructed range, are on the program. A staff of eight trained supervise all sports.

Members of the club may spend two weeks at the camp for the nominal sum of $12.50, including transportation. Each week thereafter the charge is $5.00. Nonmembers are accepted at the rate of $18.50 for two weeks, including transportation, and $8.00 each week thereafter. Former members may obtain the club rate by registering with Mr. Fyfe at the Boys Club. Those unable to meet the financial requirements in full, but who can help defray their expenses, are also invited to communicate with Mr. Fyfe.

Clark Gains Crown In Md. Trap-Shoot

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., June 3.—George Clark, of Annapolis, Md., is the new singles trap-shoot champion of Maryland. He earned the title today by defeating more than 60 marksmen who participated in the Oriole Gun Club's annual championship tournament. He made 198 out of a possible 200.

I. E. Ryler, jr., of Pikesville, Md., was the runner-up with a breakage of 196 targets. Clark replaces R. M. Lee, the 1931 title holder, who turned in a score of 190 today.

Scores of the Washingtonians who participated: J. Marcey, 189; Parker Cook, 188; F. Burrows, 186.

The Maryland State Handicap and doubles will be shot tomorrow.

Eastern Faculty Nine Wins in Annual Game

The annual game between the members of the Tech and Eastern High Schools' faculty, played yesterday, not only attracted a large throng of spectators, estimated in the neighborhood of 1,500 fans, but also resulted in one of the best games the teachers have ever played. Eastern won, 22 to 13, after five innings of torrid play. The issue also was decided in the record time of 3½ hours.

Foxley and Boyd twirled for Tech, much to the satisfaction of the Eastern sluggers. Suber toed the mound for the winners and went the route, aided by the sterling support of Charley Guyon, whose presence in right field was a signal to knock all balls in that direction, and Jack Collins at second base.

LEWIS BEATS STEIN.

Capper Bill Protest Made to City Heads

Objections of Utilities to Changing Tax System Are Recited.

The District Commissioners yesterday heard objections of local utility representatives to the Capper bill for changing the system of taxing public utilities in Washington, but their report to Congress will not be complete until early next week.

The utility delegation expressed their approval of the substitute gross-net tax proposed by the Public Utilities Commission. The Capper tax, an ad valorem assessment on personal property plus a 2 per cent tax on gross revenues, would impose too great burden on the utilities, the representatives said.

Such a tax, the Commissioners were told, would put the Capital Traction Co. in the hands of a receiver and would seriously reduce the revenue of the Washington Railway & Electric Co.

VETERANS' BUREAU TYPIST KILLS SELF

Ohio Woman Pens Note for Parents, but Does Not Disclose Motive.

Leaving a note beseeching family forgiveness, Miss Margaret Huff, 25, 815 Eighteenth street northwest, ended her life by inhaling illuminating gas in the kitchenette of an apartment she occupied with two other young women. A certificate of suicide was issued by Deputy Coroner C. J. Murphy.

Miss Huff was employed as a typist in the Veterans' Bureau. She had come here from her home in Tiffin, Ohio, last August. Only recently, she and Miss Beulah Hunter, her roommate, had returned from a vacation trip to the Ohio town. Neither Miss Hunter nor Miss Flossie Rogers, who also lives in the apartment, could assign any reason for their friend's act. Police learned that Miss Huff was treated by a physician Thursday.

The note left by the young woman was to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Huff, and read:

"My dear family, I am going to do something you will think is a disgrace. I am awfully sorry. I have always tried so hard not to make you unhappy, but I really believe if you knew how miserable I have been most of the time the last two years you would try to forgive me.

"Please don't blame any one but me for this, because I alone am responsible. Nothing any one else has anything to do with this. I am terribly sorry I am ruining mother's and Bob's trip. I'm just terribly selfish, I know, but I simply can not go on any longer. I love you all more than you'll ever guess, even though I'm not showing it now. Hoping that you will try to forgive me, I am your "PEGGY."

A sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James F. Callahan, live at 1620 Fuller street northwest.

Hearing of Raichle Is Set for June 20

Frank G. Raichle, former chief of defense attorneys for G. Bryan Pitts, will go on trial in the District Supreme Court June 20, it was decided yesterday. Raichle, a Buffalo lawyer, is faced with an indictment charging him with subornation of perjury and obstruction of justice.

Justice F. D. Letts, before whom the case will be tried, overruled last week a motion made by Raichle to suppress the indictment on the grounds that it contained serious legal defects. Pitts, now serving a fourteen-year sentence in Lorton, is expected to be one of the witnesses for the prosecution.

Lieut. Mansfield Due for Promotion

Captaincy Will Be Asked for Him, Is Decision of Glassford.

Decision to recommend to the District Commissioners the promotion of Lieut. Richard Mansfield to be a captain has been arrived at by Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police. The promotion would fill the vacancy caused by the retirement June 1 of Capt. Michael Raedy of the Ninth Precinct.

The promotion of Mansfield was recommended by a board of police inspectors which considered the list of eligibles. Other recommendations of the inspectors were also approved. They were:

Detective Sergt. Ben Kuehling to fill the vacancy created by Mansfield's promotion; Precinct Detective Charles H. Warder, of the Fifth Precinct, to be a detective sergeant, and the transfer of Detective Sergeant Floyd Truscott to be a uniformed sergeant. All of the men involved in the personnel changes have noteworthy records. Truscott performed signal service in his investigation of the Wimbley drowning case.

Alleged Intruder Held as Hammer-Wielder

Following the introduction of testimony in Police Court to the effect that he was found hiding in a closet in the home of Mildred H. Campbell, 804 Twenty-first street northwest, and that he struck the woman on the head with a hammer in an effort to escape, Nathan Scott, colored, 38 years old, was held for the action of the grand jury under a bond of $2,000.

The woman, upon discovering Scott, according to the testimony, ran to the stairs and fell down them; Scott ran to her and struck her on the head with a hammer. He was captured in a chase shortly after he left the house.

INQUEST SET TODAY IN FATAL ACCIDENT

John Marshall, Jr., Will Be Witness in Defense Highway Crash Quiz.

John Marshall, jr., son of the former Assistant Attorney General, driver of a car which was involved in a fatal collision Thursday with another auto on the Defense highway, will be summoned today as a witness at an inquest to be held into the death of Clarence B. Alsop, killed in the crash.

Marshall, who lives at 2405 Tracy place northwest, was also injured in the accident, as were six other persons. He was brought to Garfield Hospital with William C. Shepherd, of the Grafton Hotel, a passenger in his machine. Marshall is suffering from concussion of the brain, while Shepherd was cut and bruised.

Others injured when the two cars collided near Collington were Mrs. Grace Alsop, of 546 Fourteenth street southeast; her daughter Doris, her brother-in-law Joseph, Miss Sarah Beedle, and Joseph F. Reynolds, all of Washington.

No date has been set for the inquest to be held into the death of Lucille Markward, of Brentwood, killed in a crash in which ten others were injured at Sargent and Chillum roads. Judge John A. Downing said that he did not know when the other victims would be able to leave the hospital. John McClary, of Brentwood, who was said by police to have been in the accident, was not in the car at the time. The Post was told last night.

At the College of Liberal Arts a program of entertainment and music was presented as part of commencement week festivities.

Prof. Charles C. Tansill reviewed the last ten years, telling how the number of courses had increased from 66 to 153, the teaching staff from 19 to 65, and the students from 37 to 245. Others participating in the program at the banquet included David Lawrence, Dean Walter M. W. Splawn, Chancellor Lucius C. Clark, Bishop William F. McDowell, Commissioner Clyde B. Aitchison, of the Interstate Commerce Commission; Dr. Arthur C. Christie, president of the board of trustees of the university, and Bishop John W. Hamilton.

Grant Dedicates Shepherd School

Asserts Americans Fail in Building and Managing Cities.

One thing the United States has failed in is the ability to build and manage cities, Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of Public Buildings and Public Parks, said last night at the dedication exercises of the Alexander R. Shepherd School. The only city which has been a success over a long period of years, he stated, is Washington.

The school which has been in use since February was opened to public inspection after a dedicatory ceremony. Among the speakers were George M. Whitwell, member of the Board of Education; Joseph H. Wilson, president of the Sixteenth Street Heights Citizens' Association; Mrs. Joseph N. Saunders, president of the District of Columbia Congress of Parents and Teachers; Dr. Julia L. Hahn, supervising principal of the third division of public schools, and Miss Janice Blum, principal of the new school.

Alexander R. Shepherd, son of Gov. Shepherd, for whom the school was named, presented a picture of his father to the school. Mrs. Grace Merchant, Mrs. R. S. Wagner, and Mrs. E. A. Quintard, daughters of Gov. Shepherd, who was the director of the early municipal government in Washington, were present at the ceremony.

RUM HAULERS FREED FOR ILLEGAL SEARCH BUT ARE LECTURED

Court, Acting on Precedent, Severely Criticizes Two Falcones.

DECLARES HE REGARDS PAIR AS LAW-BREAKERS

Justice Proctor Forced to Abide by Rulings of Higher Bench.

After severely lecturing Gilbert and Mike Falcone yesterday, Justice James M. Proctor, sitting in the Criminal Court of the District Supreme Court set aside their conviction on charges of violating the national prohibition act when Defense Attorney Harry T. Whelan pointed out that their arrest had been based upon an unlawful search.

Refer to Supreme Court.

Attorney Whelan raised the point at the time of the trial of the two, and his point was taken under advisement pending further scrutiny of United States Supreme Court rulings. Justice Proctor found a case that coincided with the facts in this case, and with that as a basis he voided a jury's findings of guilty for both men.

The point on which the question of illegal search arose was that an officer came up to an automobile occupied by the two Falcones, asked them what they had in the car and when he was told that there was nothing in it, he searched it, finding nineteen quarts. The courts have consistently held that such a search was not legal.

Holds Both Guilty.

Justice Proctor told both men that they had better not come before the courts again for they would be dealt with sternly. He said that in his opinion both were guilty, but that he had nothing to do but follow a controlling case cited by Attorney Whelan.

Heads of District Cited on Dry Law

Must Answer Mandamus on Enforcement of Code in Liquor Dealings.

The District Commissioners were cited by Justice Jesse C. Adkins in the District Supreme Court yesterday to appear before him June 13 and show why they should not be placed under a mandatory injunction to obtain strict observance of certain provisions of the District code relating to liquor dealings here.

A request for such an order was made by John R. Mahoney, 333 C street southeast, through Attorney Matthew E. O'Brien. Mr. Mahoney contended that some of the provisions of the code, known as the Sheppard dry laws for the District, were not being followed by the Commissioners.

Most of the alleged infractions of the code as alleged in the bill were that public records of liquor transactions were not being kept open to the public.

Capt. Magyar Injured In Landing at Airport

Capt. Alex Magyar, noted Hungarian flier, was slightly injured yesterday when a plane he was landing at Washington-Hoover Airport nosed over after striking a rough spot on the field. Coleman J. Barney, passenger of Capt. Magyar, was uninjured.

A bent propeller was the only damage to the plane, a Pacer experimental, which the Hungarian aviator had flown from Fords, N. J. Capt. Magyar last year flew from New York to Budapest. Two weeks ago Capt. Georges Endres, who made the transatlantic flight with Capt. Magyar, was killed in a crash at Rome.

JURY IS GIVEN CASE OF CLARK ON CHARGE OF EMBEZZLEMENT

Accused Former Montgomery Official Fails to Take Stand at Hearing.

HIS ACTIONS DEFENDED IN TESTIMONY OF WIFE

28-Year Financial Struggles of Family Described; Quizzed on Checks.

Berry E. Clark, former clerk to the Montgomery County Commissioners, failed to take the stand in his own defense as his trial on charges of embezzlement of county funds neared its close last night. The case went to the jury at 10 p. m. last night and at an early hour this morning had not reported.

The defense rested its case at 2:40 o'clock following the presentation of Mrs. Berry E. Clark, wife of the defendant, as a witness. Mrs. Clark told a story of financial difficulties which have lasted through the 28 years of their married life. She said they had not been extravagant in their mode of living and that Mr. Clark had never at any time had any great amount of money besides his salary and some he made by doing extra work.

Mrs. Clark testified that the only vacation taken by her husband in years was three days at Atlantic City. Because of her invalid condition she had required the services of a maid, but this was dispensed with when Mr. Clark was discharged. Mrs. Clark said that she is now a grandmother, that her daughter, Dorothy, recently became a mother. The daughter, Mrs. Charles Prettyman, was unable to attend the trial.

Questioned on Checks.

State's Attorney Stedman Prescott then showed her checks on Clark's personal account and asked her the purposes for which they were drawn. Several large household bills and sums given the daughter were pointed out to the jury by Prescott.

The wife was brought into court hobbling on a crutch and a chair was taken out of the witness box for her because she could not step up. When she had completed her testimony she went to her husband's side and sat by him while State's Attorney Prescott summed up the State's evidence.

Prescott declared that the question before the jury is "whether a public official can with impunity take the public money and I am going to prove to you with mathematical exactness that he took $426 and to show intent that he took $6,000 and added this to his personal account and $1,200 from his clerk's account payable to himself." Prescott then proceeded again to present the various checks of the clerk's account, totaling $35,000, together with the checks of the personal account to the jury.

Defense Argument.

F. Barnard Welch, of defense counsel, opened the defense argument. He charged that Clark is being made the goat of an intense desire to send him to the penitentiary and that the alleged shortages were but the fault of slovenly bookkeeping which had been ratified by the county commissioners and by their auditor, Robert D. Hagner, who had been on the stand earlier in the day.

A number of prominent citizens were placed on the stand by the defense as character witnesses, one of whom was Hagner, who testified that his audit had not been completed because Clark had not showed him books containing the matter of the alleged shortage.

Allan M. Rinehart, a photographer for the Washington Herald, who had attempted to take a picture of the courtroom, was fined $100 for contempt of court. His camera was confiscated for the term of the court.

Commissioners Favor Death for Kidnapers

The District Commissioners yesterday indicated their approval of the proposed amendment to the District code providing a penalty of life imprisonment or electrocution for kidnaping, but decided to ask for an opinion from United States Leo A. Rover before sending a report to Congress.

Vernon E. West, acting corporation counsel, recommended a favorable report on the measure, but pointed out that prosecution would have to be made by the United States attorney's office.

YOUNG DEMOCRATS TO MEET TUESDAY

Jouett Shouse Will Address Club on Preconvention Status of Party.

The Young Democrats Club of Washington will hold its next meeting Tuesday evening, at 8:15, in the garden room of the Hotel Mayflower.

Jouett Shouse, chairman of the executive committee of the Democratic national committee, will be the guest speaker. Mr. Shouse is held to be the best-posted man in the country on the preconvention status of the Democratic party. He knows all the prospective candidates of the party and is familiar with the political trends and local line-ups in every part of the Nation. Hence his views and predictions as to the Democratic prospects for this year will be about as close to authenticity as it is possible to get in politics, it is claimed.

While it is improbable that Mr. Shouse will attempt to make predictions as to the nominee of the Chicago convention, yet he will be asked to talk about the convention and his utterances will be followed closely by political observers.

There is great interest being shown on the part of the younger members of the Democratic party in the approaching election. Strong young Democratic organizations are now in process of formation in practically all of the States. The goal of the Young Democratic Clubs of America, with which the Young Democrat Club of Washington is affiliated, is 1,000,000 members by November. Tyre Taylor, president of the national organization, reports that there are at the present date more than 375,000 members. The young people of the country want a new deal in Washington, and they are also looking to the Democratic party to give it to them, officers in the organization say.

Trained Dog Plays Truant From Show

Gentry Brothers Quickly Put Understudy in Ring, but Star Comes Back.

Santa Claus nearly upset the afternoon performance of Gentry Brothers trained animal shows, at Wisconsin avenue and Yuma street northwest, yesterday afternoon. He played 'hookey.'

Santa Claus is the principal clown dog. Just before the doors opened for the matinee he was among the missing. Being prepared for any emergency, Henry B. Gentry, manager of the shows, stepped in the ring and put Santa's understudy through his paces.

The substitute worked perfectly in the performance. As soon as possible Mr. Gentry sent several employes scouting for the truant. Each returned and reported he could not find the dog. The men were informed the dog came back of his own accord.

Auto Fractures Boy's Leg.

POST RECORD TEST WINNERS FLY NORTH

Are Entertained by R. C. A.-Victor Officials at Their Camden Plant.

One hour and fifteen minutes after they had boarded one of the huge 18-passenger planes of Eastern Air Transport at Washington-Hoover Airport yesterday morning, Virginia Sellars and Louis Annis, winners of the recent Washington Post-RCA Victor recording contest, were welcomed at Central Airport, Camden, N. J., by officials of the RCA-Victor Co., and speeded by automobile to the famous Victor recording laboratories for formal auditions.

The Herb Gordon Trio, also first prize winners in the professional classification, joined the party at Baltimore, where they are now filling professional engagements.

After a tour of the Victor Co. plant, The Post recorders were the luncheon guests of the Victor Co. at Camden's finest hotel, later returning to the laboratories to sing for the official auditors.

The trip was made by plane at the request of Mr. Annis, who was scheduled to sing over station WRC at 7 o'clock last night, and who otherwise would have been unable to secure the necessary time at the laboratories. Leaving Camden at 5 p. m., the party arrived in Washington at 6:25 and thus allowed Mr. Annis to fulfill his radio engagement.

Incidentally, Mr. Annis will be heard on The Washington Post program over station WOL at 5:45 o'clock next Monday night, and Miss Sellars is scheduled to sing from station WRC at 4 p. m. on the following Wednesday.

The complete list of more than 50 winners of prize awards in The Post's recording contest was published on Sunday, May 8.

Hearing of Means Starts Wednesday

Decision Reached as Court Overrules Demurrer and Motion to Quash.

Gaston B. Means will go on trial Wednesday on an indictment charging him with grand larceny and embezzlement. That was decided yesterday after Justice James M. Proctor, in the District Supreme Court, overruled a demurrer and a motion to quash, both aimed at the indictment by T. Morris Wampler, chief defense counsel for Means.

Wampler attacked the indictment on the grounds of a misjoinder of offenses and also because he said the indictment was bad in substance. United States Attorney Leo A. Rover defended the indictment and pointed out sections of the code governing an indictment that covered two felonies.

Means is alleged to have obtained $100,000 from Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean to effect the restoration of the Lindbergh baby to its parents. He also is alleged to have collected $4,000 expense money.
